Telegraph Service Crippled and Trains Delayed as 65-Mile Gale Sweeps East.

March provided yesterday her usual storm, and the snow, whipped by a sixty-five-mile gale, for a time tied up harbor traffic, crippled wires, caused delay to railroad trains, and resulted in an unusual number of accidents in this city. It was the first storm of Spring, and more severe than any during the Winter. About an inch and a half of snow fell, almost breaking the record of two inches for the entire Winter.

It will be fair and warmer today and tomorrow, according to the weather forecast. The strong northwest gales, however, are expected to continue.

Railroad and shipping men said that the only thing that saved the situation was that the temperature did not go down below freezing. Instead, it hovered around 30 degrees. It had been colder on Thursday night and in the very early hours of the morning, and the rain which preceded the snowfall had formed a thin coat of ice over third rails and made the operation of elevated railroads extremely difficult.

The Injured.

BULGER, EDWARD, 2,144 Eighth Avenue; ankle injured when his automobile overturned; treated by ambulance surgeon.
CAHILL, MARGARET, 616 St. Nicholas Avenue; struck by an automobile.
CHILE, JENNY, 5,011 New Utrecht Av., Brooklyn; struck by automobile.
CRAIG, MARGARET, 119 West 138th Street; fell in river.
KEARNEY, ANNA; struck by automobile.
KENNEDY, JULIA, 139 Main Street, Johnstown, Penn.; struck by mail wagon, contusions of right hip.
MORLEY, ANTHONY, 231 East Fifty-fourth Street; struck by automobile, lacerations of the face.
MARCOWITZ, JACOB, 311 Lexington Avenue, Brooklyn; struck by car, taken to St. John's Hospital with lacerated face.
MOORE, ELIZABETH, 249 West 103d St.; blown down and received a possible fracture of arm.
NIGOLETTA, ——, 409 Adelphi Street, Brooklyn; struck by army truck; to the Jewish Hospital with internal injuries.
SCHAEFFER, MARY, 408 East 58th St.; struck by automobile; to Roosevelt Hospital.
SCHMIDT, JOHN, 434 East Fifty-first Street; fell down elevated stairs; contusions of legs.
STEPHANOK, JOSEPH, 1,450 First Avenue; skull fractured in a vehicular collision; to Bellevue Hospital.
STRAUSS, LOUIS L., 165 Montrose Avenue, Brooklyn; scalp lacerated in automobile.
WILLIS, WALTER, 264 West Nineteenth Street; struck by automobile, fractured leg; to St. Vincent's Hospital.
WILL, CATHERINE, 165 Montrose Avenue, Brooklyn; lacerations of the head in automobile collision.

Wire Service Crippled.

The storm crippled wire service south of Philadelphia and affected service on other lines running through the storm area. It also made navigation in and about the harbor extremely difficult. It was not thick enough, however, to impede the progress of transatlantic liners, and during the day eleven of them struggled through the wind-driven snow to their piers or anchorages.

The harbor police who usually have two boats out patrolling the harbor put an additional boat into commission yesterday. No little part of police duty yesterday was warning the skippers to be sure that their craft were securely tied up. It was, as one policeman explained, a sort of off-shore trying of doors, just as the policeman on beat goes from store door to store door to see that everything is all right.

Service was suspended on the Second Avenue elevated line between 2 A. M. and 5 A. M., because of ice on the third rail. The first southbound train to leave the East 129th Street yard following the resumption of traffic, caught fire near Forty-eighth Street Station as the result of a short circuit. The fire was quickly extinguished by the firemen with a delay to traffic of fifteen minutes.

Observation at the Manhattan end of the Brooklyn bridge did not seem to bear out the statement of some of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, that there was only a three-minute delay in the running time on the surface lines. Some of the cars that came over the bridge were said to be from 10 to 15 minutes behind their schedules, and so great was the congestion there during the day that extra police from the Bridge Station in Brooklyn, were sent over to keep cars moving on the loops and passengers out of harm's way.

It was not until 7 o'clock last night that things began to assume a normal aspect at the end of the bridge. The discomfort that faced the workers was not so great in the evening as in the morning when the temperature was lower and when the gale was at its height. Many of those who live in outlying sections had to tramp through the slush to get to the cars and then had to take their place in the lines that gathered at different points where travel is heavy and at points of transfer.

Thousands Wait for Cars.

Between the tracks of the loops at the New York end of the Brooklyn Bridge thousands of persons were gathered at times waiting for cars. There was considerable struggle among the home-

Seize Two Germans in Paris, Supposed to be Red Agents

PARIS, March 28, (French Wireless Service.)—Two Germans, Eli Markenstein and Aaron Siegol, were arrested when they alighted from a Metz train in Paris Tuesday, it became known today. They had no tickets, but carried passports from Berlin. The authorities believe that the Germans are Bolshevist agents, and M. Priollet was appointed to conduct an investigation. The Germans are now in the Santé Prison.

A report from Amsterdam quotes the Handelsblad as saying that nine Bolshevist agents who escaped from Germany were arrested Wednesday in the province of Guelders. Their identification papers were not in good order and several of the men carried revolvers.

STATE INCOME TAX BILL INTRODUCED

Senator Davenport Predicts Dark Future Unless Wasteful Expenditures Are Stopped.

LEVY RAISES $50,000,000

State Deficit Is $25,000,000, While Treasuries of Municipalities Lack $33,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 28.—The future of free Government in the State is very dark unless a way is found to check wasteful and uncontrolled expenditures, the special Legislative Tax Investigation Committee, which today introduced a series of three bills designed to meet the deficit in the State's treasury, will report to the Legislature soon, according to Senator Davenport, its Chairman.

"It is our purpose in submitting the report," said Senator Davenport today, "to record the conviction that no solution of the tax problem of the State of New York can be found if the growth of public expenditure is to continue without check or effective control. We shall suggest that means be at once determined upon to diminish waste and extravagance wherever these are found; to determine whether the State and the localities have been borrowing improvidently; to determine the effect of tax limitation laws and to find out the best methods for the authorization of public expenditures and the disposal of public moneys."

The State's deficit approximates $25,000,000. One of the measures introduced today, providing for a State income tax, is expected to realize close to $50,000,000, which is to be divided equally between the State and the localities in which it is collected. In framing this measure the legislators took into consideration that the municipalities of the State lack some $33,000,000 of having a completed treasury. The bill providing an increase of from 3 to 4½ per cent. tax on the net incomes of corporations is not expected to realize any revenue, while the third measure, providing for a tax on tangible personal property, is not expected by some of the legislators to pass.

"It is found that it is impossible to depend upon the taxation of personal property as an adequate source of revenue. Personal property taxation at the existing confiscatory rate has lamentably failed, and if this base is even to be retained as a part of our system, it must be after experiment with the taxation of personal property under a more just rate and more just condition.

"We came by the process of exclusion to the personal income tax as the one which meets the need and conforms to the demands of justice and fairness in taxation," said Senator Davenport. "The committee earnestly recommends it as the core of our system. The income tax should be greatly reduced in the nation and more and more employed by the States. If blind centralization at Washington is to be avoided, if free Government is to be permanently workable, the citizens in the separate Commonwealths must be brought face to face with the State Government, its responsibilities and its needs."

Senator Davenport declared that the income tax alone may fail to solve local municipal problems, especially in New York City, where overtaxation of real estate had become acute.

"If this should prove to be the case additional supplementary taxes may be imposed for distinctly local purposes, such as a low rate tax on tangible personal property or an optional local business tax," he continued. "The committee has had supplementary bills prepared covering these two proposals."

While there has been some objection to the income tax, particularly up-State, legislative leaders believe such a tax is the only way out, and there is every likelihood that it will become a law.

Deductions are permitted under the bill in the computation of gross and net incomes. Practically the only deductions permitted under gross income are money on hand, or deposit, or at interest. Bonds, notes, and shares of stock corporations, other than banks and banking associations or constituting a part of a trust or an estate, are to be taxed.

Proceeds of life insurance policies and interest upon obligations of the United States or its possessions or securities issued under the Federal Farm Loan act of July 17, 1916, or bonds issued by the War Finance Corporation or the obligations of the State or of any municipal corporation or political subdivision heretofore issued are nontaxable, but State or local bonds issued hereafter are to be taxed. Australians See Danger in Broad Monroe Amendment

PARIS, March 28, (Associated Press.)—The Australian peace delegates have pointed out that the proposed amendment to the League of Nations covenant regarding the Monroe Doctrine, providing for recognition of the binding force of policies heretofore applied, would validate and confirm Japanese claims to preponderance in China and the Orient.

Fear is expressed in some quarters that the opposition which has developed on this account may jeopardize the amendment. Experts are trying to find a formula that will overcome this objection, and, meanwhile, the amendment has been withheld from insertion in the covenant.

PARIS, March 27.—A peculiar situation, not yet explained, has arisen in connection with the revision of the League of Nations covenant. This situation affects the United States in relation to the Monroe Doctrine. Last night the League of Nations Commission, under President Wilson's Chairmanship, finished its amendatory work on the covenant, authorizing a large number of changes—some material, but the bulk of a minor character—intended to perfect the phraseology of the document.

It was President Wilson's purpose to offer an amendment which was intended to give more or less specific indorsement to the Monroe Doctrine. But he failed to do so, and the covenant was sent to the Committee on Revision with no sanction from the League Commission to insert anything pertaining to the traditional American policy.

On Monday night the President went to a meeting of the League Commission intending to offer an amendment affecting the Monroe Doctrine. This amendment had been drafted by ex-President Taft and cabled to Paris. Article X. of the covenant is the article in which the Monroe Doctrine principle would appropriately be stated. When the article was reached at the Monday night session the President asked that the discussion of the article be postponed until Wednesday, as the amendment which he intended to offer did not quite cover the situation and it was necessary to revise it.

When Article X. was reached last night the President did not offer his amendment, and the article was passed without revision.

Siberians Take Ufa from Reds; Lithuanians Nearing Vilna

LONDON, March 28, (Associated Press.)—A dispatch from Omsk announces that Admiral Kolchak's Army, as a result of a brilliant attack and much hard fighting, has recaptured the town of Ufa, which recently was occupied by the Bolsheviki.

The dispatch adds that the Red Army is now threatened with envelopment.

STOCKHOLM, March 28, (French Wireless Service.)—The Bolsheviki continue to fall back along their entire western front north of the Pripet marshes, according to a report from Kovno.

It is expected that Vilna, the capital of Lithuania, will soon be evacuated by the Bolsheviki.

CALL VOLUNTEERS TO RELIEVE 50,000

War Department to Replace Men Overseas Who Have Reason to Return Home.

Drafted Troops Who Failed to Get Abroad Are Expected to Respond.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—The War Department has decided to make an immediate call for 50,000 volunteers for service in Europe with the American Expeditionary Forces. The call has been prepared and will be issued immediately by the War Department, so as to enable the recruiting of these volunteers to begin at once.

The purpose of the department in raising this force is declared to be to obtain 50,000 men to take the places of an equal number of drafted enlisted men who have good reasons for coming back to this country, under the rules laid down by the War Department relative to demobilization. The 50,000 to be relieved cannot be spared, it is explained, unless they are relieved, and to obtain the relief force of 50,000 men it will be necessary to ask for volunteers.

The department does not anticipate that it will have any trouble in raising the number of volunteers fixed.

The men will be sent to Camp Meade, Maryland, for concentration and training, and will be sent overseas as soon as possible in batches of 1,000 men each. It is hoped and expected that a number of men who have already seen service in France or in the army elsewhere, and who are willing to re-enter the service will volunteer.

It is also the expectation that some drafted men who have been demobilized, but who were unable to get overseas as a result of the signing of the armistice, may volunteer, now that they will have an opportunity to go abroad.

Lloyd George Says League Ideals Demand Sacrifices from England and America

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 28.—Premier Lloyd George has sent to The Manchester Guardian, which tomorrow will publish a special League of Peace number, a message in which he says:

"All our hopes of saving the world from a repetition of the unfathomable cataclysm of 1914 centre upon our working out the principal means whereby the nations of the earth can conduct the common affairs of the world in friendly co-operation instead of jealous rivalry. The principle of the League of Nations has been accepted, but the League of Nations will prove fruitless if it is to be no more than a new piece of international organization.

"What matters is that the units which make up this organization shall be inspired by a real determination to work in close harmony together for the betterment and liberty of mankind. The nations must not let themselves believe that, having drawn up a paper constitution, the peace of the world has been made secure. If they allow themselves to be bemused by this policy they will only be reawakened by a new war.

"They have now to see that the League of Nations is made the effective instrument for the solution of every international problem. By their own readiness to make sacrifices on its behalf America and Great Britain, who have taken such a leading and honorable part in promoting this beneficent scheme, must give practical demonstration of their belief in it. Disarmament is an essential condition of success. We cannot expect nations ravaged by war to trust their desolated lands to the protection of the League if its advocates hesitates to show any confidence themselves in its guardianship. To set up a Society of Nations to insure fraternity among the peoples of the earth, while at the same time increasing armies and navies to insure effective fratricide, is to make a mocking of a great ideal."

BIG FOUR AGAIN DELAYED

RHINE FRONTIER WANTED

Military Leaders Consulted on Precautions in Case Germany Balked at Terms.

By Wireless and Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 28.—Further serious delay was encountered this afternoon by the Big Four in their effort to reach an early conclusion on the first draft of the preliminary treaty of peace.

The new obstacle is an entirely new set of claims from the French Government in the matter of reparation. Reparation was on the program this morning, but was passed until the afternoon because Premier Clemenceau announced that there were some changes he would like to make in the French claims. He certainly made them.

In the program which he presented this afternoon France calls for the entire Saar Valley in perpetuity.

This territory had previously been included in the French scheme only as a part of the general readjustment of the western boundary of Germany. In that form it had been opposed by America and England as an annexation project which would create a German irredenta and provoke future wars.

Now France puts forth the same claim in another form, demanding it, because of its coal mines, as part of the reparation account, and calling it payment in kind for the French mining regions which were ruined by the Germans. But America and England still persist in calling the project a scheme of annexation which is not to be tolerated.

This latest move once more throws the entire reparation question into confusion.

Foch and Pershing Called In.

The fact that Marshal Foch, General Pershing, and General Wilson of England were called before President Wilson and Premiers Clemenceau, Lloyd George, and Orlando yesterday is interpreted as meaning that the big four are weighing even the remotest possibilities of what may happen when the peace treaty is handed to the German delegates for signature.

This by no means indicates danger on the western front. Such a renewal is entirely outside the calculations of President Wilson and Lloyd George. It is not desired nor in the least expected by Clemenceau, but he still believes that it is absolutely necessary to remain ready to fight and keep intact a military force strong enough to prevent Germany from evading all the peace terms that the Allies would impose.

Marshal Foch and the American and British Generals had been asked before their conference with the peacemakers to have ready the latest reports of the morale and strength of their respective armies.

Demobilization in France is to cease, temporarily at least, next Monday. That is not because of some sudden decision growing out of the immediate European situation.

It is because the French demobilization program has never been worked out beyond that date. Between Nov. 11 and March 31 France will have released about 2,000,000 men, the total strength of all classes from 1888 to 1896 inclusive. She will have still left with the colors after Monday thirteen classes, comprising considerably more than 2,000,000 men.

While the halt of the demobilization process next week is not due to any new plan, based on fear of a renewal of the fighting, it is equally true that the demobilization program would have been extended far beyond March 31 if the French had been satisfied with the Peace Conference progress up to the present moment.

England's demobilization program covers the entire year of 1919, and there is no intention at the present moment to check it.

Neither is there any plan to inter-

America and England Opposed to War on Reds; Lenine Said to Have Sought Recognition by U. S.

By CHARLES A. SELDEN.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Co.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 28.—An American representative who recently returned from Russia, where he talked with Lenine, will soon make a statement on which some new plan of dealing with the Bolsheviki may be based.

The proposal to scrape together all the available allied troops in Eastern Europe—estimated at half a million—to fight the Bolsheviki, the campaign being under the general supervision of Marshal Foch, has been rejected by America and England on the ground that it would not be effective, and also that it would be too much like starting a new war when the world was clamoring for peace.

PARIS, March 28.—A rumor was current last night that the United States had received a note from Premier Lenine and War Minister Trotzky of the Russian Soviet Government asking recognition for that Government, says Marcel Hutin in the Echo de Paris today.

M. Hutin adds that he "cannot say that President Wilson is disinclined to give the request favorable consideration."

BERLIN TO RESIST MOVE ON DANZIG

SUSPECT ENTENTE SCHEME

See Nothing in Armistice to Warrant Proposal—Polish Diet for Alliance with Entente.

PARIS, March 28.—News was received here today that the Germans were increasing the garrison at Danzig.

This is taken as indicating an intention to resist whatever disposition the Peace Conference may make of the port.

BERLIN, March 28, (Associated Press.)—General Nudant, representing Marshal Foch, submitted a note Wednesday to the German Government, demanding a passage through Danzig for the Polish divisions under General Haller, which are a part of the allied army, and permission for their further march to Poland to maintain order. The note added that any refusal would be regarded as a breach of the armistice.

The German Government, after exhaustive deliberations by the party leaders, laid down its standpoint in a reply which asserted that, according to the armistice treaty, it was only obliged to grant the Allies free access to the Vistula to maintain order in territories of the former Russian Empire. In concluding the treaty, the Government declared, it proceeded in any case from the standpoint that there could be no question of Polish troops.

The note then referred to incidents during the journey of Paderewski, the Polish Premier, "who, grossly violating the hospitality accorded him on German soil, gave the signal for revolt and civil war, and when he was in Danzig in December said: 'If the Polish divisions from France and Italy should be in Danzig, then Danzig and all West Prussia would be Polish.'"

Proceeding, the note referred to numerous demonstrations by the German majority in West Prussia, who wished to resist Polish attacks by force, and said that by such civil warfare the German eastern front against Russian Bolshevism would be endangered.

Wants Guarantees on Haller's Army.

In conclusion, the communication asked for information as to the composition and strength of General Haller's army, the date of its landing and transit of Poland, and what guarantees the Allies could offer that the army, or a portion of it, would not participate in Polish demonstrations or a possible insurrection of the Polish minority.

The Lokal Anzeiger thinks that a serious situation has arisen through the exchange of notes between General Nudant and the German Government. While it does not abandon hope that General Nudant will accept the German reply as a concession, the newspaper fears that his note has no other aim than to deliver Danzig to the Poles, and counsels the Government not to yield an inch.

The Zeitung am Mittag accuses the Entente statesmen of having had their brains addled by the occurrences in Hungary.

AMSTERDAM, March 28.—The German Government's reply to the allied note concerning Danzig stated that it could not take the responsibility for permitting the Poles to land at Danzig, but was prepared to facilitate a landing at Stettin, Koenigsberg, Memel, or Libau.

PARIS, March 28.—The announcement that General Mangin has been summoned to Paris for conference with Premier Clemenceau has given rise to a world of conjectures. The General's military reputation and his later success as an army administrator in the Rhine provinces lend credence to the report that he is about to receive an important post in Eastern Europe—it is rumored, the command and co-ordination of the allied activities against the Bolsheviki.

At the same time there is a persistent rumor in British and American circles that before resorting to force the Allies will make another attempt to treat with Lenine. Pichon's statement in the Chamber last Wednesday defined the French point of view clearly enough. It will be only under pressure that the French will consent to abandon the idea of forcible military action against the present rulers of Russia.

At the moment of cabling these two opposing plans—those of the olive branch and of the sword—appear to be nearly equally balanced as the proposed Russian policy. Despite the Prinkipo fiasco, there is a slight shade of odds in favor of the former.

Meantime, the selection of Mangin, in case vigorous measures carry the day, calls attention to a point advanced by many Frenchmen nowadays, and not only in military circles. How is it, they say, that such men as Pétain, Gouraud, Fayolle, Humbert, or Mangin—all of whom displayed conspicuous ability during the war—have now no share in national affairs? Foch, it is true, is a figure of international importance, and De Goutte has increased his military reputation by his services on the Brussels Commission, but these others are unemployed. Even Joffre is practically a cipher as far as the life of France is concerned. Surely, it is argued, such men, who have proved their capacity in the hardest of schools, ought not to be overlooked at a time when the fate of France hangs in the balance, and when, it cannot be denied, there is widespread anxiety lest the claims and interests of France be allowed to suffer in the scramble for a speedy peace.

Unfortunately, distrust of the military is deeply ingrained in the French Republic. Despite the magnificent achievements of the French Army during the war, fear of "the man on horseback" cannot be wholly eradicated from the hearts of civilian leaders. There is no dearth of great men in France today, but unless a striking change occurs those of them who wear a uniform will continue to have less importance than any Caillautist Boanerges of a Socialist Deputy in Parliament.

PARIS IS DISCUSSING INVITATION TO LENINE

Growing Belief That the Russian Reds Must Be Called to Conference.

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 27.—The extraordinary situation which has been created by Hungary's virtual defiance of the allied powers and the sudden impetus given to extreme radicalism by the accession of the Bolshevist Government at Budapest has not cleared for the better in any way. It is doubtful if any positive action has been taken by the plenipotentiaries of the allied powers, although there is talk of forming armies and adopting other measures suggesting the use of force. One significant feature of the situation is the widespread opinion, among men not interested in Bolshevism or friendly to it, that Lenine will have to be called to Paris before the foundations for real peace can be laid.

Lloyd George visualized something like this early in the Peace Conference, when he proposed inviting the Bolsheviki to confer with the allied representatives. Stephen Pichon, for France, rejected Lloyd George's proposal; and the unauthorized publication of his communication on the subject created great commotion. Subsequently President Wilson endeavored to effect a compromise by suggesting that allied representatives meet the envoys of all the Russian factions—Bolshevik and anti-Bolshevik alike—at Prinkipo Island in the Sea of Marmora. Some factions accepted. The Bolsheviki agreed, but proposing conditions which the peace plenipotentiaries regarded as insulting.

Since then there has been no direct communication between any allied Government and the Bolshevist Government, except when William C. Bullitt of the State Department went to Moscow this month as an observer for the American Peace Commission. He has reported that the moderate element of the Bolsheviki is in control, and has given the Moscow Government rather a clean bill of health.

The great rise in the quotation of Bolshevist stock through the accession of the new Hungarian Government and its apparent belief that it is able to defy the entire combination of Allied Powers have made the peace plenipotentiaries realize the grave danger which confronts the world. Some of those informed do not hesitate to express the fear that the imposition of too harsh terms on Germany may give strength to the Bolshevist elements in that country. The American and British plenipotentiaries have been preaching to their foreign associates that it would be unwise to impose conditions on Germany which would serve to intensify hatred and lay the foundation for another war.

It was a consideration of this character that induced President Wilson to offer a resolution in the Supreme Council curtailing the powers of the Permanent Armistice Commission. The President and others felt that Marshal Foch, who headed the commission, and some other members, all military men, were too harsh in their terms. Under the Wilson resolution, which was adopted, the Supreme Economic Commission was created, with power to overrule the economic arrangements made by the Armistice Commission.

The milder policy of the Economic Commission has been shown in the invitation extended to the German financial delegates to attend a conference at Versailles to arrange the details connected with the use of the German securities in the purchase of food from the Allies.

The Germans have accepted and will be at Versailles on Monday. Among them is a brother of Paul M. Warburg, former member of the Federal Reserve Board at Washington. These will be the first German civilian Commissioners to come to France since 1914. The coming of the German financiers to Versailles is regarded as a distinct step in the direction of peace.

REDS READY TO COMPROMISE.

Copyright, 1919, by The Chicago Tribune.

PETROGRAD, March 28.—From the very frank conversations I have had with the Soviet leaders here—it is astonishing how frank they are—I am sure that they are prepared to make big concessions to the world. They will make physical concessions in point of land, factories, exploitations, and payment of Russia's debts; they will make concessions within themselves. On only one point will they not bend: Under no conditions will they call new general elections.

They will compromise with the outside world, with the peasants who must grow their food, with the classes who have talent, science, and genius to remake and keep going their broken factories and economic life, and they will compromise with themselves.

The new type of Communist leader is a practical, hard-headed man. He knows that in order to carry out his new scheme of a social order he must make concessions and compromises. He has pinned his faith on a world revolution. When he sees this hope gone he will make terms with the world.

Today the Chief of Police of Petrograd is Bill Shutuv, who used to be one of the American organizers of the Industrial Workers of the World.

The Bolsheviki have reversed the old order. It is they who are now trying to feed the people, run the factories, and settle, instead of making, strikes; to keep the peace instead of breaking it. They are changing right under their own waistcoats. They are compromising, but they don't know it. There is a deal of difference between Bill Shutuv, American strike leader, and Comrade Shutuv, Chief of Police of the City of Petrograd.

AMERICANS HEAD OFF SPARTACIDE RISING

Scatter Russian Prisoners From Ruhleben Camp Whom Reds Had Intended to Arm.

LONDON, March 28.—Action by American troops looking after Russian prisoners in Germany is believed to have nipped in the bud an important Bolshevist plot, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Berlin, dated yesterday.

The Spartacides in Spandau, the message states, had planned a big rising for Thursday, intending to arm several thousand Russians from the Ruhleben Camp. The Americans, however, rushed the prisoners on board trains Wednesday night and scattered them under the Americans throughout Germany.

The dispatch adds that the Spartacides had intended to spring their revolt as a means of backing up the Hungarian Bolshevist move.

ROYALIST PLOT IN RUSSIA.

Reds Said to Have Shot Twenty-one of the Conspirators.

STOCKHOLM, March 28.—An alleged royalist conspiracy has been discovered at Penza, northwest of Saratov, in Eastern European Russia, according to the Russian newspaper Krasnaya Gazetta, and twenty-one persons have been shot by the Bolsheviki in connection with the plot. The alleged leader was Sukotine, a former Marshal of the Russian nobility, who was a local commissary under the Bolshevist régime. Sukotine was executed.

The conspirators, according to the newspaper, planned to palm off a nephew of the Bishop of Ufa as the Grand Duke Dmitri Pavlovitch, carry him to Moscow, and make a dramatic appeal to the people from the Kremlin.

The former Grand Duke Dmitri Pavlovitch has been in England and is an honorary Captain in the British Army. He is next in succession to the Russian throne to Alexis, the only son of the former Emperor, who is understood to have been put to death with his father by the Bolsheviki.

FEARS THAT SOCIALISTS MAY TURN BOLSHEVIKI

Dutch Minister Says They Will Decide According to Chances of Success.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, March 27.—Speaking to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent on the danger of Bolshevism, Minister of Justice Heemskerk said:

"I think it is the greatest danger in the world at present. If the Spartacides succeed in getting the upper hand in Germany it will be necessary for all the western powers to join forces to keep Bolshevism away from France, Belgium, and Holland. I fear the Socialists will not be strong enough to resist the influence of Bolshevism, which calls itself communism in Germany and Holland. At present, the Germany Socialists are associated with the Freisinnige and the Catholic parties, but it is possible that they will be unable to resist the strong Communist impetus from the East."

"What is the exact position in Holland?" asked the correspondent.

"We have a proportional vote, and the Second Chamber is a photograph of the country. Of the 100 members, 22 are regular Socialists, 2 out-and-out Communists, and 2 revolutionary Socialists, who are associated with the Communists. But the regular Socialists may become revolutionary again at any moment. A congress is to be held soon and a resolution will be proposed that the Socialists prefer the continuance of the ordinary methods of parliamentary procedure, but at the same time are keeping an eye on the course of events to see if a favorable opportunity occurs to secure power for the proletarian classes. This means that they will allow the probability of success to decide them.

"Until now the Socialists have been on bad terms with the Communists, but if the Central European Socialists are obliged to join forces with the Communists, then I think the Dutch Socialists will follow the example of the other Socialists.

"The Dutch Communist Wynkoop is always in touch with the Russian Bolsheviki and German Spartacides. The formula of Communist principles adopted by Wynkoop is for every one to give what he can and to take what he wants. This is applied to life, goods, and women."

The Minister here referred to the massacres and other horrible cruelties resulting from the application of these principles.

"Now, you say, this applies to Russia. But Bolshevism is international in its methods of working and its aims, and you may be sure they hope even to infect America. It is moral infection and a repetition of militarism. The new militarism of the laborers and soldiers is intended to base the government merely on the power of a certain class of people whom they call the proletariat."

The correspondent asked the Minister whether he considered the ex-Kaiser still a political factor in Germany.

"I believe the Kaiser is politically done for and that there is no chance that he will come into power again. We do not want any political intrigues here. If the Kaiser remains here, he must continue to live in the country, for if he lived in town it would cause demonstrations. Should a formal demand for his extradition come, it would have to be judged according to treaty law, and our national law states that a tribunal from his temporary residence would have to advise the Minister of Justice, who would have to decide on the application."

AWAIT PEACE TERMS TO TURN BOLSHEVIKI

By JULIAN GRANDE.

ernment is working wonders, while another agency will send news about Bolshevist excesses and outrages, with the object of extorting better terms from the Paris Conference, but both agencies will be under the same management.

In Germany, however, Prussian militarism still constitutes the main danger, and speedy peace is the only means of preventing it from joining Bolshevism. Hunger alone is not responsible for Germany's Bolshevist tendencies, but the murderous teachings of war. During four years the average German has seen nothing but human slaughter and preparations therefor.

The Gazette de Lausanne suggests that all neutral countries and also the Allies should form an international army, largely of volunteers, to combat and suppress Bolshevism, otherwise all the expenditure of blood and treasure during the war may be vain. Even in Switzerland the Bolshevist influence is so powerful that the Government has mobilized extra troops because the heads of most of the working class urban population have already been turned by Bolshevist propaganda.

LONDON, March 28.—Premier Lenine has sent a wireless message to the Hungarian Government urging it to send an army against Vienna, according to a Budapest dispatch received in Berlin and forwarded by the Exchange Telegraph Company. Lenine promised to advance 100,000,000 kronen to finance the project.

PARIS, March 28, (Havas.)—The Communist elements in Austria are planning a movement to gain control of the Government, the correspondent of the Matin at The Hague says he learns from Vienna. The movement would begin simultaneously in Vienna, Linz, and Gratz.

VIENNA, March 27.—The railroad strike threatens to spread to all the roads in this country. The strike was called partly for higher wages and partly because of sympathy with the Hungarian revolution. It is feared it may lead to the establishment of a Soviet republic in German-Austria.

All traffic over the Southern Railroad is at a complete standstill, even allied food trains from Trieste being stopped. As a result of this interruption of transportation of supplies Vienna is threatened with famine. The situation is considered extremely grave.

COPENHAGEN, March 28.—Emissaries of the Hungarian Revolutionary Governing Council handed their credentials to the President of the German-Austrian National Assembly at Vienna yesterday, according to a Budapest dispatch received here. Hopes for the continuance of amicable relations between Hungary and German-Austria were mutually expressed, it is said.

PLEDGE AID TO HUNGARIANS

Countermove by Royalists Develops —Hysteria Attributed to Underfeeding.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, March 26.—The peace outlook is regarded as having very considerably improved during the last few days. The departure for Paris of the German Financial Commission today is regarded as the real beginning of peace negotiations, and the news is heartily welcomed all around.

There is a good deal less talk of the rabid kind about impossible peace terms and the need for rejecting them.

The danger of Bolshevism, as emphasized by the Hungarian events, still fills people's minds with alarm. The impression grows that Bolshevism's next onslaught will be in the direction of and into Rumania. The situation there is reported to be exceedingly bad, and as thus preparing the way for the spread of Bolshevism in that quarter.

Red forces are reported to be in varying strength along the eastern Rumanian frontier, while throughout the country itself no small number of Lenine's agents are said to be very active.

The communists in the Berlin Workers' Councils are greatly encouraged by the Hungarian move, and at today's gathering some of them declared that only world revolution could prevent Germany's collapse and a peace imposed by force. They said that they looked forward to Germany being a Soviet Republic before the end of the year.

COPENHAGEN, March 27.—News today from Berlin is significant in view of tendencies at work there at the moment. A few days ago Budapest hailed Moscow on the occasion of the proclamation of a Soviet Republic in Hungary. Now Berlin's proletariat hails the Budapest.

The Workers' and Soldiers' Councils of Greater Berlin are having a plenary sitting at present in connection with their forthcoming General Congress. At their meeting yesterday it was decided to send the following telegram to Budapest:

"The Workers' Councils of Greater Berlin congratulate the Hungarian proletariat on their victory and the setting up of a Soviet Republic. They admire the Hungarian proletariat's heroic fight, which is part of the international proletariat's battle against capitalism and reaction. This general meeting promises its Hungarian brothers its strongest support."

The decision to send this telegram was taken, according to the Berlinske Tidende, almost unanimously, only ten out of 1,500 delegates voting against it. General debate followed on the Soviet system, in which a radical speaker declared that all opposition would have to be beaten down, and that, as in Russia, the bourgeoisie must be ruthlessly dealt with.

"Long enough," he cried, "has this class been the home of privilege. The time has now come when the Soviet system is to hoist the proletariat into the seat of power."

Cabinet Firm to Royalists.

The other present tendency at work in Germany, the Royalist movement, was discussed at Weimar yesterday afternoon. The Imperial Cabinet there considered the events of Sunday last, when "a few" officers misused the patriotic demonstrations and seized the occasion to deliver Royalist speeches. The Cabinet decided that a sharp attitude must be adopted toward such proceedings, and Chancellor Scheidemann is to make a statement on the subject at the meeting of the National Assembly.

Ludendorff's name is much used by those directing the reactionary movement, but it would seem that the Government is not afraid of him. A proposal is to be placed before the National Assembly, according to a report just received from Berlin, to set up a court before which, at their own request, Ludendorff, Bethmann-Hollweg, and others will have to justify themselves. The same court will also deal with all those persons whose conduct of the war brought dishonor upon Germany. The result of these inquiries bodes ill for either the Government or the reactionaries.

The Berlingske Tidende received a message from Berlin this afternoon to the effect that at the meeting of the Prussian National Assembly yesterday a vehement attack on the whole present system of government in Germany was delivered by the Agrarians and Conservatives, and that the Socialist Prime Minister, Hirsh, in reply interpreted this attack as a declaration of war by the reactionary forces.

The attack was led by Herr von Kardorff, who threw all moderation aside and fulminated against the Workers' and Soldiers' Councils and the Government. He declared that the revolution was the greatest crime ever committed against the German people.

This declaration had a startling effect, the Conservatives cheering themselves hoarse and the Democrats setting up a counter-demonstration. The speech was a clear call to the Junker class.

Hirsch replied, equally vehemently, to this open challenge. His party, he said, would consider it to be its most important task to crush with all the means at its disposal a reactionary counter-revolution. The Minister of Finance, Dr. Suedekum, also spoke and excited the Conservatives to fury. They shouted that they would eject him if he was not more careful.

Emotionalism Blamed on Hunger.

THE HAGUE, March 27.—Will food arrive in time to stem the torrent of Bolshevism that is sweeping over Europe from the east, is the question on the lips of all who are following the events in Germany closely. In the normal, order-loving, systematic German of pre-war days, Bolshevism would not have found fertile soil. But it is now recognized that the majority of Germans are in a pathological state, based on the physical state.

"Underfeeding's chief symptoms," said a well-known professor to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent, "are extreme irritability and weakness. The few who do have ideas have crazy ideas, and the others follow apathetically. Germans who have played with the idea of Bolshevism as a threat against the Allies now see it turned against their own country.

"Everything is playing into the hands of the Communists. They are glad that food has not arrived, and will prevent its distribution if possible, as this strengthens their cause."

The Socialist Congress to be held on April 4 is expected to affect the situation seriously.

Fifty million marks in gold has arrived at Rotterdam from the German Imperial Bank and is deposited in the South African Bank, where it will remain as security for food.

TRIED TO DETACH ITALY FROM ALLIES

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Information has reached Washington through diplomatic channels that four Hungarians were sent from Budapest to Rome on a special diplomatic mission shortly before the Karolyi Government turned over the reins of power to Bela Kun and other Bolshevist leaders.

The delegation, it appears, was part of an effort by Hungary to produce a rift in the ranks of the Allies by appealing to Italy in the interest of a suggested Italo-Hungarian entente as opposed to what was represented to be a Franco-Jugoslav entente. The consideration sought was defense by Italy at the Peace Conference of Hungary's alleged territorial rights.

Complete failure attended the mission, the Italian Government refusing to have anything to do with the delegates, but it is considered significant that these steps were taken by Hungary shortly before control, or semblance of control over Budapest, was given to the Bolsheviki.

ABSORBS COMMUNIST GROUP.

Bela Kun, on Lenine's Advice, Unites Factions in Proletarian Party.

BUDAPEST, March 28, via Copenhagen, (Associated Press.)—Bela Kun, the Hungarian Foreign Minister, in an address to delegates of the old Communist Party on the change in régime, declared that with the inception of the united revolutionary action the moment had arrived to liquidate the Communist Party.

The Soviet Constitution, Bela Kun continued, was being worked out on the basis of instructions by Lenine, the Bolshevist Premier, but that Lenine had declared it was unnecessary to copy the mistakes of the Russian revolution. A dictatorship, the Foreign Minister added, did not necessarily signify terrorism, which was only one of a dictatorship's weapons to be used when needful.

Bela Kun's resolution dissolving the Communist Party and forming a united Proletarian Party was carried unanimously.

By a Government order former Ministers Alexander Szfnak and Joseph Szfenzi have been lodged in prison.

LONDON, March 27.—Count Michael Karolyi, former Hungarian Premier, is enjoying complete liberty in Budapest, as are other members of the Government, who were compelled to resign when the Soviet uprising took place, according to a Hungarian Government wireless dispatch received here.

fere with the home-going schedule of the American troops.

While these American and allied troops are keeping guard on the Rhine the argument of the peacemakers in Paris, so far as the main idea is concerned, is narrowing down to the question, "How stiff can we make the peace terms without making them so stiff that Germany will not sign?"

An old phrase has been revived—"peace without victory"—but this time it is on the other side of the Rhine that they are clamoring for such a peace.

France is deadly afraid that they will get it. The French are afraid that Lloyd George is too greatly impressed by the stories and reports flooding into Paris every day as to the terms Germany will not accept. If there is any weakening on the part of the British Premier toward Germany it is attributed to his fear of German rejection of the terms and the consequences of such a rejection.

Interpreting Wilson's Position.

The French analyze Wilson's attitude somewhat differently. They are disturbed because he also is determined to be far more lenient with the enemy than they approve, just as they have been disturbed the same way by the same thing ever since Washington began conversations with Vienna and Berlin last October. But in the case of the American President the French do not attribute his attitude to fear of what Germany may do or may not do, but to his belief that Germany must be set going as quickly as possible as an orderly nation instead of being crushed and annihilated.

France has long since abandoned the annihilation program, not because she does not still believe it would be the best thing for herself and the world (for she does) but because of her hopelessness of getting American, English, and Italian support.

France also admits that Germany would not now sign the treaty France would like to frame, but on the other hand the French are far from consenting to give Germany a peace that would be without all victory for the Allies. Hence her keenness for maintaining a vigorous military menace on the Rhine. One of her arguments is that the maintenance of a strong force in readiness to fight until the definitive peace is signed is the surest guarantee that such fighting will not be necessary.

Furthermore, France discounts very heavily as mere truculence and propaganda the reports coming from Germany, as to what that country will refuse to do. But such of this as is genuine France thinks should be received as a reason for stiffening toward the enemy, not weakening.

Warns of German Treachery.

"Germany is trying to frighten us," said a French statesman to me today, "by a barrage of refusals not to submit to huimilation and by refusals to accept the lot of a conquered country. Under the cover of such a barrage she plans to send her most skilled diplomatic tricksters to Paris for the business of putting Germany into the position of a victor. We must not become victims of the trick, for already we have irrevocably lost too much of what the surrender last November should have assured."

Demands That Rhine Be Frontier.

PARIS, March 28.—The Council of Four today continued its examination into the question of the German frontier. France claimed all her 1914 frontier and the Saar Basin, leaving to the German populations, not included in the frontier, political autonomy.

It was demanded by the French delegate that the Rhine serve France as a natural frontier, Germany having the left bank of the stream, but without fortified works, troops, or railways.

The council in the morning deliberated on the question of the Polish frontier, according to the newspapers, who believe that there will be difficulty in reaching an agreement on the principle of the annexation to Poland of territory containing two to three million Germans. The papers believe that the council will reach a decision sooner on the question of reparations than on the Polish question.

At yesterday's session of the Council of Four extremely important problems directly connected with Germany's future boundaries were discussed by the Council in an excellent spirit of understanding, it is said. Le Petit Parisien says it understands important results were achieved.

According to Le Matin the territorial questions involved and the problem of protecting France adequately have been satisfactorily solved, although by means not foreseen in discussions of the problem outside the conference.

As to the financial problems, the solution reported to have been adopted provides for the payment by Germany of yearly installments on the indemnity, of which France would receive a portion sufficient to lighten the burden of her budget.

Hopes are expressed in Peace Conference circles that the preliminary peace treaty may be signed by April 20.

It is reported that the amendment to the League of Nations covenant, urged by Leon Bourgeois, which provides for a permanent military and naval staff for the League, has been rejected by the League Commission.

The membership of each State in the Executive Council of the League of Nations, Reuter's Limited says it understands, will be increased from two to three for each State represented in the council. The third member will probably be a representative of labor.

LONDON, March 28.—Reuter's Paris correspondent says that he learns that the American peace delegates are prepared to agree with the British delegates on their view concerning the Polish corridor to Danzig.

CALL FINANCE MEETING FOR COMPIEGNE

Only to Consider Food Payments, Says Paris, but Berlin Has Large Expectations.

PARIS, March 28, (Associated Press.)—German financial delegates will meet the representatives of the Supreme Economic Council some time the coming week at Compiègne, about forty miles northeast of Paris.

The German delegation is summoned to consider questions relative to the securities that Germany has to offer in payment for food. Germany has increased her deposit of gold at Brussels as a partial payment for relief supplies, and additional cargoes are expected to arrive at Hamburg tomorrow.

Neutrals have also been invited to send financial representatives to confer with delegates to the Peace Conference regarding German securities sold in their countries which might be applied to payments for food.

It is understood that an agreement was reached at Brussels on March 14 by which Germany would be permitted to export certain classes of goods in order to pay for food supplies and that this agreement now becomes effective. The embargo on war material, gold, silver, and securities will be maintained, but Germany may export such products as coal, dyestuffs, various iron and steel manufactures, sugar, window glass, electrical machinery, and other articles.

Any of the allied Governments may buy these products and their representatives are expected to proceed to Cologne to arrange details as to prices. Purchases by the Allies are not to exceed two-thirds of the surplus of any of these products which Germany has for sale. The other third may be exported as Germany may see fit.

BERLIN, March 27, (Associated Press.)—The German Financial Commission will leave Weimar equipped with the fullest instructions.

Some German newspapers regard the reported choice of Versailles as the meeting place as an indication that the delegates will not be allowed to participate as equal negotiators. Other papers maintain that the Entente has no such intention, since such a move would upset things from the start.

The press is partly convinced by the tone of the Entente invitation that the German Financial Commission will have questions of considerable importance to work upon and that it will be regarded as a regular and permament connecting link between the Economic Council and the German peace delegation.

It is expected that important financial and economic questions which will start immediately on the arrival of the commission will lead directly to genuinely political negotiations with which the Peace Commission will deal.

GERMANY TO INVITE AMERICAN CAPITAL

Dr. Schiffer, Minister of Finance, Pleads for Terms to Help Economic Rehabilitation.

INDUCEMENTS TO INVESTORS

Remission of Taxation for Foreigners—Tells of Burdens Germany Must Meet.

BERLIN, March 27, (Associated Press.)—Germany is not bankrupt, because it has the possibility of work, Dr. Schiffer, the Minister of Finance, told the correspondent today in discussing the financial situation.

"But," he continued, "she will become bankrupt, so far as it is possible to say at present, whenever the possibility of working is taken away. The financial outlook simply disappears into nothingness in case of an unfavorable peace that does not give us an opportunity to recover our equilibrium."

Dr. Schiffer repeats the German complaint that delay in making peace increased the danger of Bolshevism, but expressed optimism for the future if Germany were able to obtain food and raw material. He said that special inducements in the form of lighter taxation or immunity from certain taxes would be offered to foreign, especially American, capital.

"In any event," he said, "no American or other foreigner not a resident of Germany will be subject to property taxes. Similarly, Germans resident abroad will be free from property taxes. Americans and other foreigners will be immune from the 10 per cent. tax which it is planned to impose upon investment capital."

The Finance Minister pointed out that American investment was especially favorable under the present rate of exchange.

After remarking that the new German taxation system must await the peace treaty, the Finance Minnster said that Germany was faced with the payment, first, of its before-the-war debts and credits granted by neutrals; second, with internal war debts—loans in support of war sufferers and so forth—and, third, the indemnity it may have to pay. Until the amount of the indemnity was definitely established, there could be no tax legislation beyond general outlines.

Dr. Schiffer insisted upon the necessity of paying old obligations owing to the urgent need of credit with which to rehabilitate the country. He said he realized that the amount which would have to be raised would be very great, but he believed it could be raised.

Every known means of raising money would be resorted to, he said, especially through direct and indirect taxes. The Minister warned the public that taxation would be extended to a degree hitherto unknown in Germany and in a frankly anti-plutocratic way. He said that income property would be taxed heavily both for the purpose of raising money and for the economic effect on prices, because he believed that prices would fall as the purchasing power of the mark decreased.

The railroads of Germany have been separated from the already overloaded Ministry of Public Works and the control of them has been made an individual Ministry. Herr Hoff, former Prussian Minister of Public Works, has been appointed Minister of Railways in the National Government. He will go to Weimar at once to undertake preliminary measures for unifying the various State railways into one central organization.

DENIES AGGRESSION IN RUSSIA.

Noske Says Germans Will Not Attack in Courland or Ukraine.

WEIMAR, March 27.—Replying in the National Assembly today to a question regarding the message sent to Budapest by M. Tchitcherin, the Foreign Minister of the Russian Soviet Government, describing the position of the Russian Soviet army, Gustav Noske, the Minister of Defense, said that the Russian statement was untrue so far as it referred to the German troops.

The Letts and the Lithuanians were mainly involved in the fighting in the Baltic countries, Herr Noske said, and the Germans had only occupied the railway line to safeguard the bringing up of supplies. The German authorities, he stated, had agreed that no offensive should be undertaken in Courland or the Ukraine by German forces.

"It is certain that the safeguarding of the Eastern frontier will unfortunately still be necessary," the Minister of Defense added, "but the Government only entertains a lively wish to live in peace and good neighborliness with Russia."

In his wireless message to Budapest M. Tchitcherin was quoted in press dispatches as asserting that Field Marshal von Hindenburg was carrying out an advance on Kovno, which lies directly east of East Prussia and immediately to the south of the Province of Courland.

TROTHA HEADS GERMAN NAVY.

Former Adjutant to the Kaiser Is Elevated to Post.

COPENHAGEN, March 28.—Rear Admiral Adolf von Trotha has been appointed chief of the German Admiralty, a Berlin dispatch says. The German Government has decided that the navy in the future shall be under the direction of the Chief of the Admiralty who will have a seat, but no vote, in the Cabinet.

Before the war Rear Admiral Adolf von Trotha, then a Captain, was one of the naval adjutants to the Emperor and commanded the battleship Kaiser.

POPE REPLIES ON PRISONERS

"Exalted Personage" He Consulted Is Said to be Wilson.

COPENHAGEN, March 28, (Associated Press.)—The Cologne Volkszeitung reproduces an autograph reply of Pope Benedict to a request of Cardinal von Hartmann, Archbishop of Cologne, that the Pontiff intervene to secure the release of German prisoners of war. The Pope in his reply is quoted as saying that he consulted with an "exalted personage."

The Berlin Lokal-Anzeiger, referring to the correspondence, assumes that the "exalted personage" is President Wilson, and says that the Pope believes this personage "entirely shares our wishes and is inclined to support them."

COPENHAGEN, March 27.—A delegation from the Chamber of Commerce in Flensborg, Southern Schleswig, told the Danish Parliament their wish to be reunited to Denmark. The city has now turned Danish, and the delegation asked the Government to work for permitting as much as possible of the country, south of Flensborg, to return to Denmark.

Today a delegation from most of the southern part, representing a population that has been pro-Danish through generations, goes to Paris to ask the Conference for permission to be added to Denmark.

COL. HOUSE PRAISES NORWAY.

Christiania Might Be Seat of League if Not So Remote.

PARIS, March 28.—Norway was praised as a friend of the Entente by Colonel E. M. House, when the Norwegian delegation on the League of Nations was presented to him today by Leon Bourgeois, French member of the League of Nations Commission.

"No neutral nation gave the Entente more help than Norway," Colonel House told the delegation. "Were Christiania not so remote from the centre of European activities," Colonel House added, "that city would have been suggested as the seat of the League of Nations."

For League Debate After Peace.

BOSTON, March 28.—The State Senate today unanimously adopted resolutions urging a speedy conclusion of peace with Germany and consideration of a League of Nations after the treaty was signed. The action was taken by a viva voce vote.

DISCUSS WILSON'S DELAY

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

and Wednesday nights to change the President's intention to propose the amendment to Article X. has not been disclosed. He still has an opportunity to offer it when the Revision Committee reports the full text of the covenant for the commission's approval. Whether he will suggest recognition of the principle of America's superior rights in the Western Hemisphere is something about which extraordinary secrecy is being maintained in American inner circles.

Another surprise at last night's session of the League Commission was the failure of the Japanese to press their amendment calling for racial nondiscrimination among the nations of the world. The Japanese were supposed to have been satisfied with what was regarded as a perfectly innocuous and very indirect reference to this subject in the covenant's preamble. But it appears that they were not. They wanted a much more direct and comprehensive amendment. It was understood that they would offer and press it at last night's meeting of the Commission. Their failure to do so caused surprise.

It is merely a suggestion, apparently, but a suggestion of a pointed character, that the failure of the President to offer the Monroe Doctrine amendment is bound up with the Japanese action in withholding the amendment concerning racial equality throughout the world. It is suggested that perhaps the Japanese gave notice that if the Monroe Doctrine was indorsed, they would demand a more specific indorsement of the principle of racial nondiscrimination. At any rate, the President's negative course is being associated in some quarters with the Japanese negative course, and vice versa. The Japanese have not, however, withdrawn their reservation made at the last plenary session of the Peace Conference, which gives them the right to offer their proposal to the peace delegates.

Among the most important amendments to the League covenant made by the Commission last night were the provision that any nation might withdraw from the League on two years' notice, which meets the criticism voiced by Senator Lodge, and the provision permitting the appointment of women to all offices of the League. The covenant, as it will look when the Revision Committee finishes it, will hardly be recognized as the same document carried to America by President Wilson.

DENY FREE IMMIGRATION PLAN

Japanese Cable Contradiction of Newspaper Report.

The report of an alleged Japanese demand for a free immigration clause in the peace covenant, as cabled to The Chicago Tribune, is declared false by a cable from Paris to the Rev. Dr. Sidney L. Gulick, Secretary of the Commission on Relations with the Orient of the Churches of Christ in America.

The Tribune dispatch from Paris March 18 stated that "President Wilson told Viscount Matsui that it was impossible for Japan to put into the peace covenant a special article permitting equal rights of immigration with Caucassians." Mr. Matsui, it was added, "accepted this with the reservation that some time in the future Japan would insist on the right to reopen the question regarding free immigration as well as of no discrimination against Japanese owning property or working in any country which was a member of the League."

Dr. Gulick, having just returned from Paris where he had conferences with members of the Japanese delegation, sent to Y. Matsuoka, Secretary of the delegation, the following cable on March 20:

> The Chicago Tribune says that on Tuesday, March 18, President Wilson told Viscount Matsui that the League covenant could not guarantee freedom of immigration. Mr. Matsui in accepting the statement reserved Japan's right later to reopen the immigration question. Cable facts.

A reply received yesterday reads:

> The Tribune report is entirely unfounded. Our delegates are simply moving for insertion in the covenant of the broad principle of equality of treatment of citizens of States which are members of the League of Nations. The immigration question was never touched. MATSUOKA.

In commenting on this dispatch Dr. Gulick said:

"In the light of this reply from Mr. Matsuoka, the Japanese contention is quite clear. Japan wishes it clearly stated that citizens of any country that is a member of the League of Nations, who may be temporarily or even permanently resident in any other country that is a member of the League, shall not be subjected to differential treatment by the laws of that land. This is not at all a question of immigration, but of good neighborliness."

VOICE PROTEST AT TOKIO.

Resolution Adopted at Mass Meeting Opposing League Covenant.

TOKIO, March 25, (Associated Press.)—At a mass meeting of prominent residents of Tokio tonight a resolution was adopted opposing any League of Nations covenant which does not contain a clause abolishing racial discrimination. The resolution also urged opposition to the abolition of conscription, the acquisition by Japan of the German rights on the Shangtung peninsula, and opposition to the international labor agreement which, it was declared, is not adapted to the constitution of Japan and to Japan's internal condition.

A large number of Japanese newspapers recently have printed editorials looking with suspicion on the motives of the United States and Americans in world politics, especially concerning China, Siberia, and Korea. The editorial campaign is attributed in some quarters to displeasure over the League of Nations covenant.

Tokio, Feb. 27, (Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—In the House of Peers today a member presented an interpellation regarding the terms and the period of enforcement of the "gentlemen's agreement," concluded in 1907 between Japan and the United States, and asked whether the said agreement is intended to be kept in force forever. He stated that he had heard that the regulation of emigration was enforced more strictly by the Japanese authorities than by the Americans. He wanted to know the reason why Japanese are being subjected to such regulations while the Mexicans and Filipinos are admitted freely to America.

M. Shidehara, Vice Minister of Foreign Affairs, replied that the so-called "gentlemen's agreement" did not exist. There was a voluntary declaration made by Japan for regulating the influx of Japanese to America. It means that no Japanese may emigrate, but that those who are already in America are free to call their families from Japan. The Imperial Government is bound to live up to its declaration, he said.

Many a time, he added, anti-Japanese laws are understood to have been brought before American legislatures but, owing to, and in appreciation of, Japan's efforts, all such anti-Japanese measures have failed to pass. The said declaration will be kept in force for some time yet. It may be abolished when the Japanese immigrants convince the American authorities that their presence is no cause of danger to American institutions.

EXPECT MONROE AMENDMENT.

Officials in Washington Receive Informal Advices from Paris.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Publication of the amended draft of the League of Nations covenant within a few days, with a provision safeguarding the Monroe Doctrine among its new clauses, is expected by Administration officials here as a result of informal advices received today from members of the American party at Paris.

No official information has reached here concerning the failure of the League commission to include the Monroe Doctrine amendment in the covenant as it was sent to the Drafting Committee yesterday. Officials express confidence, however, that President Wilson will insist upon such a provision being in the final draft when passed upon by the Council of Ten or the Peace Conference in plenary session.

It is understood here that the amended covenant will be given to the public simultaneously in all the associated countries as was done in the case of the original draft.

Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska was advised today through the State Department by Bernard Baruch, former Chairman of the War Industries Board and now with the American Peace Commission, that, in return for food to Germany, the United States was to receive potash in part payment.

There was nothing in Mr. Baruch's message to indicate the quantity of potash to be sent or when the first payment would arrive.

SAYS KAISER BLAMES MASONS FOR WAR

Correspondent Tells of Letters Written by Ex-Ruler to Dr. Schiemann.

EXPECTED AMERICA TO QUIT

Wilhelm Maintains That Revolt at Home Prevented Great German Victory.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, March 28.—In a cablegram to The Chicago Daily News dated Berlin, March 19, by courier to London, March 28, Gordon Stiles says he has been permitted to read letters written by ex-Kaiser Wilhelm II. to Dr. Theodore Schiemann of the University of Berlin, from which he deduces that the former Emperor places the blame for the war on the Masonic fraternity, and declares that at one time the United States was ready to quit.

In his dispatch to The Daily News Mr. Stiles says:

"Freemasonry caused the world war, according to the former Kaiser. But for the armistice, the war would have ended in a complete German victory, the refugee ex-ruler also believes. Germany's defeat, he says, was due to the evil machinations of the German Social Democrats.

"These views are expressed in several letters written in the ex-Emperor's own hand—letters which I have seen today. They were addressed to Dr. Theodore Schiemann of the University of Berlin, who for years was an intimate friend of Wilhelm II. The letters were shown to me in the course of a long interview in which I learned much of the frame of mind of the former German ruler.

Hoped for American Tie.

"'You wish me to tell you more about the Emperor than can be gathered from newspapers and pamphlets,' said Dr. Schiemann. 'My personal acquaintance with him began in 1904. From that time on my relations with the Emperor became more intimate. I accompanied him to Morocco in 1905 and on his frequent voyages to Norway, while I was often his guest at Potsdam, Berlin and elsewhere.

"'Nothing would have pleased him better than to bring about an alliance between England and Germany. It will interest you to learn that more than once America has brought forward a plan for securing world peace by an Anglo-American-German alliance.

"'In 1909 S. S. McClure, the editor, visited me and asked me to write an article favoring such an alliance. I compiled the article, which was published, in May, 1910. Mr. McClure wrote to me and I laid my plan before Pierpont Morgan. I had already consulted with Elihu Root.

"'I was sure that the United States would eagerly join in carrying out this proposal for the union of the three great nations.—In this connection the Emperor knew and approved my activities.'

"But, according to the former Kaiser's letters, even while he was dreaming these happy dreams of a solution of all the world's difficulties, the Freemasons of the world were plotting the downfall of the Hohenzollern and Hapsburg houses. The whole affair, he writes, was engineered by the Grand Lodge of the Orient, to which President Wilson belongs."

In a letter written by the ex-Kaiser a few weeks ago, Mr. Stiles says, he declares that through the machinations of the Grand Lodge of the Orient a pact had been made by which America, England, and France were bound together, and that there never had been any question about America's participation when its services were needed, as America was bound to fight. Here is the text of the letter as quoted on this point:

"It was not the Lusitania, it was not the U-boats, which caused America to come in. These were only incidents raised and magnified by Mr. Wilson as excuses. Mr. Wilson was merely carrying out his part of the program."

Heard We Would Quit War.

Of the German military position in November the ex-Kaiser takes a remarkable view. He says:

"I have been gathering much material lately. I learn from a source in Switzerland that the Americans were going to withdraw their forces from the front on Jan. 1, because of the terrible losses they were suffering. And there I stood, with my victorious armies, ready to reach out and grasp the fruits of our struggle. But no; had I returned to Berlin a conqueror, the program of the Social-Democrats would have been set back years, at least. They would not have it so."

It was then, he believes, according to Mr. Stiles, that the full force of the activities of the Social Democrats came into play. He credits them with having planned systematically the collapse of the army as early as January, 1918. It is asserted that one of their leaders revealed that the soldiers at the front were instigated to desert, and were then organized and supplied with forged paper money and unsigned rebellious leaflets. Thus it came about that conditions at home prevented William from returning to Berlin, while wholesale surrender and rebellion at the front prevented another German attack, which the Kaiser fondly believed would have settled the business.

It was while he was in this awkward position, Mr. Stiles says, that Hindenburg, Ludendorff, and an unnamed representative of the Foreign Office went to the Kaiser and told him that abdication and flight were absolutely necessary. He admits that he could not have got through to Switzerland, and that Holland was the only refuge available.

Renews Religious Professions.

That William still clings to his religious professions appears in this quoted passage:

"To trust in God and keep one's faith is now more than ever the right thing to do. He has allowed these monstrous happenings which, we each may be sure, serve his purpose. He will assuredly raise up again, his poor, bleeding world and the Germans with the rest when they have become chastened, and they will find their way to him praying for help."

"There you have the Emperor in reality," remarked Dr. Schiemann.

"Schiemann did not tell me," Mr. Stiles writes, "who was transmitting the correspondence between him and his friend at Amerongen, but the letters, which were written on plain, blue-tinted paper, with an indelible pencil, obviously had come by messenger. They bore neither stamp nor postmark. Their careful handling by the professor and his frequent sad glances at an autographed picture of William hanging above a massive desk told me how close had been the friendship between the two men."

OPPOSED KAISER'S FLIGHT.

His War Minister Also Condemns the Action of the Crown Prince.

By LEONARD SPRAY.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROTTERDAM, March 27.—The publication of the correspondence between the former Kaiser and former Crown Prince and between the latter and Field Marshal von Hindenburg has evoked from General von Scheuch, formerly German War Minister, a letter addressed to the Vossische Zeitung which has caused a most painful sensation in monarchical circles in Germany.

After stating that he several times tried to get into telephonic communication with the Crown Prince's adjutant at Spa, General von Scheuch says:

"In this I failed, and then I learned to my horror that the Prince had gone to Holland. In a letter to the Crown Prince's adjutant I gave it clearly to be understood that I would never have advised the departure of the Crown Prince to a foreign country. I had also regarded the departure of the Kaiser to Holland as a great misfortune for the monarchy, and the army, and therefore also for the Fatherland. Still less therefore, could I approve the step of the Crown Prince."

After this disclosure it will be obviously impossible for the Crown Prince or his friends to attempt to represent his action as anything other than a cowardly flight.

TO COMMAND U. S. FORCE IN NORTH RUSSIA

General Wilds P. Richardson to Leave London for Archangel with Engineer Detachment.

LONDON, March 28.—Brig. Gen. Wilds P. Richardson, U. S. A., who has been appointed to command of the American expedition in Northern Russia, will leave London in a few days with a fair-sized detachment of engineers, sanitary workers, and replacement officers, for Archangel. The engineers predominate in the detachment. They will be used to repair and improve the roads from the American front back to the sea.

All the members of the detachment volunteered from the American Expeditionary Force in France.

Reports to army headquarters today were that vessels could get into Archangel, with the aid of strong ice-breakers.

ARCHANGEL, March 28, (Associated Press.)—The first detachment of American railroad troops, destined for work on the Murman Railway, have arrived on the Murman coast. Other detachments are expected to follow soon.

FIVE U-BOATS HEADED FOR THIS COUNTRY

Coming to Help Victory Loan Drive—One Laid Mines Here Last Year.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Five German submarines will head for the United States tomorrow—manned this time by American crews. They are to be exhibited in connection with the Victory Loan campaign. One of the boats—the U-117—has been in American waters before, as it was sent here by the Germans last year to plant mines along the Atlantic Coast.

A dispatch to the effect that the submarines would start within twenty-four hours was received by the Navy Department today from Admiral Sims. The U. S. S. Bushnell, which was tender to the American ships in British waters, will accompany them.

The five submarines which are being brought over for the double purpose of giving the United States naval experts a chance to study them, but principally for exhibition in American ports during the loan drive, represent four different types. In addition it is expected that one of the big cruiser submarines, one of the gun fighters, will be sent later.

Two of the boats are the UB-88 and the UB-148—types of the small U-boats. The UB-97 is one of the small mine layers, while the U-111 is a regulation German U-boat.

It is not expected, in view of the weather conditions, the prevailing western winds, and the difficulties of running boats with unfamiliar machinery, that they will arrive much before the latter part of April. Plans for their disposition after reaching American waters will be decided as soon as complete details as to their draft, &c., have been received from Admiral Sims.

displayed in the Diet during the voting on the measure.

The bill, as presented by the Foreign Affairs Committee, for the conclusion of an alliance with the Entente Powers asks for the incorporation into Poland of those eastern territories in which the Polish population forms a majority or where Polish culture is predominant.

Desire is expressed that Lithuania ethnographically should form a separate State which might ultimately be joined to Poland by a free union, according to historical precedent.

Negotiations have been in progress several weeks relative to the sending of the three Polish divisions in France under General Haller to Poland. It was proposed to land them at Danzig and send them into Poland but Germany objected to this and offered other ports as substitutes. The German opposition to the landing at Danzig has been that the Poles might remain there and hold that port, which the Poles claim as their outlet to the Baltic.

EBERT'S PAY $25,000 A MONTH.

Includes Salaries of Personnel—Must Return Unused Sums.

BERLIN, March 27, (Associated Press.)—The salary of President Ebert, which has been the subject of discussion in the press recently, is officially announced today to be 100,000 marks monthly, with no perquisites or expense allowances.

The salary must pay the cost of running the Presidential office and the salaries of the personnel. President Ebert is to render a strict account of his expenditures and to return any unused balance.

CALL FOR AMERICAN STOCKS

Germans Must Surrender Foreign Securities by April 12.

BERLIN, March 27, (Associated Press.)—All foreign interest-bearing securities, except Austrian, Hungarian, Bulgarian, Turkish, and Russian, in the possession of Germans or residents of Germany must be surrendered to the banks for the Government from April 2 to 12 in order to help pay for food delivered to Germany, according to a decree of Dr. Schiffer, the Minister of Finance, published today.

The list includes American railroad stocks, steel trust obligations, and New York City loans. The price to be paid will be the local Stock Exchange rate on Dec. 30, 1918, or the nearest adjacent date if the stocks were unlisted on that day.

Exemptions are possible in the case of residents who can prove that their securities are offset by debts owed abroad.

GERMAN MANAGERS OUSTED.

Men from Allied Nations to Conduct Luxemburg Furnace Works.

LUXEMBURG, March 28.—Over the written protest of German stockholders, the other stockholders of the Burbach-Eich-Dudelange Blast Furnace Company at Dudelange decided at a meeting today to discharge the German managers and to continue to run the business without the German stockholders.

The non-German stockholders propose to select men from Luxemburg, France, and Great Britain to manage the business as soon as the political situation clears.

BRITISH TRIPLANE CAN CARRY 100

SPEEDS 80 MILES AN HOUR

Will Have Crew of Pilots, Engineers, Mechanics, Navigators, and Wireless Operators.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 28.—The Daily News gives further particulars of the Tarrant super-triplane which Major Gen. Seely referred to in the House of Commons on March 13 and which is being assembled at the royal aircraft factory at Farnborough.

A striking feature is its long cigar shaped fuselage, similar in appearance to the body of the Zeppelin machine. It was originally designed to bomb Berlin, carrying 10,000 pounds of bombs and a crew of eight over a distance of 1,200 miles. It has a span of 141 feet, the fuselage is 85 feet and is fitted with six Napier Lion 506. engines.

When the aircraft industry began preparations for commercial flying the makers of the super-triplane followed suit, with the result that this type will be capable of carrying over 100 passengers, or cargo weighing nine tons, for a distance of 1,200 miles. The speed of the converted machine will be anything from 80 to 100 miles per hour. It possesses enormous possibilities in continuous flying, and by extra tankage it would be possible to make a nonstop flight lasting twenty-four hours.

The fuselage is built of wood and strengthened by a patent system of girders not unlike the masts of an American warship, and this obviates the use of tracing wires and other fittings common to the ordinary airplane. There is freeway right down the centre of the fuselage permitting anyone to walk to the tail. Three rows of glass windows, giving the appearance of portholes, will be fitted inside of the triplane, and tiers of seats will be provided for passengers.

In addition to the staff of pilots there will be on board two or three engineers and mechanics, a navigator, and a wireless operator.

MARTENS NOT RECOGNIZED.

Washington Denies Dealing with Self-Styled Soviet Envoy.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—A careful canvass of the situation fails to disclose any purpose on the part of the State Department seriously to consider recognizing the credentials of any diplomatic or trade representative of the Soviet Government, and there is no indication that the State Department intends to accord recognition to L. C. A. K. Martens, the Bolshevist trade agent, who is now in New York and who sent certain documents to the State Department in the form of alleged credentials.

Denial was made today that there had been any sort of recognition of Martens, official or unofficial. It was asserted that certain papers had been sent to the State Department by Martens and that these had been acknowledged, just as all other letters to the department were acknowledged, but that this letter of acknowledgement could not be construed as any sort of recognition.

The whole Russian question is now in the hands of the Peace Conference at Paris, and no independent decisions are being made at Washington, in the absence of President Wilson and Secretary Lansing, who are both at the peace table. The expectation here is that a majority of the powers' delegations comprising the so-called Big Four Supreme Council at Paris will shortly make known a new plan for aiding Russia, which will not, it is believed, involve recognition of the Soviet republic, but will call for concessions from it in consideration of any co-operation furnished in the direction of ministering to the extreme needs of the population in some parts of Russia.

SOCIALISTS URGE PEACE.

National Party in London to Spread Anti-Bolshevist Propaganda.

LONDON, March 28.—At a meeting of the executive body of the National Socialist party and the Socialist members of Parliament yesterday a resolution was unanimously adopted urging the completion of a preliminary peace at the earliest possible moment, "in view of the chaos and anarchy developing throughout Europe as a consequence of the delay in fixing the terms of peace."

At the same meeting arrangements were made for carrying on special propaganda throughout the country, especially in the industrial centres, with a view, it was stated, to exposing the dangers and fallacies of Bolshevism. A series of meetings will be held which will be addressed by leading Socialists, including Henry M. Hyndman, the Socialist party leader, and Will Thorne.

TO IMPROVE COPENHAGEN.

Port Facilities Will Be Increased by Vast Building Scheme.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, March 27.—The harbor and free port here has during the war been enlarged to a great extent, and is now able to receive even the very big increase of shipping and traffic which is admitted by Americans now working here in distributing foodstuffs to the suffering countries of Europe.

But it has now been decided to start a new and immense enlargement by building basins, miles of piers, wharves, blocks of warehouses, and elevators at a cost of 60,000,000 crowns, which will result in making Copenhagen Harbor one of the largest, best, and most modern in the world, a perfect centre for the great trade and transit of Northern Europe, without competition in the Baltic.

SEEK LEAGUE APPROVAL.

Missouri Democrats Want State Convention to Act.

Special to The New York Times.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., March 28.—The Organization Committee of the Democratic Committee determined today to ask the State Committee to call a State convention to be held in St. Louis some time in May, following a meeting of the Democratic National Committee in Chicago.

It was announced unofficially that the Missouri convention was not to be held for supporting the movement to rebuke Senator James A. Reed for his criticism of President Wilson and attack on the League of Nations, but to approve the work of the Peace Conference when the League of Nations covenant shall have been finally adopted and to take up matters of party organization in Missouri. The covenant, they hold, will be a proper matter for the Democrats of Missouri to pass upon.

INCREASE PRECAUTIONS FOR WILSON'S SAFETY

Plans for Big Four's Conference Now Concealed to Prevent Crowds Gathering.

PARIS, March 28, (Associated Press.)—Increased precautions have been taken to safeguard President Wilson and the Premiers with whom he is in daily conference. So carefully have the plans been made that not even the Chief of the American Secret Service Squad is informed as to when the meetings will take place.

Some of the newspapers have been carrying in their morning editions a schedule of the movements of President Wilson, with the result that crowds invariably gathered to witness the arrival of the President and the other conferees. The time of the meeting today at the "White House" was not announced, and the Premiers arrived seemingly in a casual manner.

There has been no special incident to bring about this extraordinary care, but it is obvious that the people of Paris are becoming too well acquainted with the time and place of the meetings and that this caused a determination to adopt a course that would reduce to a minimum any chance of danger. President Wilson himself appears to be entirely unworried.

The enormous amount of work which the President has undertaken has forced him to reduce the time prescribed by Rear Admiral Grayson, his personal physician, as necessary for relaxation, but in every twenty-four hours he takes a short walk with Mrs. Wilson or Rear Admiral Grayson. Social affairs are entirely lacking in his daily routine.

FOREIGN SECRETARIES ORGANIZED IN COUNCIL

New Body to Lift Austrian Blockade When Re-exports to Germany Can Be Prevented.

PARIS, March 28.—A Council of Foreign Ministers and Foreign Secretaries of the great powers has been created to work simultaneously with the Premiers and President Wilson, but on different branches of the technical questions involved in the peace settlement. This action has been taken in the interest of speed.

It is believed that the council will consider the Italian and probably the Russian question, as well as the feasibility of arranging a peace treaty to include all belligerent nations.

At a meeting of this new council this morning it was decided that the blockade of German Austria would be lifted as soon as measures could be perfected for preventing imports into that territory being re-exported to Germany. The council named a commission to inquire into the Moroccan question and then took up the question of the frontiers of Schleswig.

This bulletin was issued:

A meeting at which Mr. Lansing, Mr. Balfour, Mr. Pichon, Baron Sonnino, and Baron Makino were present took place on the 28th of March at 11 A. M.

In regard to the blockade of German Austria, it was agreed that all restrictions on commerce should be raised in that region as soon as the necessary machinery had been established in order to prevent re-export to Germany.

A commission was appointed to study the removal of servitude of Morocco established by the act of Algeciras.

The council then considered the question of the frontiers of Schleswig.

EXPLORER WAS MISQUOTED.

Pedersen Did Not Blame Stefansson for Karluk's Loss.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 28.—While making ready the steamer Herman, on which he will sail for the Arctic on April 2, Captain C. T. Pedersen met Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the explorer, here today for the first time since 1912, when Pedersen was engaged by Stefansson to navigate the ill-fated steamer Karluk before the command was turned over to Captain Robert A. Bartlett.

With the meeting was cleared a misunderstanding of which, it proves, Captain Pedersen was the innocent and unsuspecting author and the explorer the victim as the result of an interview ascribed to Pedersen in which the latter was quoted as stating that Stefansson was directly responsible for the loss of the Karluk.

"Since the destruction of the Karluk in the ice in 1914, when eleven members of her crew of twenty-five men perished," said Mr. Stefansson, "I have been held more or less responsible for their deaths, especially among the friends and relatives of those who were lost. Among the criticisms has been one to the effect that the Karluk was unsuited for the work called for. Among those who recommended the Karluk and on whose judgment I relied was Captain Pedersen.

"It was with surprise, to say the least, that I read a short time after the disaster, an interview in which Captain Pedersen was quoted as saying that had he been in command of the Karluk he would have handled the ship exactly as had been done by Bartlett. After the lapse of six years I met Captain Pedersen today to find that he never had made any such statement."

Captain Pedersen, in speaking of the loss of the Karluk, said:

"To ascribe any of the blame for the loss of the Karluk to Stefansson would be most unjust."

ONLY ONE LEAGUE PLAN.

Hitchcock Says World Must Accept or Reject That Favored by Wilson.

PHILADELPHIA, March 28.—The League of Nations plan supported by President Wilson is the only one before the world today, and either that or nothing must be adopted, in the view of Senator Gilbert H. Hitchcock, as expressed in an address before the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce today.

He said that those who believed the United States should pursue a policy of splendid isolation were few and quite mistaken. He commended ex-President Taft for advocating the adoption of the covenant, even though it did not embody all his ideas.

The Senator derided those who declared that the League of Nations question was purely academic. "It is a vital matter," he said, "to the parents of the United States, whose sons must fight if there is another war. It is vital to the taxpayers who will be called upon for hundreds of millions of dollars if the country is forced to take part in the world struggle for greater armament. The League would not only discourage war, but it would discourage the race for armament supremacy."

Senator Hitchcock made no plea for perfection in the League constitution. He said that it did not suit the Japanese or the French, but that its benefits were enough to bring both nations around to its support. He denied that the Japanese might force the United States to settle the immigration question by appealing to a League of Nations.

To Show Use of Armor in War.

Major Bashford Dean, Curator of Arms and Armor in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, in connection with the Government in providing modern armor for our soldiers, will give a lecture this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Museum. His subject will be "How Armor Was Worn," referring to the time when armor was generally used in war. The lecture will be illustrated by lantern slides and by men on the stage dressed in armor and exhibiting its convenience and inconvenience as a matter of costume and its value as a matter of defense.

WILL GO TO PARIS TO PLEAD FOR ERIN

Passports Granted to Envoys of Irish Race Convention Recently Held in Philadelphia.

TO SAIL NEXT WEDNESDAY

Delegates Are Frank P. Walsh, Michael J. Ryan, and Former Governor Dunne of Illinois.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Announcement was made by Irish leaders here tonight that Frank P. Walsh of New York, Michael J. Ryan of Philadelphia and former Governor Edward F. Dunne of Chicago, would sail from New York on Wednesday on the steamer Touraine for Paris, as a committee to the Paris Peace Conference from the Irish Race Convention held recently in Philadelphia which was attended by 5,132 delegates from all parts of the country and was presided over by Supreme Court Justice Daniel Cohalan of New York.

Messrs. Walsh, Ryan and Dunne were in Washington today and presented to Acting Secretary Phillips a letter asking for passports. They received assurances that these would be granted them on Monday. This letter stated that their purpose in going to Paris was "to obtain for the delegates selected by the people of Ireland a hearing at the Peace Conference, and to place before the Conference, if the hearing has not been given, the case of Ireland; her insistence upon her right of self-determination, and to international recognition of the republican form of government established by her people."

Frank P. Walsh will go as Chairman of the Committee, and Patrick Lee of New York will accompany them as Secretary.

"We are going to France," said Mr. Walsh tonight, "as American citizens, holding no allegiance, actual or spiritual, to any other nation on earth, but imbued with the necessity of extending all the principles of free government to Ireland, which is the typical small nation of the world being deprived of the right to determine for itself the form of government under which it shall exist.

"Naturally, men and women of Irish blood and ancestry everywhere have a deep and sentimental attachment to the land which gave birth to their race and at this crucial moment of new world concepts desire to render all of the assistance in their power to the representatives of the people of Ireland delegated to attend the Peace Conference. The committee expects to remain in France until Ireland's cause is fully determined by the conference."

Mr. Walsh was, by appointment of President Wilson, formerly Chairman of the Federal Commission on Industrial Relations. He has just retired from the National War Labor Board, on which he served as joint Chairman with former President Taft. Michael J. Ryan was formerly City Solicitor of Philadelphia and is a lawyer and banker of that city. Edward F. Dunne was Judge of the Circuit Court of Chicago for three terms, but resigned to become Mayor of Chicago and later Governor of Illinois. All three were members of the Irish committee which called on President Wilson at the Metropolitan Opera House the night of March 4 last and which the President refused to receive until Judge Cohalan had been eliminated.

DE VALERA DEFENDS AIMS OF IRELAND

"Right of Every Enlightened People to Govern Themselves," He Declares.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, March 28.—I had an interview with De Valera shortly before he entered Dublin. Up to a certain point he proved a very mild and constitutional rebel with his eye fixed on Paris.

"It is the unquestionable right of every enlightened people to govern themselves." On that basis he took his stand. "We demand self-determination which will be for the advantage not only of ourselves but also of England," he went on. "We claim the right to enter into the League of Nations because England imposes upon us a Government against our will, under which we do not live happily and under which we refuse to continue living. Ireland throughout the war has been a costly handicap and a source of weakness to England."

"Why," I asked, "did you not cooperate with us and lend us your strength as a partner in the British Empire?"

"Because," replied De Valera, "we are not a partner. We are knit to you forcibly against our will. A partnership must be voluntary."

"Yet are there not in this case elements of a natural partnership based upon proximity, intermingled history, and links of language and literature?"

"Of a kind," replied de Valera, "and if you think so, then why are you fearful of giving us this freedom you enjoy yourselves. If you granted Ireland independence tomorrow would those natural links and ties cease to exist? Give us freedom, freedom to enter voluntarily into whatever associations with England we may desire, and all natural and inherent affinities will for the first time be free to find full expression.

"Note," he went on eagerly, yet judicially, "I promise nothing. One may anticipate at any rate a preliminary period in which Ireland will be fully satisfied in merely drawing the breath of emancipation, but natural laws, like truth and righteousness, must prevail, aye, and prevail promptly when there is no barrier imposed in their path."

"But," I interjected, "if England granted independence to Ireland would there not be civil war between your people in the south and Sir Edward Carson's people in the north?"

"No, I think not," replied the Sinn Fein leader confidently. "We should have but one desire, namely, to share our freedom with them. They would merely have to make their choice, to belong to Ireland or to England. At present they have two countries and we have none. If they elected for English nationhood, we would be ready to acquire their vested interests. Personally I think there would be no serious trouble, but, in any case, Ireland would have to settle the matter herself."

OFFICERS' WIVES AS LOOTERS

Were Brought from Germany to Help Sack French Homes.

PARIS, March 27, (Havas.)—The Senate considered today the report of a commission which was sent to investigate conditions in portions of France which were occupied by the Germans during the war.

M. Reynald, reporting for the commission, said that the Germans methodically destroyed property, and that many German officers brought their wives to the occupied regions to help them carry away goods taken from French homes. In describing the systematic pillage of St. Quentin and Rheims, M. Reynald said:

"The Germans did not understand the soul of France and did not realize that by their methods they but strengthened our resistance."

Examples of German atrocities against the people of Northern and Eastern France and instances of wanton destruction were cited by the speaker, who introduced a resolution asking the Senate to take action on the commission's report.

12,000 ON THE LEVIATHAN.

Largest Number of Soldiers Ever Carried by Transport on Way Home

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Departure from France of the transport Leviathan, with more than 12,000 troops aboard; the battleships Rhode Island and Virginia—all bringing units of the 85th (Wisconsin and Michigan National Army) Division, and two other transports was announced tonight by the War Department.

The Leviathan left Brest on March 26 and is due at New York on April 2. The more than 12,000 troops aboard constitutes the largest number of troops ever carried by the giant transport. The War Department recently announced that arrangements had been made to reduce the large crew personnel and the present trip is the first to be made by the vessel under the new arrangement.

The Leviathan has aboard the 338th Infantry, complete; the 340th Infantry, complete; the 337th Infantry, Machine Gun Company and Medical Detachment; 160th Field Artillery Brigade Headquarters, and the 329th Field Artillery. All of these units belong to the 85th Division. The transport also carries Base Hospital No. 12, about 100 officers of various units, one casual company each for New York and Massachusetts, two scattered casual companies, thirty-one casual officers, Brest convalescent detachments Nos. 136 to 147, inclusive, a medical detachment and casual enlisted men and civilians. Brig. Gen. William C. Rivers, commanding the 160th Field Artillery Brigade, also is aboard.

The battleship Virginia is due at Newport News on April 6 with the 330th Machine Gun Battalion complete and a detachment of the 337th Infantry, both of which units belong to the 85th Division; a casual company for Idaho, Convalescent Camp No. 6, 15 casual officers, 6 civilians, and 15 casual naval enlisted men.

The battleship Rhode Island is expected to arrive at Newport News on April 6, bringing the 329th Machine Gun Battalion of the 85th Division, casual companies for New York and Ohio, and 30 casual officers, civilians, and naval enlisted men.

The transport Metapan is due at New York on April 6 with 30 casual officers, 71 casual nurses, and 13 civilians.

The transport Eastern Queen is scheduled to arrive at Newport News on April 18 with an ordnance detachment of 5 men and 2 casual officers.

ARMENIANS DIE OF HUNGER.

Relief Agent Says 10,000 Will Perish Weekly Till Food Is Received.

PARIS, March 28, (Havas.)—The need for food in Armenia is urgent and thousands are threatened with starvation, according to a telegram from Mr. Heims, an American relief worker in Tiflis, sent to the Armenian delegation here and transmitted to the Peace Conference by the delegation.

There is need of bread in all districts, the telegram says. In the Erivan 45,000 persons are in a terrible plight from lack of food. There is no meat in the Igdir region and the inhabitants fight each other for the carcasses of dead horses. The relief agent estimates that 10,000 persons will die weekly until sufficient food is received.

Senator Phelan Threatened.

SAN JOSE, Cal., March 28.—A threatening letter, signed "C. C. of C.," received by Senator Phelan at his office in San Francisco on March 20 was made public today. The letter demanded payment of $2,000 to the writer, backing up the demand by various threats. Senator Phelan announced he would pay no attention to the demand.

TWO GERMAN DUKES LOSE BRITISH TITLES

Order in Council Drops Albany, Cumberland, and Viscount Taafe from Peerage.

DUKES WERE KIN OF KINGS

Both Had Served for a Time with the German Army in the War.

LONDON, March 28.—The Duke of Albany and the Duke of Cumberland and Viscount Taaffe, who adhered to the enemy during the war, have been deprived of their British peerages by a King's order in Council.

The Duke of Albany, who is a cousin of King George, and the Duke of Cumberland, a cousin of the late King Edward, both served with the German forces for a part at least of the late war. Each man was a Royal Duke of Great Britain. Both were British born. The Duke of Albany served the Kaiser under the title of Prince Charles Edward of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, and the Duke of Cumberland as Duke of Brunswick and Luneburg. Both Dukes had courtesy commands in the British Army, the Duke of Albany being a full General.

Prior to the war the Duke of Albany took precedence over the Duke of Connaught, the Archbishop of Canterbury, and the Lord Chancellor. He held three and the Duke of Cumberland two British peerages, each with hereditary seats in the House of Lords.

Viscount Taaffe is a member of an ancient Irish family. He was living in Silesia at the outbreak of the war and fought with the Austrian Army as a Captain.

VILLA WOULD AID IN WAR.

Ready to Fight Invasion of U. S., He Tells Prisoner.

JUAREZ, Mexico, March 28.—Francisco Villa told an American prisoner in his camp that "he was ready to shoulder his rifle and aid the United States—his neighbor—to repel a foreign invasion whenever needed." The American has just arrived at the border after being Villa's captive in Western Chihuahua. He declined to permit his name to be used, but is known here and throughout Mexico as reliable.

He told of conversations he had with Villa and Felipe Angeles. "Villa shook hands and told us to not worry as he had no intention of harming any of us," said the American. "Angeles praised the American democracy, and said that was the kind of government Mexico needed, as there was too much difference between the high and low classes in Mexico. It was during this talk that Villa, passing by, stopped to tell me that he was ready to shoulder a rifle should the United States be invaded by a foreign force, as we were neighbors and should stand together."

FOR WAR MEMORIAL PLAZA.

Proposed to Keep Open the Site of Old Grand Union Hotel.

A score or more of men and women, representing many organizations, appeared before the Board of Estimate yesterday and urged that the city use the site of the old Grand Union Hotel at Park Avenue and Forty-second Street, within Pershing Square, as a public plaza to commemorate the victorious deeds of the American forces in France. John McE. Bowman, President of the company owning the Biltmore, Commodore, and other hotels in the vicinity, and William H. Page, a lawyer, offered to undertake to raise $5,000,000 by popular subscription to finance the project. The board laid the matter over until May 9.

The plot of ground, containing nearly an acre, was purchased by the city for $4,350,000 for rapid transit purposes, and William G. Fullen, counsel for the Public Service Commission, pointed out that legislation would be necessary for the city to sell the ground. It is now valued at $4,851,204. Mr. Page said he would undertake to have special legislation enacted at Albany removing the restriction. Assemblyman Martin G. McCue said he would introduce in the Legislature, without delay, a bill amending the Rapid Transit act so that the city could make use of the property as a park.

In addition to providing a suitable memorial to the American Expeditionary Forces, Mr. Bowman declared that the park or plaza was needed to reduce congestion in the neighborhood. Personally, he said, he would be better off if a hotel or office building should be erected on the site, but he thought it would be better for the city to leave the space clear. Mr. Bowman was reminded that there were other proposals to erect memorials by private subscription, notably $300,000 for a memorial to the late Mayor John Purroy Mitchel and $1,000,000 for a permanent Victory Arch at Fifth Avenue and Twenty-fourth Street. Mr. Bowman said he did not propose to undertake anything that would interfere with other war memorials.

Assemblyman McCue objected to a hotel being erected on the site, saying he wanted the taxicab men to have a parking place for their machines in the congested region. Controller Craig suggested that the lower floor of a big office building might be used as a free garage, but this did not meet the Assemblyman's approval.

The plan presented by Cleveland H. Dodge and Robert Adamson to have the city give the reservoir site in Central Park for a memorial to the late Mayor Mitchel on which is to be erected a monument was referred to the Committee of the Whole without discussion.

URGES CHANGE IN LEAVES.

American Soldiers Transported to England Complain of Overcrowding.

LONDON, March 28.—Major Gen. Biddle, commander of the American forces in England, has recommended to General Pershing that the plan of sending 150 men of the American Expeditionary Force in France on leave to England daily be abandoned, and that either none be sent or that the number be increased to 1,000.

The recommendation says that 150 men daily does not warrant the use of American ships in transporting soldiers to England, so the Americans have been coming on British boats. The Americans complain bitterly of overcrowding and other poor accommodations. In addition, the British need all available space for their own men.

If it is decided to allow 1,000 men to come daily, General Biddle says, American boats would be used exclusively. There are sufficient accommodations here for 1,000 daily, although London is crowded.

Franklin Simon & Co.

Fifth Avenue, 37th and 38th Sts.

An Hour of Light for an Hour of Night

We Will Add Another Half Hour

DAYLIGHT SAVING originated in Europe and was later adopted by Congress. Its purpose is to exchange an hour of night for an hour of light. Franklin Simon & Co. in behalf of their employees, are glad to add an extra half hour to further increase the benefits that will be derived from the Daylight Saving Plan. It has always been in line with the well established Franklin Simon policy to shorten business hours during the hot Summer months—early daily closing and closing all day Saturdays during July and August.

When you retire tonight there are two important things for you to remember—

First—

Set the clocks and watches forward one hour.

Second—

Commencing Monday, March 31st, Franklin Simon & Co., will close at 5:30 P. M. instead of 6:00 P. M.

Daylight saving makes the sun the timekeeper instead of the clock. The benefits are many and real. The home-going rush hour will be in daylight, decreasing the possibility of accidents. More time for recreation and outdoor exercise. And there are innumerable other advantages.

Our employees appreciate it.

Do you?

Will you do your shopping early?

A COURSE DINNER

Said a famous bon vivant, after dining in divers places in divers parts of the world:

"Dear heaven, I now know there are only about six permanently appealing dishes for a palate not diseased."

Then what matters it whether the menu contains six hundred dishes, or sixty, if you only care for six?

At CHILDS the range is limited to the "permanently appealing" dishes; and yet the variety is sufficient to permit of arranging them into delightfully attractive course dinners.

Take a savory soup, rich in flavor and steaming hot, an entree with vegetables fresh from the farm, and a dainty dessert with a cup of CHILDS coffee—and you have a real American course dinner.

Fresh Vegetable Soup—Real Country Sausage with Mashed Potatoes—Creamed Tapioca Pudding—and CHILDS Coffee—an epicurean treat and only 65c.

THIEVES LOOT SHOP OFF FIFTH AVENUE

Carry Off $15,000 Worth of Gowns and Wraps in Fiftieth Street.

NO CLUE TO BURGLARS

Door Forced Open and Only Best Stock Taken—May Have Fled in Auto.

Burglars who entered the shop of Mrs. Leota Hebard, a dealer in and maker of gowns and wraps at 10 East Fiftieth Street, carried off between $15,000 and $20,000 worth of gowns, furs, and other apparel early yesterday morning, making their escape, it is thought, in an automobile. Detectives of the East Fifty-first Street Station were immediately assigned to the case after the robbery was discovered, when the shop was opened for business yesterday, but had found no clues to the burglars last night.

The door of the shop, which occupies the first floor of the old John Fox residence, had been forced open, and several other barriers in the way of the thieves had been broken down, including the closet in which hung from fifty to seventy-five gowns valued at more than 200 apiece. When Mrs. Hebard's force of workers entered the shop they found bits of finery strewn about the floor, closets had been opened, and after an examination of the stock it was found that everything of value had been taken by the burglars.

The police were of the opinion last night that the burglars were familiar with the stock or at least had knowledge of the values of the gowns. A portiere missing from the shop indicated that the burglars had torn the hanging away from the door opening to one of the rooms and had wrapped the gowns in this before leaving with their loot.

There was a night watchman in the block throughout the night and a policeman from the East Fifty-first Street station was on post at the corner of Fifth Avenue until 2 o'clock in the morning, it was learned last night. The shop, it is thought, was entered after this hour.

Mrs Hebard gave the police, last night, an itemized list of a part of the missing gowns and estimated their value at $12,500. Many other articles which could not be recalled were also taken, she said, bringing the total loss well beyond $15,000.

The police were at first led to believe that the robbery was an "inside job," but Mrs. Hebard declared that the majority of the seamstresses in her employ had been with her for several years and that all had reported for work yesterday.

Women to Aid League Plan.

A meeting was held at the Hotel Marseilles last night to organize women to make converts in favor of the idea of the League of Nations and against Bolshevism. Mrs. Julia Saunders, member of the Eleventh Assembly District Democratic Committee, presided. A letter from Governor Smith advocating the League of Nations and indorsing the organization of women to further the plan was read by Mrs. M. W. Mount, who called the meeting. Other speakers were Dr. John P. Peters, ex-Assemblyman William C. Amos, Mrs. R. T. Oliver and Mrs. M. M. Hdyeman.

SUFFRAGISTS INDORSE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Also Urge This Government to Bring About Prompt Redress of Legitimate Grievances.

ST. LOUIS, March 28.—The National American Woman Suffrage Association passed resolutions today indorsing the League of Nations and urging the United States Government "to bring about the prompt redress of all legitimate grievances" as a safeguard against revolution by violence.

With the adoption of a long list of resolutions the convention proper practically closed its sessions, the formal adjournment to be taken tomorrow after a morning session of the League of Women Voters, composed of delegates from Presidential suffrage States.

Heading the list of resolutions was one calling upon the Sixty-sixth Congress to submit the Constitutional amendment for nation-wide woman suffrage to the States at the earliest possible moment. Others included:

Recommendation that in the future the Government recognize the fitness of accepting the services of professional women for work for which their training and experience have well qualified them, it being said that women physicians and dentists were compelled to serve in the war under the French flag because their services were declined by the United States Government; that Congress give military rank to army nurses, and the establishment at Washington of a national Department of Education, with a Secretary of Education in the Cabinet.

Mrs. Carry Chapman Catt, President of the association, was elected temporary Chairman of the League of Women Voters. Miss Catherine Pierce of Oklahoma was elected temporary Secretary.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., March 28.—The Missouri Senate today passed the bill which would allow women to vote for Presidential Electors and immediately afterward passed a resolution submitting to the voters a constitutional amendment for woman suffrage in all elections. Although the House and Senate have each passed a Presidential suffrage bill, they have not passed the same bill, but the Senate's action is considred as ending the women's fight, as the House is overwhelmingly for suffrage.

ARTIST LEMORDANT SPEAKS

Dinner Given for French Painter Blinded in Battle.

Jean Julien Lemordant, the noted French painter who lost his sight at the battle of Charleroi, made his first public address last night at a dinner given in his honor in the Hotel Vanderbilt by American artists. John Jay Chapman presided, and those who spoke in praise of the artist were Miss Cecilia Beaux, Paul Bartlett, and François Tonetti.

The artist, who spoke in French, cited instances of hardship borne by great French artists, and the nobility of soul and the artistic beauty which had resulted from the sacrifices they had made. He mentioned Rodin in particular, who worked for other people until he was 40 years old, suffering oppression and obloquy until finally he emerged triumphant.

Speaking of his experiences during the war, M. Lemordant said it was not enough for a soldier to be willing to accept death, but that rather than lose his dignity or risk his principles, he must glorify death as a tribute to his country. The painter maintained that the battle of Charleroi was not, as some people believed, a miracle, but that it was a real battle and a victory, the outcome of the indomitable spirit and courage of the French soldier. He also said the fact that French and American youth had died on the same field would serve as an imperishable bond between the two countries.

CITY IS BUFFETED BY GALE AND SNOW

bound workers to get to cars, but no serious mêlées occurred.

The storm caused partial tie-ups on all the transit lines in Queens, starting with the early morning, and there was not a single line on the north side of the borough that maintained anything like regular schedules. The big crowds of men and women going to their work in the morning found the elevated service of the Interborough across the Queensboro Bridge to Manhattan completely tied up. Ice on the third rail prevented contact, and it was nearly 10 o'clock before the cars were running. As a result there was a big crush on the subway line through the Queensboro tunnel to the Grand Central.

The Long Island Railroad had the same trouble with some of its electrical trains. As a result trains for the Long Island City and Pennsylvania terminals were abandoned.

During the day the New York & Queens County Railway Company was unable to maintain its complete schedule on the lines to Flushing, College Point, Astoria, Ravenswood and Calvary Cemetery. The trouble increased towards evening, and the cars that were run were crowded to capacity. The Manhattan & Queens Traction Company maintained a fair schedule on its service over the Queensboro Bridge to Manhattan, and on the line out Queens Boulevard to Jamaica.

The roadway of the Queensboro Bridge became congested early in the day with automobiles, and traffic policemen were not able to keep the roadway clear at any time. The traffic here was greatly congested by big automobile trucks that came that way from Brooklyn to reach uptown Manhattan.

One of the incidents of the storm was a rush of orders to coal dealers in the Borough. Many householders had let their furnace fires die when their coal bins became empty a week or so ago, and they intended to finish the winter without furnace fires. But the sudden cold snap made them think about fires again, and they rushed orders all day yesterday to the coal dealers. The latter were able to fill less than one-fourth of the orders.

Reports received yesterday by the Railroad Administration forecast trouble unless the storm abated. Reports from all over the State indicated a heavy fall of snow. Syracuse reported in the late afternoon six inches of snow, and the same was reported from Batavia and Buffalo. A report from Watertown showed eight inches of snow, and another from the upper Hudson Valley by way of Troy roughly estimated the snow fall at "about a foot." Poughkeepsie reported four inches.

Trains Fairly Regular.

Notwithstanding this weather trains arrived in this city and across the river fairly regularly, it was said. The record for delay, it was said, was 44 minutes, reported from Utica by a passenger train due in the Grand Central Station last night. Railroad men said that an abnormal drop in temperature or continued hard blowing would cause great trouble, but they did not anticipate these conditions.

nI the Sayville section of Long Island Life Guards patrolled the beach constantly, but reported no ships in distress. They did not anticipate that any ships would be blown on shore, but stated that Captains have been known to lose their way in storms less severe than this, and remained alert to answer any call for help.

Telephone and telegraph wires were blown down, and in some sections of the island communication was completely cut off.

For the first time since the end of last Winter the Street Cleaning Department had to call upon the reserve snow shovelers. At the office of the Snow Removal Office it was said last night that between 10,000 and 12,000 men had been added to the list of employes and were kept in readiness in the event that the fall was three inches or more. During the storms of Winter before last 14,778 men were put to work, in addition to the regular force.

Storm Centre Here.

The cause of the blizzard, according to the Weather Bureau here, was a storm centre that had been gathering in the Middle West and started out to sea across this State. This storm passed east on Thursday night, and it caused the heavy rain. The storm was central at 8 o'clock yesterday morning at Block Island, and at that time it was passing off to sea. The area affected was Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, and Southern New England.

Troop ships and other craft coming over the North Atlantic track will run into the rough weather, it was said at the local Weather Bureau. Because of shipping conditions the department sent out this warning in the morning:

"Continue northwest storm warning 9:30 A. M., Cape Hatteras to Nantucket. Storm of marked intensity over Southern New England, moving northeast. West and northwest gales this Friday afternoon and tonight."

Two men were reported to the Brooklyn police as having been drowned in the bay off Sixty-ninth Street, Brooklyn, during the height of the storm early last night. The small boat in which they were making their way toward the Brooklyn shore, was seen to capsize by Captain Peter O'Brien of the ship Andrew A. Lavender, and Captain M. E. Green of the ship Mary Carpenter, which are docked at the foot of Sixty-ninth Street, Brooklyn.

According to Captains O'Brien and Green, the small boat was about half a mile off shore when it capsized. The two men in the boat were seen to go into the water, and after a short struggle disappeared. O'Brien and Green first noticed the two about fifteen minutes before the boat upset. Both were rowing, and, with the wind favoring them, were making good headway. Suddenly the boat swerved about, and then for five minutes the two rowers fought hard to keep their small craft afloat, but failed. O'Brien and Green reported the accident and a patrol from Harbor Squad A went out to search the spot.

The five-masted bark Socony, owned by the Standard Oil Company, which was anchored off Ninetieth Street, South Brooklyn, dragged her anchor yesterday afternoon and went on the rocks off Seventy-ninth Street about 200 feet off the Brooklyn shore. One of the powerful Standard Oil tugs tried to haul the bark off, but the hawser parted three times with the heavy strain and the Socony remained on the rocks in a perilous position. Other craft attempted to haul her off in the snowstorm without success. The Captain hopes to float her safely when the weather moderates.

The Norwegian steamship Yola, which arrived here on Thursday from Philadelphia and anchored in Quarantine with a cargo of pig iron in transit, dragged her anchors in the morning and grounded in the lower harbor.

Five railroad barges loaded with chalk and tied up to the pier at the foot of Prospect Street, Stapleton, S. I., were torn loose by the gale and drifted out to sea with five men, five women, and ten children on board. They were out past Sandy Hook Lightship when the naval tugs Wyossing, Aurora, and Sea Bright found them. All on board were rescued, and all except one of the barges were towed back to port. Four of the barges were located in a group, but one, belonging to the New Jersey Central, was found only after a search, far out to sea and in a sinking condition.

The officer in command of the tug succeeded in taking off the Captain, his wife, and their four children. A high sea was running and the work of rescue was dangerous and difficult. The commander of the naval vessel succeeded in passing and repassing so close to the barge that the Captain was able to half fling his family on board and later managed to climb up himself. Other craft at Staten Island have been reported in trouble.

Last night the wind reached its maximum intensity at 9:20 o'clock when it attained a velocity of ninety miles an hour. The temperature had dropped slightly and ice was causing trouble to the transit lines. Despite the gale the decorations on the Victory Arch did not appear to have suffered much from the storm. The Knights of Columbus kept its service stations and huts open last night to shelter sailors and soldiers. So did the management of the Keith Theatres. Street traffic conditions hardly improved during the evening and many delays were reported.

The Boston Express, due at the Grand Central at 7:10 P. M., did not get in until 8:15 o'clock. The second section of the express, due at 8:10 o'clock, got in at 8:54. Train dispatchers at the Pennsylvania Station said that the trains on the Baltimore & Ohio, the Pennsylvania, and the Long Island Division were arriving between one-half and one hour late in their schedules. The Black Diamond Express of the Pennsylvania Railroad, due at the Pennsylvania Terminal at 7:44, pulled into its station at 8:30, according to the schedule sheets.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE INJUNCTION HOLDS

Not Permitted to be Excluded from Case—Nashville Members Sue Church Leaders.

BOSTON, March 28.—The temporary injunction, issued on Tuesday, restraining the Directors of the First Church of Christ Scientist from interfering with the Trustees of the Christian Science Publishing Society in the discharge of their duties, was today ordered continued pending a hearing on the merits of the case.

The construction of two trusts created by the late Mary Baker G. Eddy, founder of he church, is involved in this action, which was brought by the Trustees of the publishing society in the form of a bill in equity. It is alleged in the bill that the Directors of the church, since the death of Mrs. Eddy, "have been gradually endeavoring to assume and exercise powers with regard to the publishing society which the Directors never assumed or attempted to exercise "during her lifetime.

After hearing brief arguments of attorneys, Supreme Court Justice H. K. Braley ordered the pleadings to be completed on or before April 4, after which a master will be appointed by the court to hear the facts unless counsel in the meantime agree upon a master.

When Judge Braley inquired how much evidence there would be in the case, Sherman L. Whipple, counsel for the complainants, replied that, as the respondents had not yet filed an answer, it would be difficult to say how many facts were in dispute. Much of the evidence to be introduced, Mr. Whipple thought, would be documentary. The issues of fact would be narrow, he said, but it was doubtful if counsel could agree on the facts.

Bates Defends Directors.

Former Governor John L. Bates, who represented all the respondents except John V. Dittemore, said that the question would narrow down to one of law, whether the Directors, in the exercise of power given them and the trust, had a right for the best interests of the church to remove certain persons from their offices as Trustees. Mr. Bates said that he represented the Directors of a great church extending all over the world. The respondents who were carrying out what they believed to be the purpose of the founder of that church had been enjoined, he said, without notice.

If the respondents had been told of the proposed litigation, he continued, there would not have been any need for an injunction issuing. An injunction having been granted, the respondents did not object to its being continued until the pleading had been completed and the case heard on its merits.

Mr. Bates then called the attention of the court to what he termed an unusual proceeding, which he thought was not justified by equity. The bill of complaint was filed on Tuesday, he said, and within three days afterward thousands of printed copies of it had been sent to members of the church, for the purpose, he thought, of creating a sentiment in favor of the complainants. He suggested that in view of the methods taken to influence members of the Christian Science Church it might be possible that the court would not longer continue the injunction.

A copy of a telegram which was read into the record by Mr. Bates, he said, he understood had been sent by the Board of Trustees of the publishing society to newspapers in the United States and Canada. The message asked he cooperation of the papers to prevent the publication of "unauthorized statements regarding the question at issue," and added that any desired information would be furnished by the society. Counsel held that this action by the Trustees was improper, as it appeared to be an attempt to prejudice the case in the public mind.

The court suggested that the respondents might file a cross bill of injunction if they wished.

Dittemore Seeks to Withdraw.

William G. Thompson, who appeared for John V. Dittemore, one of the respondents, argued that his client should not be included as a party in the proceeding. Mr. Thompson explained that Mr. Dittemore had been nominally removed as a Director, and that, although he had advised Dittemore that the removal was illegal, Dittemore had declined to enter any litigation because of his loyalty to the tenets of the church and to is founder.

Mr. Whipple was proceeding to state what he considered the position of Dittemore when Judge Braley interrupted and said that Dittemore's disclaimer could not relieve him from the legal position in which the bill had placed him.

Later Mr. Whipple remarked that the respondents had started out to dominate the business not only of the church, but of the publishing society connected with the church. Judge Braley replied that he was not dealing with a church controversy, but only with a question of law which had arisen as to the interpretation of certain trusts.

Monitor Writer Resigns.

John Joseph Flinn, for nearly eleven years an editorial writer on The Christian Science Monitor, today announced that he had resigned because, he said, "of some differences of opinion regarding the present management of that journal."

"I am," he said, "entirely in sympathy with the Board of Directors of the Mother Church in the present controversy with the Board of Trustees of the Christian Science Publishing Society."

Mr. Flinn was formerly identified in an editorial capacity with newspapers in the West, has been a First Reader, a practitioner, and active for eighteen years in Christian Science work. Ten years ago last August, he said, he was called to Boston for consultation when Mrs. Eddy decided to found a daily newspaper, assisted in the development of the plan, and had been a leading editorial writer upon The Monitor since its foundation in 1908. Beyond continuing as a practitioner, Mr. Flinn said that he had no plans at present.

William W. Swan, for three years a member of the staff of The Christian Science Monitor, stated to reporters that he had been discharged from the employ of the paper last Tuesday without receiving any reason for his dismissal. He said that he had been ordered to leave the building in which The Monitor is published within an hour, and added: "This suit is a breach of the by-laws of the Christian Science Church as they were established by Mrs. Eddy. I have no sympathy whatever with the course adopted by these plaintiffs."

Nashville Suit Against Leaders.

The First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Nashville, Tenn., and Henry M. Mason and Amnie O. Mason of Nashville, filed petitions in equity today in the Supreme Court here against the Directors of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Boston, and the Trustees of the Christian Science Publishing Society. The petitions charge breach of contract by the Trustees of the publishing society and allege that the Directors of the Mother Church of Boston induced this action. An order of notice was issued returnable April 18, when a preliminary hearing will be held.

It is charged by the petitioners that the Directors of the mother church in Boston a few years ago illegally investigated them and encouraged some of the members of the First Church in Nashville to leave its membership and form a "so-called Christian Science Society." The petitioners say that the Directors of the Mother Church ordered the Nashville church to recognize the Christian Science Society, and upon refusal of the Directors of the church to do so the Directors of the Mother Church ordered the Nashville church stricken from the list of churches in the official publication of the Christian Science Church.

Samuel I. Powers, who is conducting the case for the petitioners, asserts that, as practically all the churches and practitioners are included in the lists in the church publication, the exclusion of the Nashville church and of the Masons raises the question of the standing of the church and of the Masons as practitioners. It is declared that the Directors of the mother church are claiming absolute power, atlhough "the by-laws of the mother church expressly provide that the mother church shall assume no general control of other churches and that each branch church shall have its own form of government in consonance with the manual of the mother church."

DEPORTED 125,000 BELGIANS

6,000 Civilians Died as Result of German Ill-Treatment.

BRUSSELS, March 28.—Six thousand Belgian civilians died during the war as the result of German ill-treatment, according to an official report made in the Chamber of Deputies Thursday during a debate on the reparation due civilian victims of the war. Seven thousand children were made orphans, and 125,000 men were deported from Belgium by the Germans.

The indemnity which can be claimed from Germany by Belgium on this account is estimated at 900,000,000 francs. The Minister of Economic Affairs declared that all damages will be fully indemnified by the Germans.

GUGGENHEIM POLICE HEAD IN THE BRONX

Member of the Wealthy Copper Family Appointed a Special Deputy Commissioner.

SERVES CITY WITHOUT PAY

Twenty-six Fliers, All with War Experience, Enlisted for the Department's Aviation Section.

Edmond A. Guggenheim of 927 Fifth Avenue, member of the firm of Guggenheim Brothers at 120 Broadway, was appointed a Special Deputy Police Commissioner yesterday by Commissioner Enright. Mr. Guggenheim is to have entire charge of police matters in the Bronx, it was said. He is the sixth appointee named as Special Commissioner by this administration, all well-known men, who serve in this honorary capacity without pay, but a bill has been presented at Albany to accord official status to these appointments. The other special deputies are Dr. John A. Harriss, Augustus D. Porter, Allan A. Ryan, John M. Shaw, and Rodman Wanamaker.

Mr. Guggenheim, who began his police duties immediately after appointment, is 31 years old, and is a graduate of Columbia University and the engineering department of the Yale Scientific School. In announcing the appointment Commissioner Enright gave out this biographical sketch of Mr. Guggenheim:

"Mr. Guggenheim spent three years in the plants of the American Smelting and Refining Company, learned the practical end of the copper business, and was subsequently made a member of the firm of Guggenheim Brothers. At present he is Vice President of the Chile and Braden Copper Companies, and a Director of the Kennicott Copper Corporation, Utah, and the Nevada Consolidated Copper companies. He was in charge of the operations of the Chile and Braden Companies, which provided a large part of the copper for the United States Government in 1918, when he enlisted as a private in the Motor Training School at Camp Meigs, Wash."

Commissioner Enright promoted Captain Alfred W. Thor yesterday to Inspector, and assigned him as chief of staff in the office of Chief Inspector John Daly at Police Headquarters. Since July, 1918, Thor has been Acting Inspector and chief aid in charge of the clerical work in Daly's office. Thor was appointed a patrolman in 1886 after service in the United States Engineer Corps. He was made a Captain in 1911, and had commanded the West Thirtieth and East Fifty-first Street Stations.

Colonel Jefferson De Mont Thompson, in charge of the Aviation Section of the Police Department, announced yesterday that he had enlisted twenty-six aviators, most of whom have come from war service with the American, French, and British armies and navies. The men were sworn in by Special Deputy Commissioner Wanamaker. The police fliers were accepted from among 125 applicants. The flying policemen are:

Lieutenant William E. Skillman, Lieutenant Paul Micelli, Pilot Edward L. Smith, William J. Lee, Leonard Emil Mins, Pilot James R. McCaffrey, Captain S. Herbert Mapes, Lieutenant Leigh J. Bair, Captain Hugo Sunstedt, Captain Granville A. Pollock, Lieutenant F. J. Sweeney, Captain Joseph C. Stehlin, Lieutenant Edmund C. Rowan, Lieutenant J. R. Hoyt, Lieutenant Frank S. Ennis, Lieutenant C. W. Kerwood, Miles E. Kellin, Ensign A. P. Taliaferro, Jr., Captain Theodore Arter, Ensign Frank E. Hutcheon, Charles Siems, Ensign J. G. Stewart, Edward C. Lobdell, Charles S. Jones, and Lieutenant Hilbert L. Bair.

It is intended to develop the police airplane section to take over much of the work now performed by the patrol boats. For this reason it will be necessary to have an equipment of hydroplanes as well as airplanes. The question of the best types of machines for city service will be determined, said Colonel Thompson at the meeting of manufacturers at Atlantic City in May. He thought that this first crew of the police squadron that is to come later will be at work by June.

Landing places have been obtained at Governors Island, Van Cortlandt Park, Sheepshead Bay Speedway, at the Quarantine Station, Staten Island, and a field near the Columbia Yacht Club, between West Seventy-ninth and Eighty-sixth Streets. The men will form part of the police reserves, serving without pay except for service expenses and uniforms, which will be provided by the city.

Colonel Thompson said that a number of owners of big buildings had offered the use of the roofs for landing stages, but this is a matter which will have to be studied before risking house-top stops in flight. Until planes are equipped for better control in landing there is not much prospect of using the roofs.

AERO CLUB INVITES BRITISH.

Air Ministry Said to be Considering Flight to Atlantic City.

The Aero Club of America announced last night that it had received a cable dispatch from the British Air Ministry in London stating that it was considering an invitation to fly one of its huge dirigibles across the Atlantic to Atlantic City in May during the time the second session of the Pan-American Aeronautical Exposition is in session there, from May 1 to June 1. The cable dispatch addressed to Alan R. Hawley, President of the Club, reads:

> Your invitation for British airship to fly to Atlantic City month of May is under consideration. A further communication will be made to you shortly.
> (Signed) BRITISH AIR MINISTRY.

Mr. Hawley stated that the British dirigible selected to attempt the trans-Atlantic flight probably would be the new R-33 or the R-34, which have been tested during the past month in England.

"They can easily make the trip in about forty-eight hours from England, flying at an altitude of upwards of 6,000 feet," Mr. Hawley said. "The crew will have room enough to travel 'de luxe' with Pullman car accommodations."

WIGMORE DEFENDS COURTS OF THE ARMY

Says Organizers of Association to Urge Reforms Are Partisans of Ansell.

CALLS SITUATION AMUSING

Army Officer, Close Associate of Crowder, Questions Court-Martial Experience of Men in Movement.

Colonel J. A. Wigmore of the Judge Advocate General's Department of the army, who is one of the officers closest to Major Gen. Crowder, the Judge Advocate General, made a statement yesterday regarding the newly organized association of former Judge Advocates which has been formed to support the movement for the reform of the American court-martial procedure. Colonel Wigmore took issue with some of the statements made in the announcement given out by the organization on Thursday, and defended the court-martial system, which is the cause of the controversy.

Colonel Wigmore asserted that Major George C. Beach, Major Roscoe Stewart, and some of the other former officers interested in the new organization had no firsthand knowledge of court-martial law, and that during the entire time they were in the army they were attached to the war risk insurance section of the Judge Advocate General's office, with duties, he said, which "had no more to do with military justice than kalsomine has to do with the stability of a skyscraper." All of the members of the new association, Colonel Wigmore asserted, were partisans of the former Acting Judge Advocate General, Samuel T. Ansell.

Major Stewart at his office at 19 West Forty-fourth Street yesterday said that he was glad to admit that he was an Ansell partisan. Fully 95 per cent. of the officers of the Judge Advocate General's Department, he said, were friends and supporters of the demoted former acting chief of the department. Major Stewart said that both Major John Crowley of Chicago and Major Charles G. Revelle of St. Louis were officers who were identified with the administration of military justice during the period they were in the service. Other officers who were active in court-martial cases, Major Stewart said, would be announced next week as additional members of the Executive Committee of the new organization.

Colonel Wigmore was one of the men who helped draft the present court-martial regulations. During the period of hostilities he was one of General Crowder's chief assistants in the Provost Marshal General's office in Washington.

"I happened to be passing through New York on leave," said Colonel Wigmore, "when I noted in this morning's newspapers the announcement of an organization of former judge advocates, the stated purpose of the organization being to support the movement for the reform of the courts-martial procedure of the United States Army. I note that among the members of the new organization are Major George C. Beach, Major Frederick A. Brown, Major Roscoe Stewart, Major Robert Redfield and Major Roy D. Keehn.

"The facts, as printed, I must say caused me considerable amusement, because I know most of the young men mentioned in the announcement. They are friends of mine, and fine fellows. But the fact remains that the situation is somewhat amusing when one realizes the fact that, in the first place, they only—those that I know—came into the army last September and October; and, secondly, that their entire career in the army was passed in the War Risk Insurance Section, which has no more to do with military justice than kalsomine has to do with the stability of a skyscraper.

"The members of the organization whom I identify were officers who were the personal selections of General Ansell, and represent merely a small partisan clique of his followers. They are lawyers of good standing at the bar, but men whose organization in no sense is representative of any general attitude on the part of judge advocates to express a spontaneous and sincere dissatisfaction with methods of military justice, as observed by them in their experience in court-martial work."

Colonel Wigmore was asked what judge advocates, with court-martial experience, thought of the charges directed against the present administration of military justice.

"No one," he said, "is in a position as yet to say positively because no effort has been made to canvas their opinion. However, I can cite an example of what that opinion probably will be if an effort is made to get it. About two weeks ago there arrived from France a judge advocate who before the war was for thirty years a prominent member of the California bar, and who in France was the judge advocate of the largest single court-martial jurisdiction. This jurisdiction included about 200,000 men, and had finally passed on hundreds of court-martial records.

"When this officer arrived home and got in touch with the present discussion of the subject of military justice he was amazed and shocked. He happens to be an old personal friend of the senior Senator from Oregon, Mr. Chamberlain, the Chairman of the Senate Committee on Military Affairs, who began the attack on the War Department by his speech in the Senate on Dec. 30 last.

"This returned officer was totally unable to comprehend the basis or the motive back of Senator Chamberlain's attack on the system of military justice, because it seemed to him entirely baseless. After thirty years in civil practice he had been brought into the Army and promptly sent to France, where he had observed the entire court-martial system from the ground up, and it is his opinion that as a system, no better form exists in any army in Europe at the present time."

When Major Stewart, who is the Secretary of the Association of Former Judge Advocates, was asked if he had anything to say in reply to Colonel Wigmore, he replied that a statement would be issued, probably today. In the meantime, he added, Major Beach, himself and the other members of the executive committee were going ahead organizing the association, which he said would be nationwide in scope.

Kilmer's Mother Gets War Cross.

Mrs. Kilburn Kilmer, mother of Sergeant Joyce Kilmer, the writer and poet, who was killed on the French front, has received a Croix de Guerre from the French Government as a souvenir of her son. The original decoration bestowed upon Sergeant Kilmer was sent to her daughter-in-law. The cross was presented by Major de Naleche of the French Mission.

BAKER SENDS BACK ANSELL'S LETTER

Says Communication Seems "Not Helpful" Toward Court-Martial Reform.

INVITES DIRECT PROPOSALS

Officer Faces Prospect of Trial on Insubordination Charge if He Reveals Text.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Secretary of War Baker has returned to Colonel Samuel P. Ansell, former Acting Judge Advocate General of the Army, Colonel Ansell's letter of March 11, which was written in reply to the Baker-Crowder correspondence relative to the army court-martial system.

"I have returned to Colonel Ansell," said Mr. Baker this afternoon, "the letter which he sent me with the suggestion that any recommendations or suggestions he has to make with reference to improvement in the substantive military law or in the procedure will be welcomed. The particular letter seems to me to be not helpful, and therefore I have returned it to him and I have told him that any suggestion he wants to make he can make either throuh military channels or directly to me as he may elect."

The action of the Secretary of War in returning Colonel Ansell's letter is not expected to lessen the tension between the War Department and those members of Congress, headed by Senator Chamberlain, Chairman of the Senate Military Committee, who have been championing Colonel Ansell's urging of court-martial reforms. Senator Chamberlain insisted that Colonel Ansell's letter ought to be made public and, in a telegram to Secretary Baker, virtually demanded that this should be done.

The Senator, who is now in Mississippi on a two weeks' vacation, said before leaving Washington that he considered Colonel Ansell's letter one of the most valuable contributions that had been made to the department in regard to courts-martial. Secretary Baker evidently holds a different view.

Colonel Ansell said today that he had no statement to make. His friends asserted that it was improbable he would take any steps toward making public the reply himself, as such action would be construed as insubordination and would render him liable to court-martial proceedings on that charge, but the proceedings would not necessarily involve either the controversy over the legal system in the army or the personal relations between Colonel Ansell and General Crowder.

scent is not to be taxed, but the income from such property must be included in the gross income, and is therefore taxable.

Any amount received through accident or health insurance or under the Workmen's Compensation act, plus the amount of damages received by suit or agreement on account of such sickness or injuries, or through the War Risk Insurance act or any law enacted for the benefit or relief of injured or disabled members of the United States military or naval forces, will not be taxed.

Incomes received by any officer of a religious denomination or by religious, Bible, charitable, benevolent, fraternal, missionary, hospital, infirmary, educational, scientific, literary, library, patriotic, historical, or cemetery institutions, if the income in this instance is used exclusively for carrying out the purposes of the institution, also are exempted from taxation. Fees or personal earnings, or other private income of such an officer or trustee, are not exempted.

In making out his tax report a nonresident taxpayer may deduct interest on bonds or notes or dividends from corporations within the State.

In computing net incomes the necessary expenses paid or incurred in carrying on any trade or business, including a reasonable allowance for salaries or other compensation for personal services actually rendered and including rentals or other payments required to permit the continued use or possession of the property necessary to the conduct of the trade or business to which the taxpayer has not title, may be deducted. Deductions are also allowed for taxes imposed by the Federal Government, the State municipalities, and school districts other than income taxes.

Business or trade losses sustained during the taxable year not compensated for by insurance, or losses in any transaction made for profit or to property arising from fires, storms, shipwreck, or from other casualty or theft, also not covered by insurance, can be deducted.

The bill further permits deduction of a reasonable allowance for wear and tear on business property and also on contributions or gifts to associations incorporated under the State laws for religious, charitable, scientific, and educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals.

Personal items and living or family expenses are not deductible. Neither is the amount paid for new buildings or for permanent improvements made to increase property value. Premiums paid on any life insurance policy must be incorporated in the tax statement which must be filed with the State Tax Commission.

CRAIG OPPOSES INCOME TAX.

City Controller Says Personalty Levy Would Fill Needs.

On the ground that the State income tax bill introduced in the Senate at Albany yesterday contained many inequities and insufficiencies, City Controller Charles L. Craig declared yesterday that he was opposed to the measure. He favored a personal property tax of one-half of 1 per cent. which, he said, would meet all the State's requirements. Jacob A. Cantor, President of the Board of Tax Commissioners, also voiced objections to the bill of the Davenport committee.

"In my judgment there are many and fatal objections to the enactment of a State income tax in New York," said Controller Craig. "The Federal Government is using this instrumentality to the very limit of endurance. Immediate conflict would arise in applying the State and Federal laws with respect to deductions from net income of such taxes. The infirmities of this legislation are so numerous that I cannot attempt to state them in the order of their importance.

"The income proposed to be taxed does not include income derived from outside the State of New York by any resident thereof. The bill provides that a person paying an income tax may exempt himself from the payment of any tax on personal property by the filing of a statement that he has no income subject to taxation under the act. In practical operation this means that a resident of the City of New York owning personal property aggregating many millions of dollars in value may escape payment of any tax whatever in the State of New York. If his income be derived from copper mines in the West or from iron, steel, and coke properties in the Alleghenies, or from securities of foreign corporations engaged in the steel trade, or other like industry, such income would not be subject to any tax whatever in the State of New York.

"There are probably numerous residents of the City of New York and State of New York whose entire income is derived from outside the State, but whose wealth is represented by securities owned and held within the State, which, like the owners thereof, enjoy the benefits of the protection of the State and local Government within the State. The mere filing of a certificate under the proposed law that they are not subject to an income tax would exempt them from taxation upon such tangible personal property. Great private galleries and mansions containing works of art and furnishings of fabulous value, owned and maintained to satisfy the desires of individuals and never opened to the public, would pay no tax whatever.

"Against such unjust and unsound exemptions, and probably as an offset thereto, the bill proposes to tax the incomes of wage earners and salaried employes, including those of the State and local Governments. So far as the latter are concerned it is quite obvious that their compensation would in most instances immediately have to be increased to cover such tax because of the supposed inadequacy of the existing rates of compensation of such persons. The bill provides that income from rentals of real estate shall not be taxed. When it is considered that under existing statutes vast amounts of personal property are not now subject to taxation it will be seen quite readily that when an attempt is made to collect a tax upon the income from personal property that is not subject to taxation, the attempt will in most instances result in failure.

"This income tax bill may be taken as the best that can be offered by the advocates of such a measure. Its inequities and insufficiencies are so manifest as to require its unqualified rejection. A personal property tax of one-half of 1 per cent. throughout the State, with a compulsory return by every one having personal property to the value of more than $3,000 will meet the existing situation. Of course, for such a tax to be effectual, the provision of existing statutes exempting or making nontaxable great amounts of personal property must be eliminated so as to free this property from existing exemptions and leave it subject to a just share of the costs and burdens of government.

"Such a personal property tax, particularly in the City of New York, should be made payable from four to eight weeks in advance of the time for fixing the tax rate upon real estate. When the tax collections from personal property are definitely known, the tax upon real estate need be levied only for the additional sums required for the current year. The requirements of the State should be met by a direct tax, the proper proportions of which must be raised in the various localities.

"Under existing laws, the great bulk of the wealth and property owned in the State of New York is subject to little or no burden of taxation. Real estate, which cannot be removed or concealed by its owners, and which is the constitutional bulwark of taxation and public borrowing, is subjected to the burdens that should be borne by personal property.

"Under one statute or another, shares of stock in domestic and foreign corporations, whether railroads, industrials, traction, gas, electric light and power, mines, oil fields, timber, or whatever purpose for which they are organized, go practically untaxed. The bonds, notes, debentures, and other obligations of such corporations (running for more than a year) are exempted by payment of an annual sum of 20 cents on each $100 of value. The personal property owned by trust companies and investment companies organized under the banking law is exempt from taxation, while the certificates of investment or other evidences of indebtedness issued by any investment company are likewise exempted from taxation. The payment of one-half of 1 per cent. for the recording of a mortgage upon real estate exempts the holder of the mortgage from all tax thereon, although it is known to all that the burden of paying the recording tax is invariably placed upon the borrower."

Mr. Craig said that the advocacy of a State income tax rested very largely upon the assertion that the tax on personal property was a failure and could not be enforced. This contention against the personal property tax antedated the enactment of the Federal income tax, and practically every objection that had been made to the personal property tax was made to the Federal income tax. These objections had been completely met by the requirement of Federal legislation for a compulsory return of incomes by all persons subject to the tax. The requirement for a compulsory return by all owners of personal property subject to tax within this State would impose no hardship whatever that would not be less than is brought about by Federal and State legislation and that proposed for a State income tax.

Mr. Cantor said he favored a compulsory return by every one within the State and a tax of one-half of 1 per cent., with no deductions. He believed in a salary tax for non-residents employed in the city or State. The salary tax, he said, might be one-fourth of 1 per cent. With such changes as would be included in a personal property tax there would be no need for an income tax.

"We need $40,000,000 more than is raised under the present system of taxation," he said. "I have suggested that if a fair rate per $100 became the maximum tax on real estate and there was enacted the personal property tax law with the changes outlined, with two years of trial under the personal tax law we would be able, I think, to limit the tax on real estate to $2."

WEISGERBER FEARS THEFT OF FORMULA

ONE CHARGE IS DROPPED

Trial Ends and Findings Will Go to Washington for Review.

The trial of Captain Edwin G. Weisgerber by a military court at Governors Island on charges specifying, among other allegations, that he had demonstrated "his disloyalty to the Government of the United States and his sympathy with its enemies," ended yesterday. The finding of the court will be made known from Washington through regular military channels.

The Government in its case made the following allegations against Captain Weisgerber:

That he had attempted to hurt British military preparations by trying to sell to the British Government a substitute for gasoline which contained picric acid and would have damaged internal combustion engines in which it was used; that he recommended an interchangeable standardized equipment for oxygen, hydrogen, and acetylene containers, recommendations which if adopted, the Government asserted, would have been dangerous to lives and property; that he made disparaging remarks about his superior officer, Captain D. H. Trounce, and that he had threatened to withhold one of his inventions from the Government if promotion were not forthcoming.

Before resting his case against the defendant, Major Francis M. Bass, the Judge Advocate in charge of the prosecution, withdrew the allegation regarding the attempt to sell a fuel containing picric-acid to the British Government.

Says Fuel Interests Spied on Him.

Captain Weisgerber did not, as had been expected, take the stand in his own defense, but instead his attorney, Major E. Lowry Humes, put a long statement from him into the evidence. In giving the statement to the court, Major Humes said the reason his client would not testify in his own behalf was that he would be compelled, if called upon to do so, to refuse to make any of the synthetic fuel in court.

Captain Weisgerber in his statement declared he had been spied upon by the fuel interests, who sought to wrest from him the secret of his chemical discovery of synthetic fuel. The statement in part was as follows:

"With regard to the synthetic fuel, I desire to entirely corroborate and reiterate the statement made by J. K. Burnett in so far as they involve me or any transactions in which Mr. Burnett and I acted jointly. The synthetic fuel, which was made in the presence of Mr. Burnett and regarding which he testified, was made of from 90 to 95 per cent. water, with the remaining percentage of added chemicals. Every effort was made to extract from me the formula for this fuel and many subterfuges have been adopted by those seeking to gain this information. I have been constantly watched and my purchases of chemicals have been closely followed by persons having ulterior designs.

"After I entered the military service I continued many experiments on various substitute fuels and did my utmost to aid the Government of the United States in developing a fuel which might be an improvement upon gasoline in internal combusion engines. During all of these activities on my part I have been compelled to meet the open and bitter antagonism of the fuel interests, which sought to prevent the competition of a fuel which they did not control."

The Demand for Analysis.

Here Captain Weisgerber took up the story of the meeting with officers of the British Mission in Washington, told by Mr. Burnett on Thursday. He said he had refused to give the mission any more samples of the synthetic fuel than the eight ounces sent them at first, which it was reported they had lost.

Captain Weisgerber, in his statement, told of the demand made upon him by Major Lehner of the Chemical Warfare Service branch of the United States Army for an analysis of his fuel, as follows:

"The attitude assumed by Major Lehner was so offensive and his language and manner so insulting that I declined to further discuss the fuel question with any of the persons present and had a great difficulty in holding my temper sufficiently to avoid possible improper conduct toward a superior officer.

"One of the British officers who made the tests of the synthetic fuel in Pittsburgh has since sought to secure certain foreign rights on the same when the fuel is placed on the market. At this meeting (with the British Mission) no effort was made to sell either fuel or the formula to the British Government, and it is a project which only could be handled, if a prospective purchaser became interested, by selling the formula, and consequently the person or Government seeking to utilize the same would have been able to determine every possibility, whether dangerous to persons or engine, before giving it general use.

"The typewritten suggestions relative to specifications for gas equipment were prepared after a conference between Captain Malone and myself. Captain Malone had charge of the welding school, and I regarded him as an authority on questions of gas equipment. I am not and did not pretend to be an authority on welding questions or on gas equipment. I had attended some committee meetings with Major Zimmerman. He asked me to familiarize myself with gas equipment, and this I was undertaking to do. It is ridiculous to suggest that I, in my humble capacity and my limited service in the military establishment, could secure the standardization of equipment, with or without the approval of Captain Doyle."

Captain Weisgerber took up the charge that he had made disparaging remarks about Captain Trounce, his superior officer at Camp Dix, by declaring that at Camp Dix the opinion of the inefficiency of Captain Trounce was a matter of public gossip. In regard to the statement attributed to him by Captain Belcher, in which the defendant is said to have stated that "no Colonelcy for me, no fuel for the Government," Captain Weisgerber said:

His Ambition for Promotion.

"A day or so before the date set by Captain Belcher for the remarks he alleges I made with reference to securing promotion for myself and Major Zimmerman I had received from the Bureau of Standards the report on my Liberty fuel. The report was very favorable, and I was much elated. In common with all ambitious officers, I hoped that my service might merit promotion, and I felt that the report of the Bureau of Standards, by reason of its official nature, would result in a recognition of my service.

"I never hesitated to give expression to my ambition for promotion, and I may have made some remark on that subject to Captain Belcher, but I never had any desire or purpose to undertake to secure the same by any questionable or dishonest method, and I never in any serious way suggested that I withhold Liberty fuel, or any other device within my knowledge, from the Government unless such a promotion was secured.

"The very fact that I was in touch with the proper patent board and that I did make a complete assignment of the right to use Liberty fuel to the Government of the United States without royalty is a sufficient answer to this charge."

In summing up, Major Humes, for the defense, declared that not one scintilla of evidence had been brought out against his client by the Government, and asked a complete acquittal of the defendant. Major Bass, in withdrawing the one allegation, asserted that the defense had not proved its case in the matter of the other charges.

15 HURT BY EXPLOSION AT PROVING GROUNDS

125 Pounds of TNT Set Off in Mysterious Manner at Aberdeen—$50,000 Damage.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Officials of the War Department were greatly concerned for several hours this afternoon when news reached Washington from Baltimore that there had been a terrific explosion at the great army proving grounds at Aberdeen, north of Baltimore. Vigorous efforts were made to obtain the facts, and while no formal official report was received, the office of the chief of staff learned late this afternoon that the explosion was not as serious as had at first been supposed.

From an officer at the proving grounds it learned that at noon today 125 pounds of TNT had exploded, and the department's latest advices tonight were that fifteen men, including several enlisted men of the army, were injured, and that the damage would run from $50,000 up.

The explosion occurred at the trench warfare proving ground, which is isolated from the main proving ground at Aberdeen. A 240-millimeter bomb was being loaded with TNT when in some mysterious manner the building in which the bomb was being loaded caught fire.

The missile exploded, destroying the shed in which the loading had been in progress and six other sheds.

BEGIN TEACHER'S TRIAL.

Board Investigates Glassberg's Alleged Remarks About Bolshevism.

The trial of Benjamin Glassberg, teacher of history in the Commercial High School of Brooklyn, was begun by the Board of Education yesterday. Glassberg is charged with saying to his class that the State Department suppressed facts about Bolshevism; that a public school teacher was not allowed to tell the truth about it; that the Red Cross workers were not permitted to say what they knew of it, and that the placing of the red flag above the United States flag would be, in one sense, a good thing.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Mayer appeared for the prosecution. Gilbert E. Roe, counsel for the Teachers' Union, represented the accused, who is a member of that body. Glassberg's history class numbered thirty-five pupils. Apparently all were present at the hearing yesterday.

Edgar Grimmel, one of Glassberg's history pupils, testified that on Jan. 14 questions were asked the teacher about Bolshevism. Glassberg, the witness testified, said that it was a good thing, that there was a wrong idea about it, but that the truth would show it to be all right. He explained, according to Grimmel, that he said this not as a school teacher but as a private citizen. Major Thatcher of the Red Cross, he said, had not been allowed to tell the truth about conditions in Russia. Grimmel testified that he asked the teacher if Lenine and Trotzky were not on the side of the Germans, and he answered that they were not, but had really undermined the German Government.

Martin Carroll, another pupil in Glassberg's class, said that the teacher's remarks temporarily led him to believe that Bolshevism was a good thing.

"Are you a Bolshevik?" asked Mr. Roe.

"I don't believe in it now," replied the witness. He said that a talk with his Principal, Gilbert J. Raynor, had changed his views.

The trial was adjourned until 3 P. M. on next Friday.

GUGGENHEIMER DIVORCED.

Court Grants Final Decree with Alimony to Janet Beecher.

A final decree of divorce, signed by Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkins, in favor of Janet Beecher Guggenheimer, the actress, against Harry R. Guggenheimer of New York was filed yesterday in the Westchester County Clerk's office. Under the judgment the plaintiff is entitled to $2,500 a year alimony, payable in advance on the 26th of each month.

The interlocutory decree was filed on Dec. 23, 1918, following a report of Referee Leo C. Dessar of Nyack, who found in favor of the plaintiff.

Under the final judgment the defendant is forbidden to marry again while the plaintiff is alive. Mrs. Guggenheimer is allowed to resume her maiden name.

A man giving the name Harry R. Guggenheimer, accompanied by a young woman giving her name as Miss Gwendolyn Ranger Wormser, obtained a marriage license in Jersey City yesterday afternoon. The man said he was 39 years old, lived at 923 Fifth Avenue, was a son of the late Randolph Guggenheimer, that he had been married to Janet Beecher, and had been divorced. Miss Wormser said she was the daughter of the late Maurice S. Wormser, a Wall Street banker, who died ten years ago, that she was 26 years of age, and lived at 45 East Eighty-second Street, the home of her mother.

ONLY ONE TRANSPORT IN.

St. Louis Reaches Dock with Troops Despite Storm.

Only one transport, the United States cruiser St. Louis, buffeted her way into port through the 65-mile gale and the blinding snowstorm. She reached Pier 4, Hoboken, safely at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, after having anchored off Tompkinsville for some time when the storm was at its height.

The St. Louis brought 1,323 officers and men of the 148th Regiment belonging to the 37th Division of Ohio. They were commanded by Major James A. Sullivan of Boston, Mass., who led the 3d Battalion in France, and Major L. S. Conelly of Cleveland, Ohio, who commanded the 1st Battalion.

Major Sullivan said there were twelve men of the 148th Regiment on the St. Louis who had won the Croix de Guerre and one who had won the Belgian War Cross. He added that the regiment had suffered about 40 per cent. in casualities.

On account of the rough weather down the Bay, combined with the northwest gale, which caused the cruiser to list over, the policeboat Patrol did not attempt to face the snowstorm, but the Red Cross, K. of C., Y. M. C. A., and other workers were on duty at the pier with hot coffee and food.

The French liner Touraine arrived from Havre late yesterday afternoon with 461 civilian passengers and 485 American troops, chiefly casuals from various States. The officers said the weather had been fine all the way over until they approached the American coast on Thursday, when it became very stormy with frequent snow squalls.

OFFICERS OF 77TH OPEN HEADQUARTERS

Lieut. Col. Campbell and Party Prepare to Arrange for Jobs and Welcome.

DIVISION RECORDS ARRIVE

Capt. Loughborough Praises Work of Jewish Boys and Those of German Extraction.

The advance guard of the 77th Division, New York's own, sent to the United States by Major Gen. Robert Alexander to co-operate with the Mayor's Committee and local organizations in arranging a welcome to the 30,000 men, opened headquarters yesterday in the Biltmore. Lieut. Col. Douglas Campbell is in charge, and associated with him in his work are Captain Allen L. Lindley, Captain J. M. Loughborough, Sergeant B. E. Allen, Sergeant E. J. Nolan, and Sergeant Benedict Carlin. Major James A. Roosevelt, who died at sea en route to this country, was also a member of the party.

Because of the death of Major Roosevelt no work was started yesterday. Lieut Col. Campbell said that his associates were shocked by the death of their comrade, and they felt they were unable to undertake the task before them until the beginning of the week. Voluminous records of the Metropolitan Division, as the 77th is familiarly known, have arrived at the Biltmore, and the work of presenting the exploits of the division, hitherto unpublished, will go ahead during the coming week.

Lieut. Col. Campbell said yesterday that as far as the division itself was concerned it was ready to set sail any day. Of primary importance to him, he said, was the obtaining of employment for the men, and this subject would be discussed with the Mayor's Committee along with the welcoming plans.

Lieut. Col. Campbell spoke in flattering terms of the mental and physical condition of the men. They woud return to civil life "fit as a fiddle," he said, and ready to grapple with the problems of peace times. He told of the aptitude and desire of the men to improve their education while in the army. This characteristic of the 77th Division had won praise from commanders of other organizations, he said.

Captain Loughborough praised the record made by the Jewish boys from the east side, whose deeds, he said, had been rewarded by official recognition in many cases from their divisional commander and General Pershing. He declared that New York should be proud of the 14,000 Jewish boys in the Metropolitan Division, and added that the hundreds of men of German extraction who were identified with the division deserved commendation for their part in the Argonne drive. He cited several instances of bravery displayed by men of German parentage and told how one doughboy had captured his own father, who had enlisted on the side of the Fatherland.

The scope of the history of the 77th Division, which is to be published soon, was explained by Lieutenant August Kaiser, who brought the manuscript and illustrations to the United States. The book was written in story form by a corps of experienced writers working under the direction of Major Julius Ochs Adler, the editor in chief. The book was written and compiled in the village of Châteauvillain, France, where men who had taken part in the incidents worthy of preservation were interviewed by the compilers. The book is to be profusely illustrated with drawings, in three colors, which have been made by eight artists on the field of battle. Lieutenant Kaiser was in charge of the illustrating, and made many of the drawings himself while under fire.

To provide a clubhouse and meeting point for the officers and men of the division the old Astor Library, in Lafayette Street near Eighth Street, is being overhauled and fitted up with all of the home comforts. The clubhouse will be ready for occupancy in about a week.

The parade and welcome to the 77th will probably take place on a day between May 10 and 15, according to the latest advices received at the headquarters of the 77th Division Association at 280 Madison Avenue.

Japan Decorates Our Naval Attache.

TOKIO, March 25, (Associated Press.)—Commander Frederick J. Horne, the American Naval Attaché here, has been decorated with the Order of the Sacred Treasure by the Emperor of Japan for "his splendid service as Naval Attaché." Commander Horne, who will return to the United States soon, is the first American naval officer to be decorated by the Japanese Government.

NOTICE TO THE EMPLOYEES OF JULIUS KAYSER & CO.

A Satisfactory Agreement

At a meeting this morning, the employees of Julius Kayser & Co., who have been on a strike for the last three weeks, voted to return to work next Monday morning, an agreement having been reached between the employees and the Company which was satisfactory to both parties.

ARTHUR SMEDLEY,
Chairman of the Committee.

A Breakfast Suggestion

Fried Sausage With Gravy. Lay slices of Jones Dairy Farm Sausage meat on a very hot iron frying-pan, and turn them as soon as they are well browned. As soon as the second side is browned they should be set into a hot oven to finish cooking.

Remove from the pan the instant they are done, and keep hot while making gravy. Add dry flour to the fat in the pan and let it brown as much as you dare to—then brown it a little more.

Remove from the fire while adding boiling water (one-half pint for each tablespoon of flour); stir till it is smooth and all the glaze in the bottom of the pan is dissolved, then return to the fire to boil for two minutes.

A Luncheon Dainty

Pork Loaf. 2 lbs. Jones Dairy Farm Sausage, 1 lb. steak chopped, 4 slices bread (soaked in milk), ½ onion (chopped), 2 eggs, salt, pepper and mace, grated rind lemon, 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Mix ingredients thoroughly. Grease a pan with butter or lard, place loaf in it, dust over with bread crumbs and bake in medium oven. Baste with melted lard several times. When done, serve hot.

For the Home Dinner

Scalloped Sausage and Cabbage. 1½ cups cold fried Jones Dairy Farm Sausage, shredded, 1½ cups cooked chopped cabbage, 1½ cups white sauce, well seasoned. Arrange in layers in a baking dish. Cover with buttered crumbs; heat in oven until sausage bubbles through the crumbs.

JONES DAIRY FARM SAUSAGE

Made in both meat and link styles and serves as the basis for a number of easily prepared and appetizing dishes.

It contains no cereal or preservative—just choice young pork, delicately spiced, made after the same old-time farm recipe we have been following for over thirty years. Only enough is made at a time to fill each day's shipments, bringing it to your table in perfect condition.

NEW LAW NEEDED FOR ALIEN ENEMIES

Palmer Will Recommend It to Take the Place of the Espionage Act.

4,000 ARE NOW INTERNED

600 of the Least Dangerous Released—900 of the Worst Type Likely to Remain in Camps.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—In discussing a statement issued by him today regarding the Government's attitude toward the interned aliens, 200 of whom will probably be deported, A. Mitchell Palmer, the Attorney General, said that it was necessary to have laws to take the place of the Espionage Act, which would become inoperative with the formal declaration of peace.

"This department is carefully studying the subject," said Mr. Palmer," and will make a recommendation to Congress for the passage of a law which will give the Federal Government authority to proceed against those plotting against the Government. There will be need for strong laws to protect the Government against the same influences which operated in the last four years."

In his statement, Mr. Palmer says that there are 4,000 interned aliens, of which number half are merchant seamen, and that there are 900 dangerous alien enemies. Of this latter number, 200 are professed I. W. W.'s or members of anarchistic organizations.

The statement follows:

"There are now confined in the army internment camps approximately 4,000 persons, nearly all of whom are men. Of this number 2,000 are merchant seamen, with the exception of forty-eight members of the Sanitary Personnel from Tsing Tau. The remaining 2,000 are persons who have been interned by order of the Attorney General as dangerous enemy aliens.

"Of the interned seamen, approximately 1,800 have now made application asking that they be repatriated to Germany. Of the dangerous alien enemies, 500 have made similar application, and it is expected that arrangements will be perfected in the near future through the State Department for the repatriation of these two groups.

"The Department of Justice has recently directed the release on parole of about 600 persons belonging to the more harmless clan of dangerous alien enemies. This group consists chiefly of persons who were interned because of repeated violation of parole or other regulations and are now no longer regarded as a menace to the public safety.

"When these men have been paroled and the repatriation plan above referred to is carried out, there will remain in the internment camps approximately 900 dangerous alien enemies, and it is not expected that any substantial number of these will be released in the near future. About 200 of this number are professed members of the I. W. W. or anarchistic organizations, and their cases will be referred to the Secretary of Labor with a view to securing their deportation if, in his opinion, the evidence warrants such action.

"The residue of these 900 dangerous alien enemies contains a large number of convicted criminals, spies and enemy agents who, in the view of the Attorney General, ought not to be permitted under any circumstances to remain in this country after the declaartion of peace. It is the intention of the Attorney General to renew at the next session of Congress the request made to the last Congress by Attorney General Gregory and Secretary Wilson, asking for legislation to provide the machinery for further investigating these cases and for the power to deport the most dangerous of these alien enemies.

"If such legislation is enacted, it is expected that at least one half of the remaining 900 dangerous alien enemies will be deported. Unless legislation of this character is provided by Congress, it will become necessary immediately on ratification of peace to set free all alien enemies then in confinement, including the criminals, spies, and enemy agents above referred to."

SWISS WANT MORE FOOD.

Complain of Delay in Shipment of American Grain from Cette.

BERNE, March 28.—Swiss newspapers complain that 63,000 tons of American grain and foodstuffs, consigned to Switzerland, have been lying at Cette, the French Mediterranean port of entry for Switzerland, and that only one train carrying supplies for this country leaves Cette daily.

It is said that only 500 tons can be carried on this train, so that the delivery of the grain will extend over four months. It is suggested that further shipments be sent to Marseilles or Genoa or some other Italian port.

BANK ROBBERS GET $75,000.

Lock Cashier and Patrons of Detroit Institution in a Vault.

DETROIT, Mich., March 28.—Herding fourteen persons, including several women, into the vault of the west side branch of the Commonwealth State Bank here, six unmasked bandits this afternoon robbed the institution of $10,000 in cash and unregistered Liberty bonds which the officials say may exceed $65,000 in value. Currency totaling $50,000 had been removed to the main office a few hours before the holdup, according to J. W. McCausey, President of the bank.

The holdup was one of the most daring in recent years. Two of the men stood guard outside the entrance to the bank while four entered with a man at their head waving a sawed-off shotgun. Charles H. Mooney, cashier, and Paul Mallick, his assistant, were ordered from their cages and, with several patrons, forced to stand with upraised hands while the bank vault was being rifled. The two bank attachés were then ordered into the vault together with the patrons and the big steel door closed.

The bandits then gathered up all the currency in sight and escaped in a big touring car. Their machine was seen to turn west on Fort Street, one of the main thoroughfares leading out of the city. The theory of the police is that they were headed for Toledo, and authorities of towns on the highway between that point and Detroit were immediately notified.

It was several minutes after the bandits left before the vault was opened and the imprisoned persons released.

DR. DOYLE RELEASED IN BAIL

Plea to Indictment for Petty Graft Goes Over for a Week.

Dr. William F. Doyle, Chief of the Bureau of Fire Prevention of the Fire Department, who was indicted with three others on Thursday on charges alleging petty graft collections from moving picture theatres, was arraigned yesterday before Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions on the specific charges of conspiracy and the acceptance of unlawful fees. He was released in bail of $2,500. His plea to the indictment and the pleas of Captain Frank McGinnis of the Department of Public Assemblies of the bureau; Leon Wallace, a manager at Healy's Restaurant, and Frank McGoey, all of whom had previously been released on bail, went over for a week.

It was said that Wallace had offered to assist the prosecution, and on this account his bail had been placed at $1,000. He was one of the witnesses before the Grand Jury. In a statement made by Wallace to Chief Assistant District Attorney A. J. Talley, in which he described the alleged graft plot, it was asserted that a scheme had been concocted to mislead Fire Commissioner Drennan, so that he would not become suspicious of what was being done. The Commissioner, however, started an investigation, and sent the facts to the District Attorney.

According to further information obtained by the District Attorney, the graft was expected to yield many thousands of dollars, but the total amount gotten from the picture houses did not exceed $1,500.

Something New to New Yorkers

NOTE:—MESSRS. JAMES McCREERY & CO. HAVE ESTABLISHED A PRICE FOR THEIR ENGLISH CLOTHES FOR THIS SEASON OF

$33 up

Last Season we made a lot of noise quietly with our English Clothes. Now we are going to talk about them.

Well-bred young men are fed up on American styles. Such fiendish fads as board-front coats and circular-saw lapels simply won't do. We have watched this flirtation of our best young men with Albion's styles very closely. And we've jumped in to give them just the kind of clothes their fine bearing requires.

Let there be no misunderstanding: These clothes are not made in Britain; they're privately tailored for us right here in New York of stuffs that are English in pattern and in many cases English in looming. And they're winning for us the nicest clientele in the city. You'd better look into this new idea of English Clothes.

SELLERS WINS RACE BY NARROW MARGIN

National Champion at 600 Yards Mows Down Handicaps in Run at Paulist Games.

DOLDER ONLY FOOT BEHIND

Scheffer Captures Two-Mile Race After an Interesting Tussle with Pair of Rivals.

Jack R. Sellers of the New York A. C., national senior indoor running champion at 600 yards, was forced to his limit last night to capture first prize in the three-quarter-mile handicap race, the principal event on the program at the Paulist A. C. games in the Twelfth Regiment Armory. Sellers won by about one foot from Al Dolder of the West Side Y. M. C. A. Edward Roesch, West Side Y. M. C. A., was third, and Newton Brown, national 1,000-yard champion, finished fourth. Sellers's time was 3:13 2-5.

The Winged Foot star started from scratch and encountered more than the expected amount of opposition in annexing the chief prize. A field of twenty-one runners competed against Sellers, all with liberal handicap allowances. The number of contestants, together with the comparatively small size of the track, made Sellers's task a difficult one. The turns were sharp, occasioning frequent spills, and the Mercury Foot champion found the runners ahead of him a thickly coagulated barrier over the greater part of the journey. Homer Baker, Glencoe A. C., was also scheduled to start from scratch, but failed to toe the mark.

Sellers failed to gain much ground in the early part of the race, although the field thinned out considerably through a stiff pace. The Mercury Foot runner cut out at a goodly gait, however, and increased his stride as the race progressed. With runners dropping by the wayside from the pace and spills, Sellers moved up after the fifth lap, and when the field was four laps from the finish the champion overtook his rivals.

Steadily Sellers plowed his way through the bunch of runners, despite the unfavorable going, and on the following lap the champion was breezing along in eighth position, with Dolder leading the pack. Sellers increased his efforts with each stride apparently, and on the bell lap he had moved into third place. Dolder struggled hard to open a gap on his rivals, but Sellers cut out in a sprint at this stage which brought him within striking distance of the Y. M. C. A. runner when within half a lap of the finish line. Here the two raced like a team until the worsted was reached, when Sellers just managed to throw himself over the line first.

The two-mile handicap run furnished an interesting tussle between three veterans of local athletics. Casper Scheffer of the Morningside A. C., the old Long Island A. C. runner, was the winner. He was aided by a handicap of 145 yards on Max Bohland, who started from scratch and finished fourth. Fred Travelena of the Mohawk A. C., with a 135-yards allowance, finished second, and John Costello, Paulist A. C., handicapped at 145 yards, was third. Scheffer's time was 9:27.

Scheffer, Travelena and Costello held together in a field of twenty-one starters from the opening gun until within two laps of the finish. Then Scheffer went to the front and although challenged repeatedly by Costello and Travelena, held to the leading position to the finish. He crossed the tape a winner by about twenty yards.

A mild disturbance arose after the running of the medley relay race, the closing event on the program. The Paulist A. C. team, through an excellent piece of running by Harry Cunningham, finished first, but was disqualified because Cunningham lost his baton. This gave premier prize to the Brooklyn A. A. quartet, second to the New York A. C., and third to the Morningside A. C. The change in placements deprived the Paulist team of the coveted point trophy and there was a loud roar and much gesticulating in knots of spectators on the armory floor.

The Morningside A. C. with nine points took the team prize.

As a result of the protests lodged by the Paulist A. C. officials and representatives of other teams the relay was ordered re-run tomorrow afternoon on the Twelfth Regiment floor.

The summaries:

60-Yard Dash, Handicap.—Won by L. Wettles, Columbia University, (11 feet;) O. Bach, Paulist A. C., (10 feet,) second; H. Braverman, Morningside A. C., (10 feet,) third; E. W. Markes, Knights of St. Antony, (6 feet,) fourth. Time—0:06 4-5.

Medley Relay Race, Handicap.—Won by Brooklyn A. A., (L. Kaufman, S. Schuval, F. Maguire, and H. Browser,) 90 yards; New York A. C., second; Morningside A. C., third. Time—7:55 1-5.

TWO YALE OARSMEN ILL.

Rockefeller and Patterson Out of Early Rowing Contests.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 28.—Godfrey Rockefeller and M. F. Patterson, two members of the Yale 'Varsity eight, have left college temporarily because of illness, and it is likely that both will be lost to the crew for the races with Pennsylvania, Princeton, and Columbia, which are scheduled for April and May. Patterson is suffering from an attack of bronchitis, and Rockefeller with appendicitis. It is expected that both will be able to return to the crew in time to train for the regatta with Harvard, which closes Yale's season late in June.

Rockefeller was an especially promising oarsman, and Dr. Mather A. Abbott, the Yale crew coach, said today that his loss would be felt keenly. Rockefeller has been rowing No. 6, and Patterson No. 2 in the 'Varsity this Spring. The positions have not yet been decided upon, as promising substitute candidates are being tried in the place of both men. Rockefeller is a grandson of William Rockefeller of New York City.

SCHOOLS IN TITLE SWIM.

Three Meets Today May Break Tie for Honors.

Today will witness the breaking of the deadlock which exists in the chase for the junior high schools indoor swimming championship tournament, when the fifth of the series of meets will be conducted in the pool of Columbia University. Stuyvesant and De Witt Clinton High Schools are tied for the leadership, each with six points.

YANKEE CUBS BEAT VETS.

Regulars Succumb to Youngsters by Tally of 5 to 4.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 28.—The Yankess' second team, made up of youngsters who are striving to oust some of the veterans from their berths on the club, today realized the ambition of all rookies when they defeated the regulars in a six-inning game by a score of 5 to 4. It was a fast and well-played game. The recruits won by bunching hits on Alex Ferguson, who relieved Mogridge in the box after the third inning.

A feature of the game was the playing of Martin, a youngster from the Bronx, who had forced himself upon Miller Huggins. Martin arrived in Jacksonville a few days ago without warning and declared to Huggins that he was one of the greatest ball players yet undiscovered. He said that he was so much a better fielder than Roger Peckinpaugh that Peck would never have a chance for his job once he (Martin) had shown his skill. He insised on a chance to play in a game.

Huggins accordingly put him in at shortstop for the Recruits today. Martin made one error and no hits, and his loose fielding came near costing the second team the game. He had not convinced any one at the conclusion that he would supplant Peck at shortstop this season. When he returned to the hotel he was ready to admit that he was not as great a ballplayer as he thought, and will probably return to the Bronx soon.

The Regulars were practically brought to a standstill by the pitching of Herbert Thormahlen, who is counted on as one of the mainstays of the club this year. Thormahlen pitched the first three innings for the Recruits. Mogridge was also effective for the Regulars. It was when Ferguson, the rangy right-hander, took the box for the Regulars that the Yannigans came to the front. In the fifth inning they scored four runs off his delivery. Kane and O'Doul started the scoring with timely doubles, and the lead was too big for the Regulars to overcome.

CALLED FEDERALS A JOKE.

Jury in Baseball Suit Hears Interview with Johnson.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Counsel for the Baltimore Federal League Base-ball Club, in the trial of its suit against the American and National Leagues and others for damages, under the Sherman Anti-Trust law, today succeeded in having read to the jury a newspaper interview in which Ban Johnson, President of the American League, was quoted as saying that the "Feds would be fought until counted out."

The defense objected strenuously to the admission of this evidence, but was overruled. In the interview the American League President was represented as saying that the Federal League was a joke, and had no money, no parks and no players that amounted to anything. Counsel for the Baltimore club claimed these statements indicated the existence of a conspiracy to libel the Baltimore club.

Carroll W. Rasin, former President of the Baltimore club, testified he had no knowledge of the so-called "peace agreement" between organized baseball and the Federal League until he was summoned to New York by the President of the Federals, who announced he and other leaders had agreed with organized baseball interests to quit. The witness said he asked what provision had been made for the Baltimore club, and learned that there was none.

On cross-examination, George Wharton Pepper, counsel for organized baseball interests, tried to show that Rasin not only knew of the appointment of a committee to close the "peace pact" but had made a motion that the committee be given power to act.

The witness denied that he had made such a motion.

SEEK COLLEGE MAT TITLES.

Penn State, Penn, and Lehigh Lead in Qualifying Rounds.

Special to The New York Times.

STATE COLLEGE, Penn., March 28.—Penn State, qualifying four men for the finals, is now favored to win the intercollegiate wrestling crown tomorrow afternoon, although Lehigh and Penn, with three men each, are not to be overlooked. The preliminary and semi-final bouts held here tonight were the most sensational ever seen on the armory floor, and the finals promise to be even more so.

The feature bout of the evening was the one between Captain Bevier of Lehigh and Lee, the Chinese grappler from Columbia, in the semi-finals. Both men proved adept at breaking holds, and it required all of Bevier's skill to pin the Oriental's shoulders to the mat. Bevier was intercollegiate champion last year.

Ketterer of Penn furnished one of the upsets of the evening when he defeated Mills of Penn State in the semi-finals. The decision was very close, but the Red and Blue grappler had the advantage.

Bush Signs with Detroit.

DETROIT, March 28.—Differences between Shrotstop Owen Bush and the Detroit American League Club were adjusted this forenoon. Bush signed a contract for 1919 after a short conference with President Navin. The signed contract of Pitcher George Dauss also was received today, making the club roster complete.

Urban Shocker Returning Soon.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 28.—Urban Shocker, last year considered the mainstay of the St. Louis Americans' pitching staff, has written that he will sail from France April 1, and will be with the team when the season opens, Secretary Robert Quinn of the club announced today.

GIANTS WIN FIRST TUSSLE OF SEASON

Special to The New York Times.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., March 28.—Whatever becomes of the Giants this season, none can gainsay that they got off to a good start. Playing their first game of the year here this afternoon against an opposing nine that does not eat at the same table with them, the Giants romped off with an easy victory. They hung an 8 to 0 shutout on the University of Florida team at the university grounds this afternoon.

It was the first real game for both clubs, and though the first Florida pitcher got off to a shaky start, on the whole the college team put up quite a presentable game of ball. They made only three errors, though two were infield muffs of the easiest kind.

The game drew a crowd of about a thousand, which swarmed over the little grand stand and bleachers. The proceeds are to equip the 'Varsity nine with new uniforms. They need them. Liddon, their third pitcher, wore a pair of stockings that had more holes than a slice of Swiss cheese.

Preacher Perryman, who once upon a time belonged to the Giants, and later pitched in the American League for the St. Louis Browns, is the coach for the Florida team, and he made a bad guess with his pitchers. Had he started Coxe, his second pitcher, or Liddon, who finished, the game probably would have been much closer.

But Perryman selected one MacCalum to start, and by the time this young man had pitched a dozen balls he thought the storm had struck Gainesville.

Four runs were pried out of him before he got rid of a man and then the good-natured Doyle gave him a friendly lift by trying to take two bases on Zimmerman's bunt hit, and was thrown out at third for the first out.

Georgie Burns started the ball rolling by drawing a base on balls, and promptly stole second. Young sent a solid single to centre and Burns carried in a run. Another parcel of them was coming.

Old Hit-and-Run Chase slapped one into left field for a base as Youngie started off for second, and Ross got around to third. Benny Kauff rapped a double into centre field, scoring Young, while Hal pulled up at third. Doyle spun a line single into left field, and Kauff and Chase reported with runs. Zim beat out a bunt on the wabbly pitcher, but Doyle was thrown out at third.

MacCallum stayed it one more inning, and the Giants got to him for three more hits and two runs. Of the twelve Giant singles eight were pushed out of the system of MacCallum.

Coxe, who succeeded him, did much better. He had a pretty good curve ball, and it fooled the Giants pretty well. They made only four hits off him in as many innings. Liddon, a Florida edition of Eppa Rixey, the Virginia left-hander, was Perriman's third choice, and in his two innings the Giants did not allow a hit.

The Florida players were about as powerful at bat as a team of Frenchmen. They matched the twelve Giant hits with twelve strikeouts. Lieutenant Jesse Winters started on them, and went five innings, the first Giant pitcher to go that long. During his term Florida got only two men to base; one was a scratch and one of Winters's wild throw. Jesse struck out seven.

Godfrey Brogan, the Bronx left-hander, succeeded Jesse, and allowed two hits and passed a man. The only hit to the outfield was made to Conova in the ninth. Brogan fanned five. Second Baseman Hartt was the most industrious competitor of strike-out statistics. The only reason that he fanned only thrice was that he was up only three times.

DE ORO INCREASES LEAD.

Takes Second Block in Match with Copulos.

DETROIT, March 28.—Alfred de Oro, three-cushion billiard champion, led Gus Copulos, challenger, by 44 points at the end of tonight's block of their 150-point match. The Michigan champion was able to count only 22 points while de Oro made 50 in forty-five innings. De Oro's average was 1.11, and his high run 5. Copulos averaged .488, and his best run was 3.

The match now stands 100 to 156. The final block of 50 will be played tomorrow night.

Best Schoolboy Stars in Princeton Club Meet Today.

Schoolboy athletes to the number of 730 have entered for the interscholastic indoor track and field meet of the Princeton Club, which will be conducted at the Twenty-second Regiment Armory this afternoon. Thirteen schools have nominated representative teams for the games in an effort to gain the point trophy. This prize is emblematic of the local scholastic championship.

ADAMS TO COACH SOLDIERS.

Noted Jumper Will Prepare Army Team for Big Games.

Platt Adams, the former N. Y. A. C. athlete who is doing Y. M. C. A. athletic work in France with the A. E. F., has been appointed coach and trainer of the United States Army team which will compete in the interallied games near Paris against twenty-one other countries early in June. These games promise to be of greater magnitude even than the Olympic games in which Adams made an international reputation as a jumper.

Several other Y. M. C. A. athletic directors have been assigned to train the athletes of the other countries, so it is likely that many of the teams entered in the big international event will be coached by American athletes. Harry F. Graff of this city, who has been doing Y. M. C. A. work in France and who managed the recent tennis tournament at Cannes, has just returned. He predicts that the interallied games will be the greatest athletic meet ever held in the history of sport.

There will be an extensive program including every form of game in every one of the twenty-two countries represented. If one country has a game which is played in no other country, that country's athletes will give an exhibition. But every game that is played by two or more countries will take the form of a competition. One of the most interesting events will be an exhibition of horsemanship by the Arabians, twelve thoroughbreds having been sent to Paris by the Arabian authorities.

Mr. Graff says that the development of sports among the A. E. F. was marvelously successful. In the period from August to December of last year, the Y. M. C. A. reports show that 4,770,546 soldiers participated in sixteen different forms of athletic pastimes, while these sports were witnessed by a total of over 9,000,000 spectators.

LAGONIA IS AFTER TITLES.

Will Compete in Three Classes in Boxing Tourney.

Sam Lagonia of the Bronxdale A. C. will make his bid for three Metropolitan A. A. U. championship boxing titles at Madison Square Garden Concert Hall tonight. Lagonia has entered for the 158 and 175 pounds and heavyweight classes. In the 158-pound division he will be called on to defend his laurels against three rivals. Lagonia will be a competitor in four bouts in the final round.

A total of sixteen bouts will close the competition. In the 108-pound class there will be one, 115-pound class 3, 125-pound class three, 135-pound class three, 145-pound class three, 158-pound class three, 175-pound class one, and heavyweight class one.

WHITE OWLS BEAT SQUADRON A TRIO

Make Up Handicap of Eight Goals in Fast Contest—Meadowlarks Win Tourney.

The indoor polo tournament at Durland's Academy came to a close last night with the Meadowlarks the winners after a series of well contested matches. The Meadowlarks gained an undisputed lead when the Outcasts, one of the teams formed for this tourney, forfeited to the leaders.

The closing game of the tournament was played between the White Owls and the Squadron A trio, the former winning by 13 goals to 11, after conceding 8 goals to their opponents. This victory gave the White Owls second place in the final standing of the teams.

The victory of the White Owls was due largely to the excellent horsemanship and consistent scoring of Winn and Wilder, No. 1 and No. 2 on the team. Winn scored eight goals for the victorious side, and alone made up the handicap that had been conceded to the soldiers. Wilder accounted for three goals and Coleman made two. Cook did all the scoring for the Squadron A trio, with a goal in the first period and two in the second.

The White Owls rode rather roughshod over their opponents in the first period, and by the time it closed they had made up their handicap. Wilder shot a goal shortly after play started, and was followed by two by Winn. Wilder and Winn were especially good at team play, and broke through the defense of the soldiers with little difficulty. Winn shot goals in rapid succession toward the close of the first period. The period closed with the soldiers leading by one goal.

In the second period Cook gave the soldiers a new hope by scoring a goal, but the White Owls had soon made up the disadvantage. Coleman increased the count by two, Winn added two more and Wilder sent over the final goal.

The lineup:

White Owls, (13.)	Squadron A, (11.)
No. 1—Wilder.	No. 1—Grimwood.
No. 2—Winn.	No. 2—Classen.
Back—Coleman.	Back—R. Cook.

Goals.—First period: Wilder, 2; Winn, 6; Cook, 1. Second period: Winn, 2; Wilder, 1; Coleman, 2; Cook, 1. Referee—Archie Kinney.

Frisch Wins at Billiards.

Harry Frisch defeated Joseph Cosgrove last night in the metropolitan three-cushion billiard tournament of the A. A. B. A. at Osborn's Academy by the score of 35 to 26 in forty-four innings. Each player made a high run of 4.

Scoville Wins Close Angle Game.

Frank Scoville defeated Ray Scudder in a game of the three-cushion billiard tournament of the A. A. B. A. at Doyle's Academy last night by a score of 35 to 31.

La Rue Wins Close Billiard Game.

George La Rue gained the decision over Mr. Potter last night in the three-cushion metropolitan billiard tournament of the A. A. B. A. at Fuller's Academy by the score of 35 to 33 in seventy-six innings.

Shay to Coach Harvard Freshmen.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 28.—The appointment of Martin J. Shay, former short stop of the Chicago Nationals, as coach of the Harvard freshman baseball team was announced today.

BEGIN NET TOURNEY TODAY.

Donaldson and Tilden in First Round for Indoor Title.

The 7th Regiment Armory becomes today the scene of another big tennis tournament, this time the national indoor championship for men, an event which brings to a close the season for covered courts. Fifty-eight stars are entered in the twentieth annual tourney for the indoor singles title of America, including the present champion, S. Howard Voshell, who appears in the upper half of the draw. Voshell's first opponent is J. D. Keyes of the 7th Regiment Club.

With eight matches starting promptly at 10 o'clock this morning, Referee A. C. Postley hopes to complete the entire first round before darkness interferes. If the field is reduced to thirty-two by Monday, as seems likely, it will be easy to finish the tournament within a week's time.

Today's best matches should result from the first round meetings of Cecil Donaldson and William T. Tilden, Jr., Fred Anderson, Jr., and S. R. McAllister, and Gerald Emerson and Dr. William Rosenbaum. Of the remaining contenders of prominence C. B. Herd plays W. H. Buxton, with A. S. Cragin drawn against P. B. Dailey, H. S. Parker against Dr. Travell, G. C. Shafer against Alex Iler, Craig Biddle against Frank Loughman, and Ingo Hartman against T. W. Whitehall. Vincent Richards and Abraham Bassford, Jr., have drawn byes and will not appear on the courts until Monday morning.

YACHTSMEN HOLD MEETING.

Long Island Association Adopts Schedule of Racing Dates.

At the annual meeting of the Yacht Racing Association of Long Island Sound, which was held at the Astor Hotel last night, an elaborate program of racing for the coming season, which had been tentatively arranged, was formally adopted assuring vastly increased activity in this sport this year in local waters.

An election of officers was also held at the meeting, the officers of the previous year being re-elected as well as the members of the Executive Committee. These are: James A. Alker, President; Frank B. Jones, Vice President; Edwin H. Tucker, Secretary, and H. A. Jackson, Treasurer. The members of the Executive Committee are: George P. Granbery, H. C. Perrin, De Forest Hicks, and Stuyvesant Wainwright.

Thirty delegates, representing practically all of the clubs affiliated with the association, were present, and the meeting was the most enthusiastic held since the beginning of the war, when yachting activities practically ceased.

The schedule of racing dates previously arranged was approved and two additions made to it. These were the New York Athletic Club Block Island race on July 12 and the New Rochelle-Stratford Shoal race on Aug. 2. June 14, which has been left open, was awarded to the Orienta Yacht Club.

With Low grade gasoline 8 parts of air to 1 part of gasoline.

With Tydol 15 parts of air to 1 part of gasoline

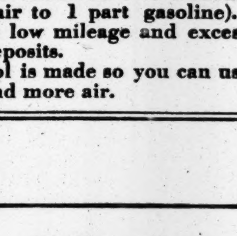
How to make 15 to 1 adjustment

Fill the gasoline tank with Tydol and warm up your engine. With the car standing still, the engine running, using the gasoline adjustment on the carburetor, gradually decrease the quantity of gasoline going through the bowl of the carburetor until the engine begins to slow down. Then increase the proportion of gasoline going through until you get a maximum engine speed, but not a fraction further.

With Tydol you will get approximately a 15 to 1 mixture (15 parts air to 1 part gasoline).

The same procedure with low grade gasoline will decrease the proportions to about an 8 to 1 mixture (8 parts air to 1 part gasoline). This means low mileage and excess carbon deposits.

Tydol is made so you can use less fuel and more air.



Veedol, the lubricant that resists heat, prevents the rapid formation of sediment in your oil and minimizes friction and wear.

90% of engine troubles are due to inferior oils. Veedol prevents these troubles.

Have the old oil cleaned out of your crankcase and fill it with Veedol. Sold by reliable dealers everywhere.

no holding up traffic

THE traffic officer waves—you let out the clutch, shift, shift again—now:

Are you off with a dash? Are you making time down the Avenue? Or has the crowd of machines wormed in ahead of you?

Don't hold up other machines. Don't spend weary hours in the maze of traffic when you could get through in half the time!

Quick getaway is sure when your tank is filled with Tydol, the Economy Gasoline. Tydol vaporizes fast. Tydol gives rapid flame spread, a white-hot explosion, high pressure.

Know the joy of keen acceleration, and the motor that has power, life and snap. Give Tydol a trial today.

Set your carburetor at 15 to 1 (see at the left). At the end of the day you will find an extra gallon or so in your tank. That is because Tydol is the Economy Gasoline. Yet its cost is no more than ordinary fuel.

Look for the orange and black Tydol sign.

You cannot buy Tydol at cut rates without taking a chance on adulteration

Hoboken Fathers Cancel Benefit at Metropolitan on Archbishop's Approval.

"Not Wise to Insist Upon Amendment to New York Law Which Bars Impersonation of Christ."

Announcement was made yesterday by the Executive Committee of America's Passion Play, "Veronica's Veil," of the cancellation of the two performances scheduled to be given at the Metropolitan Opera House on Tuesday, April 15, for the benefit of the New York Foundling Hospital, this action, according to the committee, being taken "after thoughtful consideration and a conference with Archbishop Hayes, Father Conrad, Director of America's Passion Play, and Colonel Louis D. Conley, Chairman of the Executive Committee."

"In taking this action the committee has the approval of the Archbishop," continues the announcement. "While this action may be regretted because of the arrangements that had been made for the production, the fathers feel that the Advisory Board of the Foundling Hospital will agree with them in this respect: that it is not a good thing at this time or any time to insist upon an amendment to a law of New York State which prohibits the impersonation of Christ. The fathers and the committee feel that under no circumstances should they be a party to the amending of such a law, even for the temporary advantage that might be gained in a spiritual way, by the presentation of the Passion Play in such a temple of art as is the Metropolitan Opera House, and before an audience of such dimensions as it is capable of accommodating. Under no circumstances, therefore, will the fathers and the members of the committee encourage any movement to take the Passion Play outside of its home auditorium in West Hoboken.

"It is well, too, that the public should know that this is not the first nor the second time that the fathers have been asked to give performances in New York City. In every other instance they respectfully declined, and the only reason they accepted was to do honor to the new Archbishop of New York City, and to help, as best they could, the good sisters in charge of the Foundling Hospital to clear off a heavy debt.

"It should be added that the Tuesday night performance of April 15, which was canceled because of the Metropolitan engagement, has been restored, and the fifth season will, therefore, come to an end not in the Metropolitan Opera House, but in the home auditorium in West Hoboken."

Archbishop Hayes was asked, through his Secretary, yesterday afternoon whether he approved or disapproved of the presentation of the Passion Play, and the reply was that he had no comment to make on the announcement of the cancellation of the Metropolitan Opera House date, as it was not necessary. His Secretary said, however, that Archbishop Hayes's original indorsement of Mr. Heide's plan for helping the Foundling Hospital was rather a general one and did not cover specifically the Passion Play. The initiative and negotiations for the production, he said further, were carried on between the committees of the Foundling Hospital and the Passion Play, and that Archbishop Hayes's attention was not brought to it until yesterday.

Combined Shows Ready for Season in Madison Square.

The combined Barnum & Bailey & Ringling Brothers shows will begin a four weeks' season in Madison Square at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The final dress rehearsal was held in the Garden last night, and everything is in readiness for this afternoon's premier performance. Owing to the combination, this year's show is the biggest ever brought to the Garden by the Ringlings. All of the best acts of the two shows have been retained, and at least a dozen new acts added.

The Garden was half filled last night with guests of the management who watched the scores of acrobats, equestrians, and other performers at work getting into form for the opening this afternoon. At midnight the rehearsal was still under way, and the end was not then in sight. One of the features this year is Miss May Wirth, the Australian girl rider. She was badly injured in Brooklyn in 1913 when she was the headliner of that year's Barnum & Bailey Show, and this is her first appearance in New York since that time. The Clarkonians, for years one of the star aerial features of the Ringling Brothers' Show, are also with the combined shows.

The doors for the matinee performance this afternoon will open at 1:15 o'clock, and the performance will start an hour later. There will be two performances daily, except Sundays, for the next four weeks.

QUARREL OVER BOAT STRIKE

Union Leaders at Odds as to Longshoremen's Attitude.

Officials of the Marine Workers' Affiliation, who are on strike, and the officials of the International Longshoremen's Association, who are not on strike but have been thrown out of work in large numbers by the strike, quarreled openly yesterday.

The striking lighter captains, who met yesterday in Brooklyn, voted to stand by Thomas L. Delahunty, President of the affiliation and to reject proposals, carried by T. V. O'Connor, President of the longshoremen, that they should return to work on receipt of 15 per cent. advance in wages from the boat owners. Derisive shouts greeted O'Connor when he appeared before the meeting, but he and other officials of the longshoremen stoutly defended the suggestion on the ground that, 15,000 longshoremen having been thrown out of work by the strike, the longshoremen's leaders had a deep interest in settling it.

The District Council of the longshoremen adopted a resolution yesterday calling attention to the hardships their members had suffered on account of the strike, and continuing:

"The District Council officially declares that the I. L. A. has in the past supported the Marine Workers' Affiliation in this strike, and still does so and will continue to do so.

"However, the District Council wishes to state most emphatically that it resents the aspersions which have been cast by officials of the Marine Workers' Affiliation on members of the I. L. A. to the effect that they are not supporting the strike as they should. The District Council wishes to affirm its full confidence in T. V. O'Connor, and announces that the I. L. A. will abide by his orders in all matters affecting the strike."

President Delahunty of the Marine Workers' Affiliation said yesterday that the strike would have been won long ago if the longshoremen had joined it.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The last of a series of benefit performances in aid of the Actors' Fund took place yesterday afternoon in Chicago. More than $8,000 was realized.

Arthur Ashley has been engaged for "First Is Last," the Shipman-Wilde play. Rehearsals will begin next week.

The Paulist Choristers, under the direction of Father Finn, will give a concert at the Hippodrome a week from tomorrow night.

MUSIC

By James Gibbons Huneker

A Philharmonic Matinee.

The last but one matinée of the Philharmonic Society was given at Carnegie Hall yesterday, the program of which was popular in the best sense of the word. Mendelssohn's "Fingal's Cave" overture, the Unfinished Symphony of Schubert—whose chief theme so admirably served Dvorak as his "motto" for the New World Symphony—and, finally, to break the spell of two compositions in B minor, the ever fresh Symphony of Tchaikovsky, the fifth in E minor. It was the 1,336th concert of the Philharmonic and Conductor Josef Stransky was warmly welcomed.

Good news was announced by Henry E. Cooper. The inevitable deficit of an unusually trying, but none the less artistic, season has been covered by contributions made by 167 ladies and gentlemen whose names appear in the Notice issued by Treasurer Cooper. After all, the Philharmonic Society is our most venerable and venerated musical institution and a season without its playing is inconceivable. All honor, then, to the liberal music lovers in the Roll of Honor. Tomorrow afternoon the final concert of the season takes place at Carnegie Hall, for which Mr. Stransky announces a characteristic program. Eddy Brown will play the G minor violin concerto of Max Bruch.

Yvonne Gall Sings.

Yvonne Gall, a lyric soprano, who made such a favorable impression during the last Chicago Opera Association season, especially in "Le Chemineau," sang in recital at Aeolian Hall yesterday afternoon. Wekerlin, two numbers; an excerpt from Gluck's "Iphigène en Tauride," and several groups of songs by French composers: Henri Busser, Georges Hue, Reynaldo Hahn, Alexander Georges, and Paul Vidal, also three numbers by Paladilhe, completed a list that separately were delightful, but suffered from a monotone of mood, style, even technique. But Miss Gall was in a much better frame at Aeolian Hall than in the vast auditorium of the Lexington Theatre, the acoustics of which is literally megaphonic—a reverberator that magnifies in a most unlovely manner the faults of singers. The more intimate atmosphere yesterday brought to us another Yvonne Gall. To begin with, she is not an artiste with a marked dramatic manner. She has charm, finished diction, a well-defined emotional range, and knowing these things so well her selections reflected her taste and judgment. Her voice is warm, even rich in the so-called middle register, a trifle thin and acid above G, yet musical in quality and well trained. The tendency to emphasize nasal resonance is quite natural; the language and, above all, the tradition of the Gallic school are sufficing reasons.

She sang with delicacy, sentiment—not too profound—arch humor, and her legato throughout was gratifying. It is rather difficult to say in which group she excelled, for, to be candid, the family resemblance of these modern French lyrics is confusing. The same recipe seems to serve all. Hence a certain satiety follows after we hear three or four strophes set to a thin, insistent accompaniment with the text ruling the melody. You finally yearn for a "through-composed" song. However, the concert giver is not to blame for such shortcomings. On the contrary, she made much of the music sound better than it is. She possesses an attractive personality and is an actress of attainments. Her stage training told in the eloquent delivery of the lyrics, though she never allowed the operatic element to enter into her interpretations. Ellmer Zoller at the piano proved a musicianly, tactful accompanist; too tactful at times, for he was as placid as a cup of tea when a more dynamic accent would have lent color to the colorless. A distinguished audience applauded pretty Miss Gall; among others Frances Starr ("Tiger, Tiger") and Olive Fremstad, (Isolde, Isolde, Isolde!)

Frances Nash Recital.

Frances Nash, no doubt fearing that the New York musical season needed a few more piano recitals, supplied the long-felt want last night at Aeolian Hall. And she by no means proved that she was fetching coals to Newcastle. In brief, she gave an excellent account of herself, first by presenting a program unconventionally planned; second, by playing parts of it in a satisfactory fashion. This pianist is young, comely, and in her shining silver spangles, a "fine figure of a woman." (We hope we got the spangles right; only the other day we were called to an account because we called a leopard skin nocturne in the wrong key.) Miss Nash has a well developed technique, muscular power, fleet fingers, and a capacity for misusing the pedals, particularly the dampen pedal. Her left hand is well developed in staccato work and octaves. The first clangorous chords in the opening of Edward MacDowell's "Eroica" Sonata gave us high hopes for the performance to follow, but it did not last, these hopes, the pedal blurring the architectonic of the ballade-like and romantic composition. This defect may have resulted from the pianist failing to gauge the total volume and consequent overtones of her orchestral instrument. In several of the lovely lyric episodes of MacDowell where extended harmonies abound the playing was atmospheric, poetic, and clarity itself, though her phrasing was often out of drawing.

In the two Chopin numbers, the B major nocturne, "The Tuberose," opus 62, No. 1, and the C sharp minor scherzo there was plenty to admire and wonder at; for example, the tendency to strike first with the left hand, the inequality of the chain trill, and the little harmonic change not mentioned by Chopin. But these shortcomings may have come from nervousness. At least Miss Nash did not drop two pages, as did a certain pianist several weeks ago, from a certain sonata. She is generally accurate in her finger work and if she would make more of her splendid triceps development she would widen her color range. She is brilliant, as the Spanish and French groups demonstrated. The audience was few but fit.

TAKE SINGER'S PAPERS.

Mlle. Gorea Giertlen, American, Arrives on Touraine from Germany.

Mlle. Gorea Giertlen, an American operatic soprano, arrived yesterday on the French liner Touraine from Germany, via Switzerland and Paris. She said that she had been singing for the last seven years in the Royal Opera Company at Dresden, Saxony.

The customs intelligence officers who boarded the Touraine at Quarantine took away all the singer's private papers for further examination at the Bureau of Public Information. Mlle. Giertlen said that she might have a good story to tell later about her experiences in Saxony during the war. On the voyage over she sang for the American soldiers at their entertainments.

"Carmen" Fills the Metropolitan.

"Carmen" on a blizzard night filled every seat in the Metropolitan Opera House last evening, while Bizet's dancing airs of sunny Spain beguiled the great audience with illusion of warmth and infectious gaiety. It was the favorite opera's fourth performance, and in the nature of things there will be few more this season. Mary Mellish, a young American soprano, appeared for the first time as Frasquita, one of the gypsy girls. Mmes. Farrar and Sundelius, Messrs. Martinelli, Whitehill and Rothier sang, as before, and Mr. Monteux conducted.

Intercollegiate Concert Tonight.

The Amherst, Brown, and Columbia glee and mandolin clubs will give an intercollegiate concert "like those of days before the war" at the Hotel Plaza this evening. Columbia's share will include "Barbershop Blues," written for the local players by their coach, Z. M. Bickford; original songs by Rene Wormser, '18, and "Love Is Like a Cigarette," sung by Thomas Bernardo, tenor. The combined glee clubs will close with "The Americans Come."

Take a Vacation Yourself
THE envious adult says there are an awful lot of young people in town these days. Must be vacation time. . . . They're lucky, those children—vacations always come round for them as sure as nine-to-five is coming round for him tomorrow.
He wants a vacation himself. Not in July or August, though.
He can take it any evening. He has only to call us. We will furnish him with theatre tickets anywhere, furnish them with a maximum of understanding of his needs, a minimum of effort on his part, and a service charge of 50 cents over the box office price.
We have been doing just that thing—arranging happy little impromptu vacations—in just that way for over 45 years.

THE NATIONAL SHIPPING POLICY.

The adoption of a policy controlling the nation's involuntary investment of billions in shipping is more important than the money at risk. It involves decision about carrying into peace the methods of war, and about giving our institutions a socialist tinge. There are those who would favor that, but they are outnumbered and outweighed by those of different opinion, not only in this country, but also in England. It is no time for us to adopt Government ownership and operation when England's shipping masters disfavor it. England has had so much broader and longer experience than ourselves with shipping under modern conditions that there is ground for confidence and rejoicing in the unqualified approval of Mr. HURLEY's declaration that he considers it a last resort.

The case is stronger than that against Government operation of railways. The misadventure in the case of the railways is abundant warning against an undertaking which has less in its favor. The operation of railways is essentially one concerning large units, not adaptable to other uses, and involving other interests than the operators' or owners'. A ship is smaller far than a railway, so that there is no necessity for Government aid in the public interest. Shipping units are so small that individuality counts for more than size in operation, and the results in separate cases are of more individual than public concern. Such considerations, and there are many more, are applicable to peace more than to war, and the question is regarding a policy for peace.

During war we had no alternative. We did what we had to, and nobody is to blame that there was waste, if it was not wicked or excessive. It is no argument against preference for private operation that its adoption now involves still further loss. It should be written off, or charged to investment in liberty. That would be cheaper than Government operation, whatever it costs to get rid of the ships on the basis of world costs instead of war costs. Private operation is not possible on any other basis. Profit and loss is not a consideration to Government, but is a condition precedent to private enterprise. There are greater obstacles than shrinkage of investment in the way of Mr. HURLEY's proposal. He wants to gain the advantages of private operation on his own terms, and, perhaps, they are too good to be practicable. He has the ships, and is under necessity of parting with them. Private operators are under no necessity of taking his terms. They have nothing at risk, and are in better position to name than to accept terms for what Mr. HURLEY needs to relieve him of his ships. If he is to sell his ships there must not be too many strings to them.

Some of his proposals are so evidently in the public interest that he should be stubborn upon them. There should be no juggling allowed about the capitalization of the concerns which buy them, and there should be insistence upon regulation of rates of the sort which railways have shown to be necessary. But he will be allowed to keep his ships if the buyers see reason to believe that if they earn a profit it will be taken from them. The jealousy of profit is one of the greatest motives for juggling with capitalization. Also buyers will not be keen to bid if they think that the regulation will be too rigorous about the routes which they must ply, the necessity of sharing management with those from whom they take over their doubtful investments, their liability to foreclosure at Government discretion, and several other restrictions.

The feeling of those who buy the ships will be that of other buyers; they will want their property for free use of their energy and efficiency. Mr. HURLEY does well to bid as cheaply as he can for private operators by making the best terms in the public interest, thinking more of that than of money. But there is danger there. We have seen in this city terms named in the public interest so high that for ten years there was no bidding for the subways because of public resentment of private profit, even made in a desperate venture, after public bidding. Mr. HURLEY makes a fair proposal, and it will be nothing to his reproach if he finds it necessary to revise some of its details.

50,000 VOLUNTEERS.

In calling for 50,000 volunteers for a three years' term of service abroad the War Department certainly must have expected to arouse curiosity and speculation. Its own explanation is that these volunteers are merely for the purpose of replacing drafted men who have the right to come home. In view of the smallness of the force to be raised, this explanation is plausible, the more so as the drafted men were raised for the specific purpose of fighting against Germany in the war now closed or closing, and not for purposes of occupation or for any emergency that may arise in the course of peacemaking. A good many drafted men have been infused among the regulars, and their places will have to be filled. There appears, therefore, no reason to doubt the War Department's explanation.

FRUITS OF PROHIBITION.

It was estimated that the loss of Federal revenue caused by prohibition would amount to $1,000,000,000 or more. Mere considerations of revenue were not permitted to disturb the program dictated by the Anti-Saloon League. From the State and City of New York, and from all towns where the license system prevailed, a great, easily collected revenue was likewise taken away. The New York taxpayer must not only bear his part in the wantonly increased Federal burden, but new fardels must be laid on his breaking back. Bulldozed into approving prohibition, which beat them at the polls last Fall, and the rising public sentiment against which they have seen too late, the Republicans of the Legislature have devised a plan to raise revenue in place of that so carelessly tossed away, to make the taxpayers pay for the prohibition foisted on them.

The bills prepared by a special committee of both branches of the Legislature and introduced into the Senate and Assembly propose an income tax of 2 per cent. on individual incomes of more than $1,000 for single and more than $2,000 for married persons; a tax of one-half of 1 per cent. on tangible personal property over $3,000; the increase from 3 to 4½ per cent. of the tax on mercantile and manufacturing corporations. Income from corporation dividends is to be taxed. The State Income Tax Collector follows the Federal. The patient is to be bled twice. On top of 6 and 12 per cent. and surtaxes, a State tax of 2 per cent. is to be piled. Citizens of other States doing business or practicing their profession in this State will be subject to its income tax. Future issues of State and municipal bonds, now exempt, are to be taxed. The proceeds of the personal income tax are to be shared equally by the State and the localities where it is collected.

Senator DAVENPORT, one of the architects of these extraordinary bills, describes them as "intended to relieve "the burdens now imposed in most of "the cities of the State and to replete "their sunken local revenues, which "will suffer severely as the result of "prohibition." It is edifying to see the men who helped make big holes in State and local treasuries now trying to fill the holes up. It is edifying to find them proposing to relieve the "suffering" which they were accomplices in bringing about by making the taxpayers, the unconsulted people, suffer more. And it is edifying to learn that the $3,000 exemption from the tax on tangible personal property was made with the view "to overcome objections raised by "spokesmen for the farmers up-"State." It is not worth while to criticise bills whose unwisdom is palpable, which are not expected to pass; which, probably, are not meant to pass. On the day before they were introduced the Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League put forth a long letter, homily and proclamation, in which he virtually threw up the sponge for the league's prohibition enforcement bill, and warned the Republican Party that it might lose the Assembly. The Republicans at Albany must regret but cannot alter the political and financial results, the dividends of disaster, which their transactions with the master of Legislatures have cost them.

SMALL WILL TO COMPROMISE.

Italy has at last lifted the blockade of the Jugoslav countries, apparently after representations had been made by some of her allies; and immediately afterward the Government of the Serbs, Croats, and Slovenes lays down an embargo on Italian trade which nullifies the action of Italy. This is a fair specimen of the spirit in which the whole Adriatic question has been fought out. Each side has failed to guard against alienating the sympathies of its friends abroad. The Serbian and Italian temperaments are somewhat alike; neither likes to take injuries "lying down"; but the result of the long series of provocations and reprisals which have filled the last Winter is that settlement of the question is still difficult, and public opinion in neither country will be satisfied with any settlement that may be reached.

The behavior of commanders of the Italian troops in occupation of some parts of the Jugoslav territory was provocative enough, and the propaganda directed against the Jugoslavs was bitter enough, to make foreign observers feel considerable disapproval both of the aims and the methods of a section of Italian officialdom. But the Jugoslavs, having an opportunity to put themselves in a much more favorable moral position before the sentiment of the world, preferred for the most part to throw this advantage away and to try to outdo the Italians in acrimony. Each side has enough grounds for complaint against the other to feed a healthy wrath, but wrath will not promote a settlement. There is strong reason to believe that at present Mr. ORLANDO is disposed to a compromise which will as nearly as possible strike a fair balance between the irreconcilable claims of the two parties, and violent action on the part of the Slavs will only make his work more difficult. The reasonable men in both countries have been pushed too far into the background by the immoderate. Italy needs Jugoslavia as a commercial field, Jugoslavia needs Italy as an aid in economic development. No other country can do for Jugoslavia what Italy can do, and no other country can offer the field for Italian enterprise which Jugoslavia can furnish. The leading men in both countries might realize that cutting off the nose to spite the face is a pastime which can easily be carried too far.

ALIENS.

In a speech at Boston Mr. A. WARNER PARKER, Law Officer of the United States Bureau of Immigration, described certain provisions of a proposed immigration law, drafted by the bureau, in regard to the admission and residence of aliens in this country. Registration, reregistration, provisional admission, bonds to be required of all immigrants—these and other details it is superfluous now to consider. It is not new law, but the just enforcement of existing law, that is needed in the case of dangerous aliens, spreading or seeking to put into practice the gospel of destruction. Arrant I. W. W. Bolsheviki are caught, are herded for deportation. At the water's edge an indulgent Government hesitates. By official magic some of the goats are transformed into probationary sheep. The official doubt is always in favor of the alien.

The unfeeling Canadian Government favors itself against the aliens. There is law enough on the subject.

WHO KILLED FRANZ FERDINAND?

Mr. CREEL's summary of the diary of Count CZERNIN obtained in Prague by the Committee on Public Information, and such installments of the document as have already been published, do not supply us with anything very important which we did not already know or suspect. But there is much of interest and much that is valuable as corroborative evidence. Of course, allowance must be made for the personality of CZERNIN, a gentleman with a Czech name who apparently regarded himself as a Czech in 1906, but certainly regarded himself as a German during the war, and had not the least sympathy for Czech nationalism. A private document intended for the refreshment of his memory would perhaps be somewhat less careless with the truth than CZERNIN's public utterances; but the former Foreign Minister was more distinguished as one who thought up bright ideas than as a solid student of conditions in Austria-Hungary, so things may not have been wholly as he saw them.

What he says about FRANZ FERDINAND, however, in a general way accords with what we knew already. He disliked the Magyars and was disliked by them; he was friendly to the Slavs; he dreamed of an Austria that could play her own game without dependence on Germany. That FRANZ FERDINAND wanted to break away from the Hohenzollern control is probable enough; even his much feebler nephew KARL made an effort to do so, an effort which issued in the publication of the famous "Dear Sixtus" letter and KARL's promise to be very good thereafter. FRANZ FERDINAND was a stronger man and would have been harder to handle.

CZERNIN indicates that he was already laying his plans to free Austria from subservience to Germany, and he supports the evidence which we already possessed that he was strongly opposed to, and by, most of the Magyar aristocrats. CZERNIN as yet has said nothing about the federalism or trialism which FRANZ FERDINAND was supposed to favor, but he has made it clear that the Archduke was highly dissatisfied with an empire which was ruled by a group of Magyar nobles, subject to occasional interference from Berlin.

We do not fully know what the Archduke said to the Kaiser in the famous Konopischt interview shortly before his assassination. But we do know that the Germans and the Magyars were interested in getting him out of the way. A cable dispatch some few days ago said that the former chaplain of FRANZ FERDINAND had declared that the plot to assassinate him was devised in Budapest. Certainly no Jugoslav of the empire had much of an incentive to kill the best friend of his race among those in power; since Russia had once failed to support the Jugoslavs against the Hapsburgs and might fail again, it might have seemed in 1914 that a pro-Slav Archduke ought to be carefully preserved. There was some incentive for Serbs of the kingdom to plot against him; but the incentive was far stronger to men in Budapest or Berlin. A secret trial and a heavy censorship kept us from learning much except the sentences imposed on the Bosnian scapegoats; but some day we are likely to find out just who planned the murder which was used as the excuse for a war that the Germans had long wanted.

THE INNOCENTS.

It is among the engaging gifts of the German to be an intolerable bully in good fortune, in evil fortune a whimperer. Mr. PHILIPP SCHEIDEMANN, a clever and much-used tool of the imperial régime, its tool still, perhaps, as Chancellor, has been complaining pitifully to the National Assembly about the cruel wrongs done or threatened against those tender souls, the German tribes:

> A cry, not of a Chauvinist nature, but of the deepest despair, which appeals to the highest there is—to the conference of humanity—is going up throughout Germany.

Ah, woe! A cry of delirious exultation went up from those innocents throughout Germany when they heard of her prowess in sinking the Lusitania. Robbery, slavery, arson, massacre were uncriticised triumphs of the superior race, the destined rulers of mankind. Yet, at the thought of paying only a part of the piper's bill for the dance of death into which they have dragged the world, they pity themselves as spotless victims.

THE RED DANUBE.

In 1877 the first of the wars preliminary and preparatory of this war broke out. It was then that Russia made her advance on Turkey. There was in those days a great cartoonist; THOMAS NAST his name was. He drew a great double-page cartoon for Harper's Weekly. On one side of the Danube River was the Turkish host, on the other side the Russian. It was night, and the moonlight shining on their steel was the only illumination in the sombre gray of the picture. Over them hovered Death, a grinning skeleton, with the moonlight silvering his ghastly bones here and there. The title, or "caption," as they called it in those days, was "The Red Danube."

MICHAEL ANGELO WOOLF, not to be spoken of in the same breath with NAST, was nevertheless a man of note in his day. He is remembered today for his pictures of sad and pathetic waifs standing outside grocery windows and wishing for a chance at the goodies they saw within. Nevertheless, he was in his smaller way a political cartoonist, though that has been forgotten about WOOLF. He, too, drew a cartoon in which he showed the ravens hovering over a dead host on that river, and gave it the title, "The Beautiful Red Danube." Times change, but ideas don't.

WHEN WILHELM FLED.

The German Emperor wrote to the Crown Prince on Nov. 9 saying that "the Court Chamberlain informed me "that it was impossible to guarantee "my safety at Main Headquarters "and that the troops were no longer "trustworthy." He therefore made the confession, which must have been rather humiliating from a father to a son, that he was going to run for it and get to Holland. "I advise you "to stick to your post until the con-"clusion of the armistice," the Kaiser added.

The Crown Prince did it. He is not a very respectable figure, and there is a good deal to be said for the Kaiser's flight, but as long as men are made up in the way they are there will be a good deal more sympathy for "my dear boy" sticking to his army to the last than for his father making a bolt for safety. For the Crown Prince stayed by the men he had commanded as long as he could, and considerations of "my safety" did not seem to control him. In fact, he even wrote to the new Government at Berlin asking permission to stay with his men and bring them back. The permission was refused, and not until then did FREDERICK WILLIAM join his father in flight.

The Court Chamberlain, who advised the Kaiser to run, did his duty. It is not the usual thing for a modern monarch to lead his troops into action, or to die with them in the last ditch. A century ago things were different. NAPOLEON and ALEXANDER I. were not afraid to risk their lives in action, but we have come on gentler days, when the safety of the Government is more important than anything else. It is true that during this war some brave and sturdy Kings have refused to accept the modern interpretation of their duties. King PETER of Serbia, for instance, not only went into the trenches but stayed with his men till the final collapse, and then fled with them, taking shelter in barns, lifted on his horse by peasants in midnight escapes when his own physical powers failed him, and journeying by sea, chased and fired on by Austrian submarines. King ALBERT of the Belgians led his men into action; VICTOR EMMANUEL served in the trenches, and the Prince of Wales fought modestly and well. But Germany is a great country, and no doubt the Kaiser felt that it was his duty to preserve his life, in case the monarchy should ever come back. In fact, he said so by implication: "I "hope to see you again in happier "times."

On Sept. 20, 1792—not so long ago, as history counts—the King of Prussia put himself before his men, with a cane in his hand, and walked at their head, and a pretty fair distance in front of them, up the hill at Valmy where KELLERMANN's Frenchmen were waiting for them. He, too, was a Hohenzollern. But things have changed, as the times have since 1792 and 1815, and now the safety of the State is the main concern. It is true that when WILLIAM fled to Flanders there was no State to preserve, except that for which, as he said, EBERT and LIEBKNECHT were fighting, one with which he had no concern. But, to his mind, there might again arise a real State, a Hohenzollern State, "in happier times." Let us give him the benefit of the doubt, and believe that it was for that dream he fled, while still bidding his son to stay at his post.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Blizzard Well Imitated. Yesterday's storm was quite leonine enough to vindicate—as much as it ever is vindicated—the ancient saying as to the entrance and exit of March. That saying has been the basis of numberless prophecies by amateur weather forecasters, though of course the professionals pay no attention whatever to it. For the professionals, more humble than the amateurs, confess that scientific meteorology, unlike the one dependent on goose bones, squirrel hoards, and wet and dry moons, never predicts for more than a day or two ahead, has no faith in the theory of weather balances and averages, except over long and uncertain periods, and puts trust only in the observed fact that most of our storms come from the west.

This particular storm was unusual, though far from unique, in that it came from the south, or only a little to the west of south, a peculiarity presumably due to barometric conditions out at sea that prevented it from taking the ordinary course. The rain turned to snow as is customary in such cases, when just the right—or wrong—sector of the cyclone reached the city, but it is not overventuresome to prophesy that there will not be much of it and that it will not long remain unmelted. It is too late in the season for Winter to give more than one of its well-known expiring gasps.

If Tuesday Had Been Like That! For once, comment on a snowstorm that dashed confident hopes that Spring had come, took another form and tone than those of resentful protest. Instead, there was an approach to unanimity in exclaiming, "Thanks be"—or words to the same effect—"that this didn't come last Tuesday!" And really, if it had come then the consequences would have been more than discomfort for everybody who marched, and for all of the vastly greater multitude that watched and cheered the marchers. Indeed, the fatalities that would have followed prolonged exposure on stands and curbs to weather like yesterday's might well have equaled those of a battle.

As luck would, or at least did, have it, the day of the parade was the product of one of Spring's most earnest and successful efforts to be kindly and agreeable, and the only growls heard were those resulting from the failure of the police to accomplish what was probably the impossibility of keeping constantly within bonds and bounds a crowd so large and so eager to see. Before the next and greater demonstration of welcome is made the difficulties of control will have been better realized, it is to be hoped. At any rate more people will have learned to take better care of themselves and to keep their babies and little children at home, where they belong.

A Confession Much Too Large. If LENINE has really said, as one of yesterday's dispatches quoted him as saying, that he cares nothing for Russia as Russia, and that only the workers of the dim future, not those of this or the next generation, will get anything except ruin from the success of Bolshevism, he could not have known that his statements were to be printed. As he is a man of education and credited with some intelligence, that may be exactly or about what he believes, but the great majority of his followers, in and out of Russia, have no suspicion that they are sacrificing themselves for a remote posterity, and it would be madness for their leader to take from them the hope of immediate rewards.

As internationalists the Bolsheviki might not object particularly to LENINE's contemptuous reference to Russia, but it would be a very different matter if their great authority were publicly to admit that the millennium of high living and little or no work is not to begin as soon as the proletariat revolution is effected. For the failure of this glorious change to be seen as yet in Russia there is the convenient explanation that it cannot fairly be expected until Bolshevism rules the world and all antagonistic influences have been suppressed, but it would never do to let the common run of Bolsheviki even suspect that there was worse than nothing for themselves in victory over their enemies.

Altruism is not their distinguishing characteristic. For humanity as a whole they have no regard whatever, and none would be more likely than they to ask the familiar question, "What has posterity done for us?"

System Not Wholly Responsible. It is not easy—it is even difficult—to accept the theory that the trouble with our courts-martial lies in the system and not in the officers who apply it. That the procedure is antiquated—a survival from days when the common soldier was little or no better than the slave of his superiors—may be true, but somehow it nevertheless seems likely that if sentences of barbaric harshness are imposed for the commission of trivial offenses, the Judges are not altogether without responsibility.

Instances are not rare in which courts-martial have found the old system compatible with the exercise of a leniency somewhat astonishing in its extent—quite as astonishing, indeed, as are the displays of power in the other direction.

At least a little of the indignation against the severe sentences imposed by our courts-martial seems to be based on refusal to realize that the conditions of war are different from those of peace, and that some of the offenses called trivial are the very reverse of trivial, as their consequences may be desperately serious. The modern soldier is not a slave, but he also is not a civilian, and while there may be explanations for his absence without leave, say, or his sleeping on sentry duty, there are no really adequate excuses.

It is not for severity, but for excessive severity, that court-martial sentences can be criticised fairly, and the sentences are not excessively severe unless they are made so by the officers who impose them.

LEAGUE AND OPPOSITION.

Now Clear That the People Are in Favor of the Plan.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A certain Athenian, who escapes nominate reprobation because the judicious chronicler did not think him important enough to record his name, but who survives for the amused contempt of mankind as "a certain Athenian," declared he voted for the ostracism of that man Aristides because he was tired of hearing him called "The Just." Is it significant that this honorable title is conferred by the peoples of Europe upon Woodrow Wilson?

The remarkable performance of a considerable number of Senators in signing an agreement to oppose the draft plan for a League of Nations caused some astonishment. It struck the plain people as what the keenest observer of human absurdities that ever lived called playing "such fantastic tricks before high heaven as make the angels weep" with laughter. If they are to be taken seriously, they are at least in the ungracious position of the critic of an unfinished picture. Must they be explained by reference to the unnamed Athenian? It is true that the President's idealism is of a lofty type, that his urgings have been continuous for several years, and that it is a great strain upon human nature to keep the level of exaltation to which we were wrought by his leadership. It is true also that President Wilson is widely regarded as the foremost man in all the world—at this juncture—which is very tiresome to statesmen who cannot rest "whilst they behold a greater than themselves." Then the contentions of these gentlemen about the Constitution, the Monroe Doctrine, the sovereignty of the United States, are so far from the realities of the case that we are driven for explanation to the puerile motive of the Athenian. They must fight the League of Nations because they are tired (subconsciously, of course) of hearing the President called "Wilson the Just."

We are now being amused at some of the signers beating their retreats. One has discovered that "the people passionately desire a League of Nations," another that he himself is "heart and soul for a League of Nations," &c. The objection is to the glaring defects of this covenant. The more prudent will support even this covenant if properly amended. "Inextinguishable laughter" is spreading through the nation. So it is to be hoped the covenant will be amended enough to enable our Senators to come in with such good grace as they can. This we expect of the many, whom we value for their patriotism and good sense, but there must be left, of course, a willful group. In this group behold "a certain" Senator who aspires to the unique distinction of being on the wrong side of every question, nameless in this letter, whose name indeed—as not connected with any true insight or foresight, or any correct prediction, or any great constructive measure of his Government in this great era—the judicious chronicler will not think worth rescuing from oblivion.

Development of Vigo.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There has been some criticism of the proposed investment of American capital to develop the Port of Vigo, Spain, and to create a direct railway route thence to Paris. Being a native of Vigo, I am in a position to state a few facts concerning this beautiful town and harbor. The town of Vigo has had a marvelous development in the last fifteen years. For its size Vigo is the richest town in Spain, and the most important industrially. Its population has doubled in the last twenty-five years, (today being over 60,000.) The harbor is the largest in Spain and has the most transatlantic traffic, before the war amounting to three large passenger steamers a day.

Travelers from South America, tired of being at sea after a twenty-day voyage, (average from Argentina,) would be glad to board an express train at Vigo that would carry them to Madrid or Paris in about twenty-four hours. But that is not all. In the near future there will also be a heavy traffic direct between New York and Vigo and the Spanish Government will finance entirely or in part the development of the Port of Vigo.

Allow me also to disagree emphatically with the statement made in one of these criticisms that "many Spaniards dislike Americans," for I am positive that the educated Spanish people will always give Americans a hearty welcome, especially since the almost miraculous way they have astonished the world by deeds so bravely done in the final two years of the war.

On Being American.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Colonel Fred Palmer, who was with General Pershing at the front, tells of a little Italian whom he overtook and picked up in his auto one day. He had fallen behind his regiment and was trying to catch up.

"You can't do it," said the Colonel, "you're too far behind."

"Oh, I must," said the little fellow. "I've got to show I'm an American!"

How far that little Italian-American is ahead of some of our Senators in Congress who are misrepresenting us by playing politics at such a critical time as this!

THE PASSING OF THE CLASSICS.

The classic studies seem foredoomed
To early disappearance;
Of Homer, Plato, Xenophon
There soon will be a clearance.
That Horace, Sallust, Cicero,
And Virgil, Livy, Lucan,
Will join the dodo, dead and gone,
Expect, quite shortly, you can.

And apt quotations' artful aid
No more will help ink-slinging,
When illustrating deadly prose
Or tuneful cadence singing.
Oh, shun "mirabile dictu,"
Don't shout in scale crescendo,
Avoid Cimmerian gloom, and eke
"Lucus a non lucendo."

Lament "eheu fugaces!" not,
"Pro bono pub:"—forget it!
And, as for "Hoi polloi!" "Nemo Impune me lacessit."
"Fiat justitia" is wrong—
Your "alma mater," shame her,
And "fulmen brutum" seems absurd
When, oh, "te salutamur."

A. R. ROSS.

SET CLOCK AHEAD TONIGHT.

Daylight Saving Begins Again at 2 o'Clock Tomorrow Morning.

When you go to bed tonight turn your clock forward an hour. This is the advice of Marcus M. Marks, President of the National Daylight Saving Association, for the country's time will advance an hour at 2 o'clock on Sunday morning under the Daylight Saving law. Mr. Marks sent out a statement yesterday giving the time the change goes into effect because he wanted to remove some seeming doubt as to the date.

The New York Daylight Saving Committee will hold a luncheon at the Aldine Club, 200 Fifth Avenue, this afternoon in celebration of the victory over those who sought to have the law repealed. To prevent future attempts to have the act annulled a special committee is to be appointed to work for the permanency of the law. Among those who will attend the luncheon will be United States Senator Calder, Senator Frelinghuysen, Don C. Seitz, and Mr. Marks, who will preside.

TORONTO, March 28.—Advices from nearly all sections of Canada today indicated that the rural and urban districts would go through the Summer with their clocks an hour apart as a result of the rejection by the Dominion Parliament of the measure to re-enact the daylight saving plan.

The larger cities and industrial centres, it was reported, would adopt the advanced time schedule, while the rural and agricultural communities would retain standard time. It was generally predicted here that the Government would not interfere with the decision of the Railway War Board to follow the American transportation systems in setting the clocks an hour ahead next Sunday morning, and as shipping and telegraph companies also will operate under the new time, many concerns have announced their intention of taking similar action, regardless of legislative action.

Several cities in Ontario have adopted the daylight saving plan, Montreal manufacturing and trade institutions have arranged a conference on the subject with the municipal authorities, and the Toronto City Council is expected to pass a local advanced time ordinance.

TELL OF RUINED CHURCHES.

French Protestants Need at Least $3,000,000, Committee Reports.

The destruction by the German Army of Protestant churches in France was so great that it will require at least $3,000,000 to give the congregations a new start, the Interchurch Committee for Christian Relief in France and Belgium has reported, and it was announced yesterday that proof of this destruction had been brought to this country by Chaplain Daniel Couve of the French Army and the Rev. Dr. Henri Anet, delegates who made a comprehensive survey of the devastated regions.

The impoverished people, who, with characteristic French attachment to their native villages, have gone back to live in the ruins of former homes, are now worshipping in private houses or in any place of assembly over which the invading foe has left a roof. The report of the committee continues:

"The artillery marksmen and incendiary squads of the Germans knew no distinction of creed. While they found their most conspicuous targets in splendid cathedrals, such as those at Rheims and Soissons, they were equally assiduous in their ruthless program as applied to modest rural churches and pastoral residences that happened to be within the range of their operations."

ASSAILS HIGH FOOD PRICES.

Commissioner Day Condemns Practices of Dealers in City Markets.

Commissioner of Public Markets Day, in giving out the daily quotations from the Washington and other markets in which the city owns the buildings, except the Public Economy Market, at Fifty-ninth Street, west of First Avenue, said yesterday that prices were too high and condemned the practice of the marketmen of making two, and in many cases three, prices for commodities.

"The system," he said, "is in many instances mere pretense to obtain unreasonable prices, the dealers claiming that the higher prices are asked because the goods are of a higher grade." He said that the contention was sometimes true, but more frequently the reverse was the case, and that difference in grades was often misrepresented in order to obtain more money from the public.

He strongly advised the public to study the list of prices for which food can be obtained in the Public Economy Market, and urged that purchasers call the attention of other dealers to the list when purchasing. Dr. Day said he thought if purchasers would protest systematically against the high prices demanded by dealers, and back up their protests by showing them on what terms the same grade of foods could be bought in the Public Economy Market, reductions might be obtained. Commissioner Day said that the prices in the Public Economy Market were much lower than elsewhere in the city.

McFADDEN KEEPS UP FIGHT.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Representative L. T. McFadden of Pennsylvania today renewed his attack upon the legality of Controller of the Currency Williams's holdover appointment by Secretary Glass. He said that lawyers of such standing as Attorney General Palmer had given opinions that Mr. Williams was serving illegally unless he received a recess appointment from President Wilson.

In a long statement issued today Mr. McFadden reviewed the controversy between himself and Secretary Glass and said he would demand a thorough investigation of the Controller of the Currency in the next Congress in response to his resolution offered in the last session in which serious charges were made against Controller Williams.

"I insist," said Mr. McFadden, "that it would be only fair to Mr. Williams that he be regularly and legally in office when these investigations begin so that he would have all the facilities afforded by the records of his office that he may require to defend himself. If he can disprove the charges that are to be brought against him a second full term should be given him. He would be entitled to such vindication, and I, for one, would favor his having it. But out of office, and with his records not so accessible and available to him, he might be at a disadvantage, as I myself would not desire to put him."

ABOLISHES ROYAL RIGHTS.

Austrian Government Bill Also Sequestrates Dynasty's Property.

VIENNA, March 27, (via Copenhagen, Havas.)—The Government has introduced in Parliament a bill dealing with the former reigning house of Austria-Hungary, in which the abolition of the rights and privileges of the house of Hapsburg-Lothringen in perpetuity is decreed, together with the banishment of all members of this house, as well as the house of Bourbon-Parma, the family of former Empress Zita.

The German-Austrian Republic is proclaimed the owner of the real and personal estate of the former imperial house, the net proceeds of which may be used for the benefit of citizens whose health was impaired through the war or of families which have been deprived of their bread-winners.

The private property of ex-Emperor Charles and the members of the imperial household is to remain untouched.

Vienna reports received on Thursday stated that an embargo had been placed on the private fortunes of former Emperor Charles until his official abdication had been received at Vienna.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE OUT OF BEER SUIT

Counsel Drops Plan to Seek to Become Party in Test Before Argument Begins.

MEMORANDUM FOR BREWER

Presbyterian Church Official Tells of Worldwide Fight to be Waged Against Liquor.

The effort of William H. Anderson, Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New York, to make that organization a party to the test case of the Jacob Hoffmann Brewing Company to compel the Federal authorities to refrain from interfering with the manufacture of beer containing 2.75 per cent. alcohol or less, was dropped yesterday, before Judge Learned Hand in the Federal District Court.

Robert G. Davey, counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, before the court proceedings read over a memorandum prepared by Elihu Root and William D. Guthrie in opposition to the Anderson petition. Mr. Davey then told the court that he felt the petition asked for more than circumstances warranted. He said William D. Guthrie had suggested that there would be no opposition from counsel for the brewer to the filing of a brief on behalf of the Anti-Saloon League when the cause came to trial, provided that the trial Judge would accept it. Mr. Davey then withdrew the petition.

Memorandum of Brewer's Counsel.

In their memorandum counsel for the brewer said:

"This suit is brought to prevent the enforcement of certain regulations of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, in so far as they purport to forbid the manufacture and sale of beer which the complainant claims to be nonintoxicating because containing not to exceed 2.75 per cent. of alcohol by weight and 3.3 by volume.

"The Commissioner has ruled under date of March 13, 1919, that any malt beverage containing one-half of one per cent. of alcohol by volume is intoxicating within the intent and meaning of proclamations by the President and of the act of Congress of Nov. 21, 1918. The complainant seeks injunctive relief agaist the Collector of Internal Revenue and the United States Attorney, as officers charged by law with the enforcement of the regulations in question. In view of the personnel of the defendants, it cannot be doubted that the suit will be actively and competently defended by the Department of Justice of the United States, and it must be apparent that the Government does not need the intervention and the assistance or interference of all the numerous bodies in the community who claim an interest in the subject matter of this public question.

"It is not contended by the petitioner that he or his league has any property interest or other special legal right which it is necessary to protect by bringing him into the litigation. His sole interest lies in the fact that he claims to represent an organization of persons who are concerned with questions of the nature of those likely to be considered in this case. His organization is under no official or statutory duty or responsibility whatever; it is not charged with the enforcement of an law, and its interest herein is no different and no greater than that of innumerable other prohibition and anti-prohibition or temperance societies, as well as of innumerable religious, political, social, and other similar organizations and bodies.

"If the petitioner's application to intervene should now be allowed by the court, all these other organizations would be equally entitled to intervention herein in support of the contentions of one side or the other and could well plead discrimination against them if denied a hearing."

The memorandum then cited precedents for the denial of such intervention as had been sought by Mr. Anderson.

Presbyterians Plan Worldwide Fight.

The prohibition forces do not intend to rest after their victory in this country, but will seek to convert the world, according to Walter I. Clarke, an official of the New Era Movement of the Presbyterian Church, who told yesterday of plans for an energetic campaign against alcohol in other lands. Money raised in the interchurch drive this Spring will be used for worldwide prohibition, he said.

"We have prohibition workers now in Japan, China, Korea, Cuba, and England, and will have them later in all the European countries," he said. "Their mission is to campaign for prohibition, and especially to forestall the brewers and distillers, who are planning to reestablish their plants in other countries. China is one of the grand fields which the distillers and brewers hope to invade. We are in the field now trying to anticipate them.

"All the Churches feel that the Churches have been responsible for achieving prohibition in this country. We are now simply taking a step further."

Mr. Clarke was asked whether the Presbyterian Church was carrying on this foreign prohibition campaign through its regular missionaries or was appropriating additional funds for the purpose.

"The Church is going to spend money for this specific purpose," he said. "In fact, we are deliberately appropriating part of the millions which have been raised for the spread of prohibition. The work will be pushed by the Temperance Board of the Church, which has its headquarters in Pittsburgh, and by the Board of Foreign Missions of the Church in this city."

Mr. Clarke said that so far the Presbyterian Church was acting independently in its crusade for prohibition abroad. Concerning an anti-tobacco campaign, he said:

"No steps have been taken yet on the tobacco matter. The Church people generally feel that the cigarette people put one over on everybody during the war. I think that in time the Churches will attempt to combat the cigarette evil, but we are doing one thing at a time."

HURLEY PLAN TO WILSON.

President Expected to Address Congress on Ship Ownership.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—The recommendation of Chairman Hurley of the Shipping Board made in a speech in New York last night for private ownership of the new American merchant marine, with a government regulation, has been submitted to President Wilson.

White House officials said today the President had not had time to go over the plan fully, but that it was expected he would make the merchant marine the subject of a message to Congress when it convenes.

NEW FILIPINO PETITION.

Native Delegation Is Expected to Present a Plea for Independence.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Members of a delegation of prominent Filipinos who will see Secretary Baker on April 3 are expected to present a petition for the complete independence of the Philippines.

Mr. Baker said today that the fact that this visit would be made was communicated to him before President Wilson departed for France, and that the President left a letter of greeting to the delegation. He added that reports reaching the War Department indicated that the movement in the islands for a complete separation from the United States had subsided materially during the war.

PLAN BIG FOUR EDUCATIONALLIANCE

PARTLY AIMED AT GERMANY

American University Union Proposes Establishment of Students' Clearing House in London.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 28.—The energy and perseverance with which the needs of American students have been urged by the American University Union on British universities has resulted in the formation of a plan for establishing here a clearing house for an interchange of scholars of the four leading Entente nations. The American University Union and the official representatives of French and Italian institutions have laid the plan before the Universities Bureau of British Universities, and that body has appointed a committee to consider it and to endeavor to obtain a grant from the Foreign Office to support it.

The idea is that the fullest opportunities should be granted to students of the Entente nations to study in each other's universities, partly in order to remove all temptations scholars might feel to resort again to Germany and partly to advance scholarship by interchange of thought. One of the greatest difficulties in the way of this in the past has been the students' lack of information about the comparative advantages of schools of learning in foreign countries. So it is proposed that Americans, Italians, and French should each maintain in London, in close connection with each other and the British Universities Bureau, an office to which their own students could apply for information and guidance. There they could learn which British institution would best suit their requirements, and then, too, British students desirous of going to America could be cared for.

C. R. Fish, Director of the American University Union in Europe, emphasized today to THE NEW YORK TIMES the fact that the British educational authorities by no means think only of attracting Americans. They are very desirous of sending young Englishmen to United States institutions in much larger numbers than at present. Mr. Fish also pointed out that these proposed bureaus do not intend to interfere with undergraduates coming to England after they have once placed them, as it is felt that they ought, if they come, to be as much as possible in the British atmosphere.

Meanwhile, to meet American and Canadian requirements, practically all the leading British universities have adopted for graduate students the Doctor of Philosophy degree, and will ask for it much the same standard as American institutions; that is, three years of graduate work, of which one or two must be done at a degree-granting university, an original thesis, and an examination.

It is expected that British institutions will accept as sufficient qualification for admission to graduate standing without further question a degree from any American university placed on a special list by some recognized American authority. This will, Mr. Fish pointed out, prevent any question being raised concerning Greek, which has been such an obstacle in the working of the Rhodes scholarships.

Probably a uniform fee of £10 will be fixed for graduate students, and regular graduate schools are likely to be established at London and other universities. A fellowship of medicine and a committee of legal education are already doing much for American officer students in London, and it is hoped that wider schemes may be working by Fall, when the colleges begin the Winter's work, and when there is some hope of there being enough steamships to permit students to travel again.

Children Mourn 'Uncle' John Diemer

Funeral services for Alderman John Diemer, affectionately known to the children of the neighborhood as "Uncle," were held last night from his home, 43 Ellery Street, Brooklyn, conducted by the Rev. Peter A. Heischman of the Lutheran Church.

Many members of the Board of Aldermen, and other prominent men, attended the services. The children of the neighborhood sent a beautiful floral piece with a card reading: "To Uncle John, from the Children of Ellery Street." Interment will be made this afternoon in Evergreen Cemetery.

Lee-Freeman Wedding Today.

Dr Burton J. Lee of 128 East Seventy-third Street and Miss Louise Freeman, daughter of Mrs. William Fotterall of Philadelphia, will be married by Bishop Burch at noon today in the chapel of St. Bartholomew's Church. Miss Helen Frick is to be the bride's only attendant. A reception will follow at the Gotham. Last night Dr. Lee gave a dinner at the Hotel St. Regis for the bridal party.

Justice and Mrs. Levy Entertain.

Justice Samuel D. Levy of the Children's Court and Mrs. Levy of 285 Central Park West, gave a dinner last night at their home, followed by a theatre party. The guests included Adolph Lewisohn, Controller and Mrs. Charles D. Craig, Commissioner and Mrs. Bird S. Coler, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gedney Patten, and Dr. Albert Ashton Berg. After the theatre supper was served at the Ritz-Carlton.

Miss Charlotte Williams Engaged.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Williams of Montclair, N. J., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Charlotte L. Williams, to Morton Goodspeed, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Goodspeed of Boston, Mass. Mr. Goodspeed is a graduate of Princeton and has recently been released from duty as Junior Lieutenant in the Naval Aviation.

Second Daughter to Mrs. Ziegler, Jr.

A daughter was born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. William Ziegler, Jr., at their home, 270 Park Avenue. Their first daughter, Elizabeth, was born four years ago. Mrs. Ziegler was formerly Miss Glayds V. Watson of this city. Mr. Ziegler is the adopted son of the late William Ziegler.

3,000 AT FAKIRS' BALL.

Revelers of All Varieties in Costume at Hotel Commodore.

The annual Fakirs' ball, held last night at the Hotel Commodore, was a festive affair, and so great was the crush that the spacious ballroom floor was crowded. It was estimated that about 3,000 were in attendance, and nearly everybody came in costume. Those who did not had to pay an extra admittance fee to dance.

The ball was held later this year, as the committee in charge desired to have present all possible members of the 27th Division, and they were there by the score. The snowstorm did not interfere in the least with the attendance, and the guests began to troop in by 9 o'clock through the main lobby of the hotel.

As one of the artists described it, the Fakirs are the younger, and naturally the wilder, element of New York's art set. Looking around the ballroom jammed with revelers, he declared that practically everybody in the newspaper "Who's Who" of New York was there, also Mr. and Mrs. Park Avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Upper West Side came early, and what a time they were having. They were all there, in fact; writers, artists, portraits and commercial; telephone operators, buyers from Kokomo, milliners, female and otherwise; histrionic and cinema stars—all enjoying the all-night revel to its utmost, not caring whether they had to dig themselves home through the drifts this morning.

MRS. JOSEPH FINE DEAD.

Founder and President of Hebrew Day Nursery Dies Suddenly.

Mrs. Joseph Fine, President of the Hebrew Day Nursery, founded by her fifteen years ago, and a Director in a number of other Jewish organizations, died suddenly of heart disease yesterday in her apartment at 617 West 161st Street, at the age of 49 years.

Born in Poland, she came to this country when 10 years old with her father, the late Rabbi Joshia Seigel. While doing service as a social worker she conceived the idea of establishing some institution which would take care of little children of mothers who are forced to work for a livelihood. The Hebrew Day Nursery was the result. She founded it in the basement of the four-story building at 262 Henry Street, fifteen years ago, and it now occupies the whole of that building and another four-story building at 61 East 107th Street, caring for between 300 and 400 babies daily and feeding and clothing them free of charge. Mrs. Fine was also a Director of the Home of the Daughters of Jacob, East Broadway; of the Harlem Daughters of Israel, and of the Rabbi Jacob Joseph School, and was also connected with the United Hebrew Charities.

J. CAMPBELL THOMPSON.

Lawyer and Noted Horse Show Exhibitor Dies of Apoplexy.

J. Campbell Thompson, a lawyer, Horse Show exhibitor, and for many years counsel for the Metropolitan Street Railway Company, died Thursday night of apoplexy at his home, Nestledown Farm, Quaker Ridge, Mamaroneck.

Mr. Thompson for many years took an active part in the exhibitions of the New York and Westchester County Horse Show Associations. He owned some of the best jumpers and other thoroughbreds exhibited at horse shows throughout the country. His stable was decorated with blue ribbons which he had won. He was also an expert four-in-hand whip and had received many silver cups.

Mr. Thompson was born in Ulster, Ireland, June 2, 1872, and was a B. A. of Trinity College, Dublin, and an LL. B. of the New York Law School. He came here twenty-seven years ago.

Samuel T. Fulton.

Samuel T. Fulton, Vice President of the Railway Steel Spring Company, 30 Church Street, with which he had been associated for the last nine years, died yesterday at his home, 210 West Ninetieth Street. Born in Topeka, Kan., fifty-three years ago, Mr. Fulton entered the railway service on July 1, 1879, as messenger in the telegraph office of the Kansas Pacific Railway in that city. In 1904 he became assistant to the President of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad, from which position he resigned in 1910 to become the Chicago representative of the Railway Steel Spring Company, coming to New York two years later as general sales agent of the company.

Paris Municipal Council Head Dies.

PARIS, March 28, (Havas.)—Adrien Mithouard, President of the Municipal Council of Paris, died today.

M. Mithouard had held the office of President of the Council for a number of years, during which time he officiated at a number of important functions connected with the United States. In 1917 he accepted the gift of the Lincoln statue from the United States, and when President Wilson arrived in Paris last December made the address of welcome to the American Executive on behalf of the City of Paris.

To Honor Dr. Wise's Memory.

Two celebrations are announced for tomorrow in honor of the centenary of the late Dr. Isaac M. Wise. In the morning the Rev. Dr. Stephen S. Wise, rabbi of the Free Synagogue, will deliver an address at Carnegie Hall on "The Isaac M. Wise Centenary." The address will deal with Dr. Isaac M. Wise's achievements, with special reference to his genius for organization. In the evening, at Temple Emanu-El, Fifth Avenue and Forty-third Street, the speakers will be Theodore E. Burton, former United States Senator from Ohio; Simon Wolf, Washington; Dr. Nathan Krass, and Dr. Joseph Silverman, rabbi of Temple Emanu-El. This celebration will be held under the auspices of the Eastern Council of Reform Rabbis, with the co-operation of the Congregation Emanu-El.

The Virginians Dance at Plaza.

The Virginians held their annual Spring dance last evening in the large ballroom of the Plaza. About 250 attended, and a buffet supper was served. The reception committee included Mrs. J. Stewart Barney, Mrs. J. Herbert Claiborne, Mrs. Elliott Daingerfield, Mrs. H. Snowden Marshall, Mrs. Stuart G. Gibbony, Mrs. James Riley Gordon, and Mrs. Willoughby Sharp.

Reception at East Side House Today

The Music School Committee of the East Side House Settlement, 154 East Seventieth Street, will hold a reception at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, when David Mannes, director of the music school, will speak. The school has been maintained for seven years among children of Polish, Bohemian, and Jugoslav families of the neighborhood. Mrs. Sturgis Coffin is Chairman of the committee, of which Mrs. A. C. Burnham is Secretary, and Mrs. Howard Townsend Martin is Treasurer.

Flower Show at Museum.

The annual Spring Flower Show of the Horticultural Society of New York opened yesterday at the American Museum of Natural History, and will continue until tomorrow night. The exhibit is open to the public today from 10 A. M. to 4 P. M. and from 7 to 10 P. M. Tomorrow it will be open from 1 to 5 P. M.

DR. S. TRAIN DUTTON, EDUCATOR, IS DEAD

Ex-Superintendent of Schools of Teachers College Dies in Atlantic City.

FOUNDER OF PEACE SOCIETY

Author Was Prominent in Syrian Relief and Treasurer of American College at Constantinople.

Dr. Samuel Train Dutton, for many years a widely-known educator and active in many organizations for human welfare, died suddenly yesterday in Atlantic City. Since 1916 Mr. Dutton had made his home at Hartsdale, N. Y., and his office was at 70 Fifth Avenue.

Born in Hillsboro, N. H., in October, 1849, Dr. Dutton was graduated from Yale in 1873 and in 1890 took the A. M. degree. Baylor University conferred upon him the LL. D. degree in 1912. Dr. Dutton's career as an educator was begun in the public schools of South Norwalk, Conn. He was later Superintendent of Schools in New Haven, going from there to Brookline, Mass., in similar capacity.

After ten years of work in Brookline he came to New York City, where for fifteen years he was Professor of School Administration and Superintendent of Schools of the Teachers College, Columbia University, retiring as professor emeritus in 1915. Before his retirement he lectured on pedagogy in many institutions, among them Harvard University, Boston University, and the University of Chicago, and in 1910 he was exchange lecturer to Scandinavian universities.

During the last four years Dr. Dutton was actively identified with the American Committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief, first as Secretary of that organization and later as Vice Chairman of the Executive Committee. He was a Trustee of the American College for Girls at Constantinople and since 1908 was Treasurer of the college. Dr. Dutton was also a Trustee of the Canton Christian College and a Director of the Wheeler School at North Stonington, Conn. One of the leaders in the peace movement, he was one of the founders of the present New York Peace Society in 1906, a Director of the American Peace Society, and of the World Peace Foundation, and an organizer and General Secretary of the World's Court League. He was a Trustee of the American - Scandinavian Foundation, Honorary Secretary of the Japan Society, and served as a member of the International Commission on the Balkan War.

Dr. Dutton was the author of "Social Phases of Education" and "School Management," and joint author of the "Administration of Public Education in the United States." He was a member of Yale and Authors' clubs of this city.

MEN'S CLOTHES
"Made in Our Own Shops"
CREATING Men's Clothes in our own shops gives us opportunities to effect many economies. This is a mathematical fact. These savings are really not ours—but yours—our customers.
However, this is not why we operate our own shops. The reason is deeper. It lies in the fact that no factory produces Men's Clothing that measures up to our standards—that matches the quality of merchandise the public expects to find here. If you will compare these Medium-weight Suits and Spring Coats with factory-made ones, the result will bear out our claims.

AIRMAN BRINGS MAIL IN BLINDING SQUALL

Feat of Aviator Miller, Flying from Philadelphia Here, Considered Remarkable.

MACHINE TOSSED BY STORM

No Other Mail Fliers Able to Cover Routes—Most of Them Do Not Leave Ground.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Representatives of the Air Mail Service of the Post Office Department were inclined to brag a bit tonight over the fact that one of their machines, a Curtiss JN-4, piloted by John N. Miller, a former naval aviator, made the trip from Philadelphia to New York this afternoon despite the heavy gale which swept the Atlantic seaboard and delivered its cargo.

It was the only successful trip, and Pilot Miller had all sorts of exciting experiences, but the experts of the Air Mail Service were willing to lay a wager tonight that nobody but air mail men even made the attempt to get off the ground within the wind-swept area, and were calling attention to the fact that, not so very long ago, flying under such conditions would have been defined in any dictionary by the single word "suicide."

Pilot Miller jumped his plane into the air at 2:30 o'clock, and a few seconds later was lost to sight in a whirl of snow. The wind was then blowing just over forty miles an hour, and for short periods during the trip it got as high as fifty-five miles. The gale played all sorts of pranks, and, according to reports heard from Miller and other pilots who were less successful, there were whirlpools of air and squalls that drove in every conceivable direction.

Miller's machine was tossed about at times like a ship on a heavy sea. It is figured out now that he arrived over Belmont Park the landing field for New York at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Ground men there had been shooting off flares and other signals to guide the pilot, but Miller reports that he never got glimpse of them because of the snow storm which was raging over the field. The best that Miller could do, therefore, was to work out his position on his instruments. Finally he hit the ground at Great Neck, L. I., about eight miles from Belmont Park.

Pilot Mike Eversole, who was detailed to carry mail from Philadelphia to Washington, came off next best. He was the only pilot other than Miller who got more than fifty or sixty feet from the ground. For three hours he battled with the heavy gale and was then forced to descend because his gasoline gave out. The landing was made at Newcastle, Del. He had gone approximately fifty miles, thus averaging 16 2-5 miles an hour.

Pilot Diffle made two attempts to start from Washington for Philadelphia and New York. The first was at 11:30 o'clock, when the wind was blowing at more than fifty miles an hour. The machine, a JR-1 practice plane of 150 horse power, did not get more than a few feet off the ground before it was pressed down by a whirlwind.

At 12:30 o'clock, when the gale had let up a bit, the pilot made another try, this time in a Curtiss JN-4, 150 horse power machine. He rose fifty feet and was then driven back to the ground. A wing of the machine was crippled, but no more serious damage was done and the pilot escaped without injury.

Reports received at headquarters here from Belmont Park were to the effect that none of the planes was able to get off the ground there.

CARDINAL MERCIER COMING.

Belgian Prelate May Visit America in May, Says Mulligan.

Cardinal Mercier will visit the United States this Spring or early in the Summer at the invitation of the Knights of Columbus, according to William J. Mulligan, Supreme Director of the War Activities of the Knights of Columbus, who arrived in this country recently from a four months trip through France, England, Belgium and the occupied parts of Germany.

"The Cardinal said that he greatly appreciated the invitation which I conveyed," Mr. Mulligan said, "and that previously it had been in his mind to pay a visit to this country in order to express his thanks for America's help to the suffering population during the war and for finally coming to the side of the Allies and making it possible to win over Germany.

"He said that he would accept the invitation; that it was not possible for him then to announce a date definitely, but that he thought May the best month for the purpose. He hopes to stay a month in this country. He expressed the wish to visit President Wilson, to see many of the Catholic dignitaries and to visit several of the large cities."

Mr. Mulligan told of a call on Mme. Foch, wife of the General. Mme. Foch is the President of a French organization caring for war orphans, and a quantity of toys and articles of clothing was given to her by the Knights of Columbus. Mr. Mulligan said that Mme. Foch had told him that she hoped it might be possible for General Foch and her to make a trip to this country.

FOR INDUSTRIAL PEACE.

Dr. Eliot Gives Program for Union of Labor and Employers.

Dr. Charles W. Eliot, President Emeritus of Harvard, presented in detail at the conference on "Democracy in Industry" of the New Jersey Chamber of Commerce at the Robert Treat Hotel in Newark last night his program as outlined recently in Boston for the attainment of industrial peace by improving the condition and increasing the responsibility of labor.

Dr. Eliot urged, as the first step, that every form of autocratic or despotic government over employes should be abolished in all industries and replaced by co-operative management. He urged that all employers should take advantage of methods of promoting the health and vigor of employes by good housing, medical service, education, and protection against alcoholism and vice. He advocated close relations between employers and employes and careful provision for dealing justly with complaints. His fifth point was the universal use in large industries of trained employment managers, and his sixth recommendation was as follows:

"General adoption of a genuine partnership system between the capital and labor engaged in any given works or plant, whereby the returns to capital and labor alike, after the wages are paid, shall vary with the profits of the establishment, the percentage of the profits going to the payroll never to be called on to make good losses. As in ordinary partnerships, the annual or the semi-annual accounts should be open to the inspection of all persons directly interested. As a means of securing its employes full knowledge of the partnership accounts they should always be represented in the Directorate."

Dr. Eliot urged that, as far as possible, the employment of a man should be varied from time to time, and free instruction should be offered to aspiring young employes. His eighth and last recommendation to employers was for the universal acceptance of the collective bargaining principle.

On employes Dr. Eliot urged the abandonment of the doctrine of limiting output and of the idea that they should work as few hours a day as possible.

The abandonment of violence and the strike is urged by Dr. Eliot. He also advocated willing adoption by both sides of Government conciliation methods and their union as Americans and good citizens against Bolshevist tendencies.

FRANKNESS ABOUT THE WAR.
In The New York Times tomorrow there will be published the first of a series of ten articles by Philip Gibbs, the famous war correspondent, who will tell about the men who led Britain's armies and interpret their doings with a frankness hitherto impossible on account of the censorship. Order from your newsdealer.—Advt.

"The Greatest Little Revolution Since 1776"

Less than four years ago, when the sense of economic grievance that rankled in the hearts of North Dakota's farmers had been fanned to a flame by the refusal of the legislature to establish a State-owned terminal grain-elevator, a man named Arthur C. Townley jumped into a small hired automobile and began by a farm-to-farm canvass the organization of the Non-Partizan League. For months the old line politicians regarded this "flivver campaign" as a joke, but to-day they see Mr. Townley's league of farmers grown to a membership of more than 200,000 with a political organization in thirteen states, representation in the U. S. Congress, and completely in control of North Dakota's government.

The St. Paul Dispatch terms the league "the most revolutionary political machine that ever gained complete autocratic control of legislative affairs in any State in the Union," while the Minneapolis Tribune speaks of it as "Townleyism, the political prairie fire that is now raging in North Dakota and spreading to surrounding States," but as the New York World reminds us "North Dakota and her people will pay the bill and the rest of the country will profit by the demonstration."

In the course of an illustrated article, comprizing more than three pages in this week's LITERARY DIGEST, every phase of this movement is explained, together with public opinion upon it from all angles.

How to Keep Abreast of the Times

No matter how busy you may be, no matter how little time you have to spare from the rush of affairs that presses on you afresh every day, there is one duty you owe to yourself, there is one thing you can not afford to neglect. That is to read THE LITERARY DIGEST faithfully every week. You can't pretend even to skim half the magazines published nowadays, but here is one it is actually vital to you to read with care. It won't take long—a couple of hours perhaps—and it will repay you a thousandfold. Without it you simply can not be at your best anywhere, socially, in the world of business, in the field of ideas, or in matters of art or religion. It summarizes, epitomizes them all for you, week by week, gives you the wheat of facts threshed clear of the chaff of rumor and freed from the blighting mildew of bias. It keeps you informed on all important world-events everywhere. Read it and stay abreast of the times.

SAYS ALLIES' POLICY STRANGLES TRADE

NO MARKET FOR OUR GOODS

Business Men Disillusioned by Visits to France and England—Favors Commercial Freedom.

The present policy of the Allied Governments in restricting imports has reacted so as to be a disadvantage to all, according to John R. Walker, who for eighteen months has been traveling in England, France, Belgium, Italy, Switzerland and Holland as an agent of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. He has just returned to this country, and last night was on his way to Washington to report his findings. He pointed out that every country was "playing the same game," with the result that there was practically no evidences of physical reconstruction, and that the only article of commerce the price of which had not fallen was food, and upon this no restriction had been placed.

"The international commercial situation," said Mr. Walker, "at the moment is extremely complex by reason of restrictions upon trade, fluctuating exchanges, tonnage difficulties, inflated currency and abnormal prices. International commerce is suffering from a state of inanition. It is like some colossal giant, habituated to a life of intense activity, who finds himself bound hand and foot and reduced to the expedient of wiggling his toes for exercise. It is not surprising that it should suffer from cramps and congestion.

"The Allied Governments which might ameliorate this difficult situation by adopting measures to accelerate the flow of commerce through the narrower channels in which it is now confined, have in fact adopted measures of an exactly opposite character, and have created barriers and obstructions. American business men who have hastened abroad since the signing of the armistice in the confident belief that a golden harvest awaited them in the empty markets of France and England have suffered a severe disillusionment. Not only have they not reaped the expected harvest, but they have not even recovered the costs of their voyage, and have had nothing but the inconveniences of wartime travel, passport delays and commercial disappointments for their pains.

"All of this has been due to the policy which has been adopted by France and England of excluding imports, except of such articles as may not be found in stock or produced at home. The theory underlying these restrictions is that it will enable these Governments and their large traders and manufacturers to unload without loss stocks which have been accumulated at wartime prices and will afford home manufacturers a period of repose from foreign competition in which to effect the transition from war production to that of peace. An additional argument which is adduced is that unrestricted importation would further depress the exchange of these countries.

"American business interests have indulged in many severe strictures against the French and English Governments because of their restrictive policies, apparenly oblivious of he fact that we are playing the same game and refusing licenses of importation for certain commodities because it would have the effect of undermining the prices of these commodities in our home markets. The British Chamber of Commerce in Paris has, with the disregard of logic, protested against the restrictive policy of France, pointing out the obligation under which France rests as regards Great Britain, while overlooking the barrier which Great Britain has erected against the commerce of her great western ally. The situation would be humorous for its inconsistency if it were not tragic for millions of people.

"All of these nations are indulging in the familiar pastime of trying to lift themselves by their bootstraps, and are only succeeding in getting themselves into extremely uncomfortable positions. What the world needs is commercial freedom. All of our Governments should knock out the props and let prices fall. No one will stock up upon the basis of present prices because of the confident belief that they are abnormal. Uncertainty is the deadliest foe of commercial activity, but while there are numerous unavoidable uncertainties in the present situation, there is none so uncertain, so difficult to appraise, as the unnecessary uncertainty as to how long the interferences of Governments with the normal course of things will endure. If all Government restrictions were removed, prices would no doubt fall, and certain manufacturers and traders would be compelled to write off a loss on existing stocks, but if buying were put in motion and the general commercial life stimulated, compensation would soon be found even for those particular interests which the present restrictions are designed to aid.

"If French and British exchange declined under a policy of unrestricted importation this would not be a disaster, but would bring its own corrective. It would improve the opportunity of these nations to sell in the world s markets, and with a profit in the exchange it becomes to the advantage of their creditors to buy French and English securities and exchange—which is, in effect, to deposit money in their banks. But, furthermore, with the normal flow of commerce restored, these nations could unquestionably produce in larger volume and upon a lower basis of cost and much sooner arrive at the point where they could balance imports with exports.

"I have made no mention of Belgium because that county is pursuing a different policy—in fact, the policy which should be adopted by its larger neighbors in their own interest. It is permitting unrestricted importation. And, although Belgium has suffered more, proportionately, than the others, its factories are dismantled and it has nothing to export, its recovery by virtue of its sounder economic policy will be more rapid than that of either France or England.

"However, our commercial interests should not permit themselves to become discouraged over the outlook. In due time the sound commercial instincts of these nations, aided by the example of countries like Belgium, will carry the day and drive out the bureaucrats, and then the eagerness of the population at large in these nations to do business with us—and it amounts to a passion in the case of France—will have a chance to manifest itself."

Mr. Walker pointed out that these conditions did not hold with respect to foodstuffs. In England the prices were reduced 20 per cent. by the action of the Government in selling its surplus stocks, and in France they were brought down 25 per cent. when the Government eliminated the numerous intermediaries and sold directly to the socalled "Clemenceau Booths," or to the restaurants, which it compelled to reduce prices by 25 per cent. He paid tribute to England for the fidelity with which the people had observed the war restrictions placed upon them, but said that profiteering and underground trade in France and other countries had been extensive.

PUBLISHERS MEET DENIAL.

Trade Commission Won't Reopen Paper Hearings Till Congress Acts.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—The Federal Trade Commission late today denied the application of newspaper publishing interests for reopening of its investigation of newsprint paper costs in prices.

In acting on the request of the publishers, the commission did not go into the merits of the case, but based its decision on the ground that it would mean "an expenditure in the determination of costs in excess of available appropriation. which this commission cannot legally incur without authority of Congress."

The publishers representatives asked for the reopening on the ground that there had been a decrease in production costs since maximum prices were fixed in agreement with the commission last Summer. Ex-Attorney General Wickersham, appearing for the publishers on March 21, said that this had already been proved by investigation in Canada.

Henry A. Wise, counsel for the manufacturers, argued that the agreement could not be changed, and that the commission had information concerning the Canadian companies before reaching its original decision.

Sale of Leather Coats.

The sale of leather lined or convertible coats is proving an important item with clothing retailers handling the better sort of merchandise. The one problem that the manufacturers of such goods have to contend with is the high price of leather. If a substitute is found that will give good service and at the same time be cheap enough to allow the making of these convertibles at a popular price, it is said they ought to turn out to be a permanent article of sale in the trade.

A Co-operative Selling Method.

A method of co-operative selling that has proved its worth to one concern doing business in the ready-to-wear line is a mutual boosting of a kindred line. In this business there are half a dozen lines allied to it and in each case when the retailer happens to ask the advice of the salesman concerning a brand of goods the latter will give the name of the firm whose salesmen are boosting his house. The big advantage in this stunt is that the salesman already has the confidence of the buyer and what he has to say concerning another house gets the buyer's attention.

Hard Coal Outlook Better.

Saward's Weekly will say today that the coal year draws to an end with conditions in the anthracite trade far from satisfactory, but with reasonable hopes for improvement before the new season is far advanced. For that matter, it will say, recovery has already set in. This is shown by the fact that production for the week ended March 15, as reported by the Geological Survey, was 20 per cent. heavier than the week before. It is, perhaps, too much to expect that the output will continue to expand in this ratio, but that the growth will be steady for some time to come is the belief in the well-informed circles.

Gray Goods Show Little Change.

Trading in the local market for gray goods yesterday showed little change from that of the day before. Second hands continued their assaults on prices in an endeavor to unload recent purchases, and in some cases first hands were willing to meet the new figure. For 39-inch 68-72s, 10¼ cents was reported paid to second hands, but while this figure could not be definitely confirmed, it is known that the goods sold early in the day at 10⅝ cents. Not much disposition was seen to shade prices further on 38½-inch 64-60s, with the result that they again sold at 9¼ cents. The business done in the other constructions during the day, principally in the lower-count cloths, was put through on these bases. Neither in buying activity nor prices did the rest of the market show anything of special interest.

Storm Was Welcomed.

The sudden drop in the temperature yesterday with the accompanying storm was welcomed rather than considered bad for business in many of the ready-to-wear lines. Factories are over-loaded with work and, with the late season and reorders mixed in with regular orders, progress in getting out merchandise has been a slow matter. In the clothing line this is especially true, and a respite from buying is something both the retailer and the manufacturer are glad to see until deliveries can catch up with the demand.

Silk Prices Firmer.

Silk buyers who were in the market at the beginning of the week and failed to place orders because they thought prices were too high have revised their opinion regarding the possibility of decreases. Many of them have returned to place business after making the rounds of the trade and finding evidences of firmness on all sides. This time they are convinced that prices will be no lower and that there may be advances. The better quality goods are chiefly in demand and selections are well distributed, taking in satins, taffetas, gros de londres, and crêpe meteor.

Extreme Novelties Not Favored.

Many of the manufacturing clothiers are discouraging the efforts of woolen salesmen to push the sale of the very fancy effects in goods. It has been the experience of traveling men for the clothing houses who tour the South, which puts in an early business, that more sober patterns are wanted. The man just out of the service, they have found, will buy one suit and wants that to do for all occasions, and consequently it must be something not too novel. While it is agreed in the trade that novelty effects will be good for the coming season, plaids and patterns on that order will not be big sellers.

Colored Cottons Firmer in Price.

Colored cottons, especially the heavier constructions, took on a firmer tone here during the week as a result of the active jobbing buying that was brought about partly by the increased demand of the retail trade and partly by the attractive prices at which most of the goods were held. Certain lines of denims, which recently had been reduced substantially, were moved up a couple of cents a yard on the strength of buying that covered production for some weeks ahead. Colored drills for export also shared in the general firming up of this end of the market, but it is not thought that it will make any material difference in their sale for the time being.

Some Are Anticipating.

While a number of out-of-town retailers are said to be anticipating payments of bills owed to wholesalers in this market, there are apparently fewer doing so than was the case last Fall. Two things are thought to be chiefly responsible for it. The first was the need of making substantial income tax payments by March 15, and the second was the losses that had to be taken in instances where the break in prices caught stores well supplied with goods bought at the old levels. To a smaller extent the slowness of consumer buying in some parts of the country also is said to be a factor. No marked delay in the payment of Spring bills is looked for by wholesalers, but there is some speculation as to just what the first half of next month will show in this respect.

COMMODITIES PRICES.

Most of the Revisions Shown for the Week Were Downward.

Largely due to the recent agreement to reduce steel prices, Dun's list of wholesale commodities prices this week showed the largest number of declines it has for many months. It also showed the largest total of changes, though only 74 of the 313 items listed were revised in price during the week. Of these 74 revisions, 54 were downward, compared with 26 declines in 52 changes last week. The proportion of foodstuffs changes this week was the smallest in some time.

The following list give the minimum wholesale prices quoted on selected standard commodities this week. They are corrected to yesterday, and with them are given comparative prices for last week and the corresponding week a year ago:

*Government maximums.

In the local market for foodstuffs higher prices were quoted on flour for the third week in succession. The Spring 100 per cent. grade was 20 cents a barrel higher than last week, and Winter flour of the same quality advanced 35 cents a barrel. Mess pork showed the only advance in the major provisions at Chicago, where more weakness was shown than for several weeks. Short ribs did not change, but lower prices were quoted on all the live meats and on Middle Western lard. Bacon was higher at this city.

The feature of the dairy products was the sharp decline in the best grade of butter, which, as a result of the restriction in demand that grew out of the recent advance, dropped 9 cents a pound. The best renovated butter also dropped, but not so much. Cheese prices were sustained at the advance of last week, but no quotable changes were shown in eggs. Neither fresh nor dried fruits in the list showed change one way or the other. The vegetable changes consisted of a rise in rutabaga turnips and declines in onions and in choice pea and choice red kidney beans. Common syrup was higher. Both the tea and coffee lists were bare of changes; but the spices showed lower prices for Zanzibar cloves and for black and white Singapore peppers.

Declines were missing from the grains list, but the advances included corn, oats, rye, and malting barley. No advances and twenty-one declines were listed in the metals, most of the latter being due to the price agreements referred to. Among the minor metals the declines were confined to lake copper and tinplate. There were no price changes shown in the leathers quoted. The hides produced a drop in heavy native cow stock, but offset it by advances in No. 1 country steers, No. 1 heavy cows, No. 1 buff, No. 1 kip, and No. 1 calfskins. The miscellaneous changes included advances in raw silk, turpentine, and tallow, and a drop in hemp. Twelve declines were shown in the combined list for drugs, chemicals, dyestuffs, and oils, and but two advances. Both of the latter were supplied by the oils.

Dealings in the textiles brought about still further reductions in burlaps and also lower prices on a number of unfinished gray cottons, including staple constructions of printcloths. In some of the colored goods, however, notably the heavier ones, a firmer tone prevailed. The market, as a whole, is now considered on a more workable basis than has been the case since this country entered the war.

Wash Fabrics Are Selling.

Despite the setback gentle Spring received yesterday, retail buyers of cotton dress fabrics did not stop their work. While the day's sales in the leading secondary distributing centres was hardly up to that of the fore part of the week, it was said that a sizeable volume of goods had been disposed of. Novelties were in general demand, particularly voiles. Small, neat prints in this type of goods found wide favor. In the white goods departments there was small sign of the fear expressed by some of the British merchants that the high cost of laundering would hamper the sale of these fabrics. All kinds of sheer white goods have been active sellers through the week.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Industrial Stocks Rise with Force as Steel Common Takes Lead—Business Improves.

The power of yesterday's advance of industrial stocks indicated that the retarding efforts of short sellers earlier in the week and during part of the preceding week had improved the technical position of the market for partisans of the advance. As on Thursday, the character of trading denoted that the retirement of earlier commitments on the short side again supplied a large part of the transactions. To this there seemed to be added a considerable expansion of speculative operations for the rise, especially in the steel, petroleum, automobile and food stocks. The commission houses with telegraph connections with interior cities were active, and the Street heard numerous "tips" in respect to some of the issues which have been particularly buoyant in recent weeks. Gains running from 1 to 3 points were common at the end of the day.

While the impression continued strong in brokerage circles that the purchases of professional traders were most influential in the rise, a survey of current information from trade sources raised the question of whether or not underlying business conditions were having some reflection among stocks. The mercantile agencies reported a gradual improvement during the week in the distribution of various sorts of goods, and stress was laid upon the increasing optimism found in many directions. Underneath this sentiment lies the realization that economic unsettlement, much dreaded a few weeks ago, is not developing, and the excellent situation of the Winter wheat crop is drawing fresh attention day by day. Dun's Review notes that commercial failures reported this week, numbering 132 in the United States, are nine less than the week before, twenty-five less than the week before that and eighty-one less than in the corresponding week last year. The time for Spring sowing is drawing near, and reports show that soil conditions in the agricultural regions as a whole are about all that could be desired. Greater activity is recorded in the building material markets, and the movement to adjust prices for many products of the forest and the mill is looked to as a sign of co-operation between producer and consumer which should have important results later on.

The detailed statistics of our foreign trade in February and the eight months of the fiscal year which appeared yesterday emphasized the extent to which other nations are dependent upon the United States for supplies. The fact that the excess of exports to Europe in February was $117,000,000 greater than in the corresponding period of 1917 lends significant color to expectations of further great shipments, especially in the light of economic developments over there, which are coming to public attention daily. The indications that March returns will make a strong showing is supplied in the statement by Bradstreet's that wheat exports in the week ended March 27 totaled 5,894,334 bushels, an increase of 580,000 bushels over the preceding week and a gain of 1,400,000 bushels over this week a year ago.

Liberty bonds gained a little ground, presumably through the sentimental influence of Secretary Glass's announcement of payment dates for the forthcoming issue. The fact that subscribers will have a longer period than in the previous loans in which to pay in their money had, of course, no direct application to the old bonds, but the liberal provision for payments was interpreted as a forerunner of liberal terms in respect to other features surrounding the Victory Liberty offering, one of which will be the interest rate. French exchange sagged to a level where a dollar would buy 6.03 francs for sight remittance, while the sterling market continued steady. Call money was firm at 6 per cent. nearly all day, an easier tendency developing after the bulk of week-end demands had been filled.

POUND STERLING AT $4.57.

Increased Demand for Dollars Cause of Depreciation.

LONDON, March 28.—An increased demand for dollars for remittance in connection with transactions sent New York cable transfers down below $4.57 today. A large business was done at varying rates, with the closing around $4.56⅝.

This depreciation of the pound sterling has already been reflected here in the prices of commodities purchasable in America, notably silver, which today touched 50 pence the ounce.

Prices Steady on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, March 28.—Prices were barely steady on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes, 62 francs, 80 centimes for cash. Exchange on London, 27 francs 70 centimes. Five per cent. loan, 89 francs, 40 centimes. The dollar ranged from 8 francs 95 centimes to 6 francs 2 centimes.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Treasury Certificate Issue Postponed.

It was announced yesterday at the Federal Reserve Bank that the Secretary of the Treasury would make no offering of Treasury certificates of indebtedness on April 3, as he would have done had he adhered to his program of issuing these certificates every two weeks. It was not announced when the next offering would be made. The reason for the postponement, it was said, was that the Treasury was well in funds now as a result of tax payments on March 15 and because of the lessened drain since the end of hostilities. In the period since Dec. 5, 1918, and up to March 13, 1919, the Secretary of the Treasury has offered eight issues of these certificates, totaling more than $4,500,000,000. The share of the New York Federal Reserve district was $1,575,600,000.

Money Here and in London.

The New York money rate is about 6 per cent. for call, possibly ¼ of 1 per cent. less for choice time loans and between 4¼ and 4¾ per cent. for discounts. In London, with exchange on New York at a discount of nearly 6 per cent., the call money rate is about 3 per cent. and the discount rate is not above 3½ per cent. Ordinarily, either the exchange rate or the money rate would have to shift. With exchange against her, London would see her money rate rise. And this may well be what is going to take place in a very short time. It was reported yesterday that concerns having balances in London were bringing them home to lend or invest here. With the approach of the Victory Loan, it is expected that the New York money market will continue to harden and on employment of funds the New York market is easily more attractive than that of London. But against this there is a big loss in exchange already, and unless the possessor of the London balance believes the sterling rate is going to break further the shift is dangerous.

"The West Is Buying."

The old favorite cry of the stock market bull, "The West is buying," is again heard in Wall and New Streets, and is believed by many of those whose chief occupation it is to read ticker quotations. The story is entirely circumstantial, but, even so, it is also plausible, for the West is supposed to be flush and willing to "take a chance" in stocks. New Street insists that the West is running away with the market, and the West does not deny it. The wire houses, to judge from the activity of their brokers on the Exchange and the number and volume of "give ups" reported for their account by other brokers, surely are doing a flourishing business. But there may be some question as to whether all of it is speculation for the rise, or if all of it represents new public participation. Possibly some of it is from professionals who want people to think "the West is buying."

B. R. T.'s Interest.

It was reported yesterday that the referee in the Brooklyn Rapid Transit receivership had recommended to Receiver Garrison that payment on the April 1 coupon on the B. R. T. first gold 5 per cents. be deferred for ninety days. A hearing on this recommendation will be held today in the Federal District Court. Usually in such cases the court accepts the referee's opinion, and for this reason it is believed the payment will be postponed for the three months.

Steel Very Strong.

United States Steel common sold within ¼ of par yesterday and all the Street rejoiced, save those few pessimistic persons who are short of the stock. The pamphlet report of the corporation will be out early next week, and wherever men congregated yesterday one might hear all about what the report would show. Judging by the various reports of what this will be, it must be concluded that the report will be a most wonderful instrument; it will have to be to show all the things men—different men, that is—except it to show. In one particular, however, all agreed. That is, the report will be "favorable."

Back on the High Seas.

While the recent information that the United States Shipping Board controlled 1,698 steamships and sailing vessels, with an aggregate of more than 9,158,000 tons, and local shipowners and shippers are willing to admit that 46 per cent. of all the shipping between American and foreign ports now flies the American flag, in comparison with 9.7 per cent. when the war began, there is growing uneasiness over the restrictive regulations of the Seaman's act. Shipowners reiterate that if the American manufacturer is to be allowed to lay his goods down in foreign markets in competition with Great Britain and other foreign countries the operating expenses of American ships must be cut and cut soon.

A Quiet Bond Market.

Bond men report that business is exceedingly dull, and that while there is a good market for short-term issues which are offered on sufficiently attractive terms, the inquiries for even this class of security are not as heavy as they might be. Houses of issue are apparently prepared for the usual few weeks of dullness before the opening of the Government war bond campaign and little is expected in the way of new financing until after the loan has been subscribed. In some quarters there have been suggestions that there might be one or two preferred stock offerings by industrial corporations, but this has not advanced further than gossip and will probably be an over-the-counter transaction when it does take place.

Discuss Freight Rate Increase.

There has been some discussion among railroad men and bankers of the probability of further freight rate increases by the Railroad Administration to meet wage increases already made and others which are pending. As yet there has been no definite indication from the Administration that such increases were being considered, but railroad operators have been talking the matter over and the opinion has been expressed that a 10 per cent. advance would be necessary to relieve taxpayers from paying a large deficit this year. The volume of freight traffic will be the deciding factor in this situation, and some railroad men say that even with a much better freight business in the remaining months of the year there will be a deficit, and its size may be influenced to a large extent by the decision of the Railroad Administration on the freight rate question.

South American Coppers Advance.

The South American coppers led the whole copper group forward in yesterday's stock market. Chile Copper was the outstanding feature, closing for the day 24¾, a net gain of 3⅝ points, with Cerro de Pasco also up 1⅜ points to 36⅞ at the close. Anaconda, Butte and Superior, Inspiration, Nevada Consolidated, Utah, and others, while not traded in on a broad scale, followed the market with fractional gains. Buying of substantial quality attributed to sources close to both of the South American concerns, appeared early and the two stocks developed a following before the close of the day.

Two Favorites Respond.

Central Leather and American Hide and Leather preferred responded yesterday to reports that the British embargo on the importation of leather into the United Kingdom had been modified. The modification will now permit the importation into the United Kingdom of sole leather, wax splits, rough splits, and buff leather, as well as cheaper grades. Central Leather was in good demand, and sold up to 73¾, easing off ⅛ at the close, with a net gain for the trading session of more than a point. American Hide and Leather preferred, on a smaller turnover, also moved up more than a point.

BRITAIN SEEKS OIL INDUSTRY CONTROL

TO FORM SPECIAL MINISTRY

Government Would Back Operations in Mexico, United States, Persia, Turkey, and Egypt.

LONDON, March 13, (Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—The British Government is going into the oil business. Profiting by the costly experience of the war, when it was compelled to send enormous sums into other countries in payment for petroleum and petroleum products, it has adopted a clearly defined oil policy and is already credited with financially backing what is expected here to develop into the most powerful oil producing, refining and transporting enterprise in the history of the industry.

Stories concerning the Government's policy have been in circulation on a number of occasions and recently were revived by reports that the Royal Dutch and Shell oil interests were about to take control of the Mexican Eagle Oil Company, an important member of the Lord Cowdray group.

The Government's first important move, it was stated by authorities here, will be the creation of a permanent ministry, the machinery for which exists in the petroleum department which looked after the Empire's oil interests during the war and which is still an active institution. This machinery will be charged with acting as petroleum adviser for all departments, including the army, and, what is more important, the navy; it will have control over concessions for the development of possible oil territory within the Empire and will advise and assist British companies or individuals in obtaining concessions and leases in foreign countries, as well as helping them to conduct their business. A large part of the undeveloped oil territory of the world lies under British dominion. According to British law, the capital of every oil company operating in British territory must be not less than 60 per cent. British-owned, and all the control must be in the hands of British citizens.

The next move in the development of this policy, it is asserted, is the combination under the protection of the Government of the most important oil companies operating in British and neutral countries, if they are wholly or partly British owned. These include such concerns as the Royal Dutch, the Shell, and the Lord Cowdray interests.

It recently became known that the Government was buying the holdings of British citizens in the Royal Dutch, the ownership of which was then conceded to be 60 per cent. Dutch and 40 per cent. British. Accompanying these statements were equally interesting stories concerning the Shell Transport and Trading Company's securities, whose ownership was closely allied to that of the Royal Dutch. The Royal Dutch and Shell groups control immense production in many lands, including properties in the Oklahoma, Kansas, Texas, California, and Wyoming fields.

Interlocking directorates give it a commanding place in such companies as the Burmah Oil Company and the Anglo-Persian Oil Company. The British Government is the largest stockholder in the last-named company, while the Anglo-Saxon Petroleum Company, an important subsidiary of the Royal Dutch and Shell interests, has a selling contract with the Anglo-Persian Company, which brings all these interests close together.

It is generally accepted in London that the British Government is not altogether satisfied with its 40 per cent. interest in the Royal Dutch and would like to have a more important financial place in the corporation. This sentiment, it is said, is seconded by the most important Dutch stockholders, who feel they would enjoy added safety for their investment if the financial and military power of the British Government were back of them.

The Pearson oil interests, meaning the Lord Cowdray companies, are perhaps the most powerful of all the British companies. Being pioneers and developers of wildcat territory, they were compelled by force of circumstances to enter the refining, transporting, and marketing fields. Recent reports have been that the Pearson interests were desirous of getting out of the business, and well informed persons, in view of the Government's petroleum policy, look to it as a logical purchaser.

The Cowdray interests include important holdings in Mexico, where they have developed a large producing field and brought it to a high state of efficiency, including refineries and ships. They also have concessions which give them the oil control of Trinidad and the best parts of Algeria, while the wildcatting now going on in England under their direction for the Government will give them a commanding place in the British Isles if oil is discovered here. They have always employed American geologsts and drillers in their operations and have taken advantage of the experience gained by Americans in the early days of the oil discoveries in Pennsylvania. Even now the operations in England are being largely carried on by Americans.

Of the undeveloped territory to which the British Government is said to be looking, none is more important than that which is known as the Persian field. Here the Anglo-Persian Oil Company has a concession of 500,000 square miles, on which a number of wells have been drilled and which already has an annual profit production of 10,000 barrels. Geologists are of the opinion that this field extends into Mesopotamia, where British influence is already so firmly established as to make development there only a matter of detail. Other sections of Turkey are said to be "oil country," while the Egyptian field, developed during the war, is considered of more than passing importance. British oil men believe Central Africa will eventually become an important producing centre, and their eyes are turning in that direction.

Close analysis of the oil companies which make up the principal corporations in which British capital and the British Government are interested disclose an intimacy of directorate which, while it might not exactly be classed as "interlocking," borders very closely on that term, thus making it only a matter of business detail for the British Government, should it extend its oil operations, to become a leading influence in all of them.

COTTON MARKET SEESAWS.

Erratic Movements Dictated Mainly by Technical Conditions.

Yesterday's cotton market was decidedly two-sided. It began virtually unchanged and then rose steadily until prices were up 20 points or so. After that it broke badly, carrying the price level down 25 to 40 points under the previous night's closing. But later in the day it became firm again and rose to new high marks for the day and the best prices, incidentally, seen in more than a week. It reacted again after that and closed unchanged to 20 points down for active old-style contracts and 5 to 20 points advance for active new-style contracts.

As on other days for the last few weeks, the movements were dictated mainly by technical conditions arising from within the market, and outside news and developments had only small influence. Wall Street houses, which had been selling for the last few days, were buyers, and Liverpool was credited with buying more than her sales amounted to. The South was said to be about evenly divided on commitments.

What news there was was mostly good. The European situation appeared more favorable and the Liverpool market did better than expected. The spot markets did well, the local market sustaining a loss of 5 points, while most of the Southern markets were unchanged. The approach of the week-end probably accounted for a good deal of the evening up in the late afternoon.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

SEES BIG PROBLEM IN FOREIGN CREDITS

James H. Perkins Says America Must Grant Long-Deferred Payments to Get Trade.

TELLS OF CONDITIONS

Vice President of City Bank Asserts It Is Our Place to Refinance European Industry.

The biggest problem facing American business today is that of conducting foreign trade with Europe, according to James H. Perkins, Vice President of the National City Bank and recently returned from France, where he held a commission in the American Army. Mr. Perkins made this assertion in an address delivered yesterday before the Bond Club at its regular monthly luncheon at the Bankers' Club, 120 Broadway.

It will be necessary for the United States to provide means whereby Europe can pay for what we sell her. It will be impossible for the European nations to pay by sending us gold, and payment by sending us goods and merchandise will be decidedly limited, Mr. Perkins believes. Only by our granting long credits can we hope to sell abroad.

Mr. Perkins then proceeded to draw a picture of the European customer to whom he would have us grant credits. "To begin with," he said, "there is Russia, absolutely in a state of anarchy. The great Central Powers, with Russia, representing a population of 250,000,000 people, or thereabouts, all in a state approximating anarcy. You do not know how you are going to do business with them.

"You turn to the Allies. They are, of course, in better shape, but still they are up against it very hard. For four years a large portion of their producing population has been in the business of destruction. Their wealth, as a result, is not what it should be. Their debts are enormous and their people, particularly in France, are going to take a long time to readjust themselves."

In France, Mr. Perkins said, there is a feeling that it was France which bore the brunt of the struggle; now it is time for others, presumably the United States, to come in and carry the load. "The French have got to get out of that frame of mind and put all the wonderful vigor which they have employed in the war into the building up. That is a vital element in the credit situation of France."

The situation in England, the speaker thought, was better than that of any other country except the United States, but at that was far from satisfactory. England, he said, had a social situation which was making for a great deal of unrest and was being described as a sort of incipient or peaceful revolution. Financially, England had suffered tremendously, Mr. Perkins explained. Before the war we had to pay Europe, mainly England, $250,000,000 a year in interest charges. That had all been changed, for today Europe had to pay us probably $500,000,000 interest charges. That, Mr. Perkins pointed out, meant a difference to Europe of $750,000,000 a year.

Speaking of the social unrest in Europe, Mr. Perkins said he believed that if Germany, Austria, and Russia could put every man to work, and could show them where their next meal was to come from, the Bolschevist threat would vanish immediately. This, he thinks, places a big burden on America, for as Mr. Perkins views it, it is our place to see that European industry is refinanced.

Mr. Perkins expressed the belief that the natural vigor of the European people, backed by the wealth of the United States, would enable the European nations to again become wealth producers, which would benefit the whole world. From purely selfish motives he thought it necessary that we do our full share, for, as he expressed it: "For anybody to say that we can continue to enjoy prosperity with from four to five hundred million people in what has been the centre of civilization living in a condition of want or a condition of anarchy is absurd. It is exactly like burying your head in the ground and refusing to see what goes on around you."

Before Mr. Perkins delivered his address the Bond Club adopted resolutions pledging its members to work for the forthcoming Victory Loan.

NEW LOANS TO RAILROADS.

War Finance Corporation Advances $12,549,200 More.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Advances by the War Finance Corporation to keep the rail transportation system of the country in operation until Congress can make necessary appropriations reached a total of nearly $135,000,000 today. Eleven more loans were announced, amounting to $12,549,200.

The Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific received the largest sum today, $2,800,000. The Lehigh Valley was supplied with $2,400,000, the New York Central $2,000,000, and the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul $1,600,000. All the other loans were for less than seven figures, as follows: Michigan Central $992,000, Chesapeake and Ohio $800,000, Boston and Maine $728,000, Wheeling and Lake Erie $618,000, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis $340,000, Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh $268,800, and Lake Erie and Western $62,400.

THE CONDITION OF TRADE.

Business improvement in many directions is reported this week by the mercantile agencies. The approach of Spring weather is having an effect, but other influences outside of this are noted. Bradstreet's says:

> Factors of the week in purely domestic trade circles have included enlarged buying both at wholesale and retail; reports of excellent moisture, soil and Winter-wheat crop conditions; the beginning of Spring-wheat seeding in the southern areas of the Northwest; more life in building trades and in lumber and in other materials; preparations making for an early opening of navigation on the Great Lakes; good sentimental effects from and some enlargement of actual buying of iron and steel following last week's cut in prices; larger than expected demand for desirable grades of wool at the Government auctions; a continuance of the gains shown in clearings as compared with a year ago, and a slight cutting down of the unemployment totals, this latter news being accompanied by reports from the Northwest and South that in those sections unemployment is negligible, or that an actual need of labor, especially farm help, is already perceptible.

Dun's Review says:

> The reawakening of commercial activities, although still slow to appear in not a few instances, is each week broadening in its scope. After several months of general readjustment, the most gratifying feature is the absence of conspicuous economic unsettlement, as failure statistics demonstrate, and optimism regarding the future characterizes practically all reports. That business will further recover during the second quarter, if at a lowering of the war-time level of profits, there is confident expectation, and conditions in the larger industries are now better by reason of the partial breaking of the lull in steel and copper.

LIBERAL TERMS FOR LOAN.

Deferred Payments May Be Extended Over Period of Six Months.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Terms of payment in the new Victory Liberty Loan announced today are the most liberal ever offered by the Government. Deferred payments may be extended over a period of six months, from May 10 to Nov. 11.

Secretary Glass announced today that 10 per cent. of subscriptions would be due with application on or before May 10, another 10 per cent. on or before July 15, and four subsequent installments of 20 per cent. each on or before Aug. 12, Sept. 9, Oct. 7, and Nov. 11. Accrued interest on deferred installments will be due with the last payment.

Payment in full can be made May 20, if desired, the 10 per cent. with application having been paid prior to May 10. Payment also can be completed on any installment date with accrued interest.

Terms of the Fourth Liberty Loan permitted deferred payments only over four months, and the installments were arranged so that 50 per cent. became due in two weeks, from Jan. 16 to Jan. 30, 1919. In that loan banks subscribed for hundreds of millions of dollars and then allowed the public to pay for them over a period of ten months. If similar extensions are given in this loan, treasury officials said, the result should be a great stimulation of popular subscriptions, because the public would have approximately a year in which to pay for their bonds.

$470,514 FOR SUBWAYS.

Estimate Board Appropriates Funds for Second Quarter Work.

The Board of Estimate yesterday voted an appropriation of $470,514 for the expenses of the Public Service Commission during April, May, and June, which comprise the second quarter of the year, the amount being the same as that appropriated for the first quarter. The commission had asked for an increase of $50,000 to meet an anticipated increase in its operating expenses. Of the total appropriation $460,738 in corporate stock was specified for the personal service schedule or salary roll of the commission, and $9,776 in revenue bonds for the Audit Bureau. The appropriation, it was intimated, might be increased later if the board considers it necessary.

PLAN DOUBLE INCOME TAX.

British Commission Appointed to Inquire Into the Question.

LONDON, March 28, (via Montreal.) Appointment of a Royal Commission to inquire into the question of the income tax was announced today by Austen Chamberlain, the Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Mr. Chamberlain said that the Commission would confer with the financial representatives of the Dominion Governments regarding a double income tax before any definite decision was reached.

Won't Requisition Canned Salmon.

LONDON, March 28, (via Montreal.)—In order that canned goods importers and distributers may take the necessary steps for purchasing their supplies of the 1919 pack of American and Canadian canned salmon the Food Controller announces that it is not his present intention to purchase this pack or requisition the supplies on arrival in England. If, however, circumstances render it necessary, maximum prices may be imposed for the sale of this salmon.

World Film Corporation

To the Stockholders and Holders of Voting Trust Certificates of World Film Corporation:

The Board of Directors of the Corporation have adopted a plan for the readjustment of the Corporation's finances, which they believe will meet all necessary future requirements. This plan contemplates the authorization and issue of $1,000,000 par value of 7% Cumulative First Preferred Stock, and $3,000,000 par value of 7% Non-Cumulative Second Preferred Stock, shares to be of the par value of $5 each, with the right to each voting trust certificate holder to subscribe for the same on the following basis:

Upon deposit of outstanding voting trust certificates duly assigned in blank, and payment of forty cents per share represented thereby, each despositor of one share shall be entitled to receive, when the plan shall have been declared operative and the new stock ready for delivery, First Preferred Stock to a par value of eighty cents, and Second Preferred Stock to a par value of $2.50.

Voting trust certificates should be deposited with and payment of one-half of the cash subscription above mentioned (by certified check, money order, or cash) made to The New York Trust Company, Depositary, 26 Broad Street, New York City, on or before April 10, 1919; the remainder of said cash subscription to be paid when the plan shall have been declared operative. The plan may be declared operative when voting trust certificates for 400,000 shares shall have been deposited. Holders of voting trust certificates to the extent of 250,000 shares have already agreed to subscribe under this plan.

Further particulars and details of the plan may be obtained upon application to the Depositary, or to the Corporation at its office, 130 West 46th Street, New York City.

DIGEST OF SPECIFICATIONS

CHIEF OF CONSTRUCTION DIVISION OF THE ARMY,
7th and B Sts., S. W.
Attention Lt. Col. Couper, Washington, D. C.

and the envelope, which should show the bidder's name and address, should be plainly and conspicuously marked "SEALED PROPOSAL. DO NOT OPEN." Special envelope will be furnished on request, for this purpose.

The Division Storehouses, the utilities serving them, and the rifle and artillery ranges are not included in this sale.

Bids must be submitted for an entire camp, with the exception of the Division Storehouse Area. In addition to the total bid there must be alternative proposals based on the possible withholding of either or both of the following:

(a) The Base Hospital
(b) The Remount Station

Should the Base Hospital or Remount Station be retained, the public utilities, such as sewer, water, electric lights and trackage serving them, will be retained also.

Base Hospitals at the following Camps have been turned over to the Public Health Service, and they are not included in this sale, nor are the utilities serving them: Camps Beauregard, Hancock, Logan and Sevier—others may or may not be withdrawn.

Bids may be submitted for one or more camps, or any combination of camps.

Bidders must assume all land and property damage claims. Maps showing the areas involved will be furnished, on request, and will form a part of the contract. Infromation as to the conditions of the leases will be furnished by the constructing quartermasters at the respective camps. The successful bidder must furnish to the Government satisfactory releases of all land and property damage claims or a guarantee to either furnish such releases within one year from the date thereof or to save the Government harmless against all such claims, such guarantee to be secured by a satisfactory bond in a sum predicated upon the condition at each camp.

Bids must hold good for sixty (60) days from date of opening and the awards will be announced within that time together with the dates on which the purchasers will be given possession.

Possession to be given as camps are released by the General Staff of the Army, but in no case will date possession is given be more than five (5) months from date bids are opened.

The Government reserves the right to make the award as seems to best conserve the interests of the Government, to accept any combination-bid or to reject any or all bids.

Purchasers must assume liability for damage done to land or improvements thereon and for injury to their employees or third parties as a result of the performance of the contract.

Buildings not owned by the Government and those erected by benevolent and charitable organizations are not included in the sale.

The Government will continue the leases for not more than (5) months after possession is given and the purchaser must remove all buildings, structures, etc., within that time and must assume all obligations thereafter due to violation of this provision—including the renewal of leases.

Purchasers must remove debris in a manner satisfactory to the Government unless specifically released by the property owners.

Tentative proposals have been received for the purchase of Camps Beauregard and Sheridan for use of the National Guard. Formal proposals covering such a proposition will be given preferred consideration.

Telephones, fire-fighting apparatus and equipment, refrigerators, refrigerating machinery, incinerator plants, laundry equipment, construction equipment, small tools, tents, rolling stock, live stock, stoves, ranges, range-boilers, supplies, and surplus material or equipment not installed, will not be included in this sale.

Fire risk will be assumed by the purchaser after delivery of the camp. Sale will be cancelled if twenty-five (25%) per cent of the camp is destroyed by fire prior to date possession is given.

TERMS: Certified check payable to the Treasurer of the United States for twenty (20%) per cent of the amount of the bid will be required to accompany each bid. This check will be applied upon the purchase price of the successful bidder and in the event that such bidder fails to consummate the contract of purchase such check shall remain the property of the United States. Balance of the purchase price to be paid at the time the contract is executed.

In addition to the above a bond, in the sum of twenty-five thousand ($25,000) dollars for each camp, satisfactory to the Government will be required insuring compliance with the terms of the sale.

Further information and detailed specifications, which will form a part of the contract, may be obtained from the constructing quartermasters at the respective camps or from

HOLD VAST RESOURCES.

Banking Institutions Under Skinner Had $6,917,891,312 on Feb. 21.

ALBANY, March 28.—The total resources of all institutions under the supervision of State Superintendent of Banks George I. Skinner on Feb. 21 amounted to $6,917,891,312, according to figures just compiled by the State Banking Department. The total was made up as follows: State banks, $1,120,032,034; trust companies, $3,344,184,123; private bankers, $22,037,247; other institutions, $2,431,637,908.

Total deposits of State banks, trust companies, and private banks amounted to $3,465,382,642, an increase of $73,947,706 over the previous reports of Nov. 1, 1918. The State banks contributed $33,982,616, the trust companies $37,165,191, and the private banks $2,799,899 to this expansion.

Surplus figures given for State banks and trust companies show that the former had surpluses of $60,117,535, a gain of $941,373, and that trust companies held surpluses of $200,733,357, an increase of $12,846,679 over the returns of Nov. 1.

WILLYS-OVERLAND REPORT.

Quick Shift from War Work to Automobile Construction.

The Willys-Overland Company gives in its report for 1918 a picture of the conversion of a large automobile manufacturing concern into an organization devoted almost wholly to war work. The statement, issued yesterday, shows that when the armistice was signed last November the company was approaching its greatest stride in making airplane and engine parts, gun fittings, &c. The factories were working at 80 per cent. of capacity on war materials, with 100 per cent. set as the mark for the end of the year. On the day that fighting ended the company had $75,000,000 in Government orders on its books, most of which were canceled shortly afterward.

In consequence of the year's large contracts the net profits, amounting to $11,510,645, were the largest in the corporation's history, exceeding those of 1917 by $317,155. This sum remained after all expenses had been met and war taxes paid. The management reserved $2,457,842 for renewals and depreciation, against $1,330,798 the year before; wrote off $1,317,800 for tool replacements and $1,000,000 of book value of investments in other companies, chiefly in the Curtiss Aeroplane and Motor Corporation. Because of these extensive reservations the balance for dividends, after interest was paid, was less than in 1917. It amounted to $5,536,254, a decline of $585,290. In terms of the common stock the balance was equal to $2.90 per share, after allowing for preferred stock dividends, against $3.16 on the outstanding shares in the preceding year.

The balance sheet as of Dec. 31 disclosed current assets totaling $55,315,716, of which $10,756,961 was in cash and $34,312,681 in inventories. Against this assembly of assets stood $32,895,216 of current liabilities, making the net working capital $22,420,500. The surplus at the end of the year was $26,340,885, an increase during 1918 of something more than $2,000,000.

John N. Willys, President, says in his statement to stockholders:

"All passenger car production had ceased Nov. 1, 1918. By Jan. 2, or within less than 50 days after 'stop-work' instructions on war contracts, we were again turning out automobiles, and by Jan. 31 were shipping 315 cars daily."

REAL ESTATE FIELD

As a site for a fourteen-story apartment house containing small housekeeping suites, Edgar A. Levy purchased a plot 60 by 80 feet on the southeast corner of Seventy-first Street and West End Avenue yesterday from the estate of Eliza T. Griswold of Philadelphia.

The property, which was held at $110,000, is at present improved with three four-story private dwellings. It is known as 278, 280, and 282 West Seventy-first Street, and fronts 80.3 feet on West End Avenue and 60 feet on Seventy-first Street. Pease and Elliman negotiated the sale.

$2,000,000 Times Square Deal.

The Woodbury G. Langdon Company, Inc., leased to the Rudolph Wurlitzer Company for a term of years the plot of land Nos. 116-122 West Forty-second Street through to and including Nos. 119-127 West Forty-first Street, comprising 13,230 square feet.

In the near future the present buildings will be razed and a new structure erected for occupancy by the Wurlitzer Company.

The rental of the land and cost of erecting a new building involves a transaction of over $2,000,000. The brokers in this deal were William Cruikshank's Sons, representing the owners, and Cross and Brown, representing the tenant.

$1,000,000 Fifth Avenue and Thirty-fifth Street Lease.

The entire eleven-story building at 3, 5, and 7 West Thirty-fifth Street, on a plot 75 by 100, has been leased for a term of sixteen years to Best & Co., who occupy the adjoining building at the northwest corner of Fifth Avenue and Thirty-fifth Street.

Several years ago Samuel Keller Jacobs of Walter Emmerich & Co., operating as the First Leaseholding Company, acquired a long term lease on this building from Brunswick Realty Company, who erected this loft structure on leasehold land from Vincent Astor for a sixty-three-year term.

The store since the erection of the building has been occupied by the Exchange Buffet Restaurant, and Best & Co. have each year taken an additional loft in this building for their own occupancy, some of which floors are cut through to their Fifth Avenue building and are used as salesrooms.

The annual rental is in excess of $60,000 for the building and the total rental for the term is in excess of $1,000,000. Charles F. Noyes Company represented Samuel Keller Jacobs, the owner of the lease, while Robert P. Zobell conducted the negotiations for Best & Co.

Education Notes.

There have been placed on the eligible list for License No. 1 the names of the following: D. S. Holton, 97.33; G. C. Zirinsky, 83.316; A. E. Castor, 80.2; E. O. Davy, 75; F. D. Peters, 72.5; J. A. Van Loan, 72; A. W. Moloney, Mrs. B. F. Owens.

A committee of teachers in Newtown High School, Elmhurst, L. I., has opened a campaign for a school memorial tablet. They hope to be able to erect within a few months a bronze tablet in honor of former students or teachers who entered the military or naval service of the United States during the world war. The necessary funds are to be secured through subscription and through a series of entertainments. Sheer's Theatre, at Elmhurst, presents the first number on this program of patriotism on April 3. Friends knowing of former students who ought to have a place on this list will confer a favor by sending to the committee at once the names of such students, with the home address in each case. The list at present numbers 500, but the committee expects to obtain many new names through a canvass of the district.

The trial of Louis Jacobs, a teacher in P. S. 83, Manhattan, for conduct unbecoming a teacher, has been set for April 4. Papers were served upon him yesterday. When he was drafted, Aug. 5, 1918, he is alleged to have said that he was a conscientious objector and to have refused to put on a uniform. He was discharged from the service on Jan. 14, 1919.

Before receiving the request of the Board of Education to defer action on City Superintendent Ettinger's appeal for a committee to investigate the public schools of New York, the Regents of New York University appointed William H. Nottingham of Syracuse, Adelbert Moot of Buffalo, and James Byrne of Manhattan to make the investigation. As a result of this action Commissioner of Accounts Hirshfield will not make any attempt at an investigation of the accounts of the Board of Education until April 10. President Somers said yesterday that the Board of Education would aid the Regents' committee in its investigation in every possible way.

Applications for female nurse will be received until 4 P. M., on March 31. Candidates must be at least 21 years of age and not more than 50 on the closing date for the receipt of applications. The subjects and weights of the examination will be: Experience, 4; duties, 6; a qualifying physical examination will be given. The entrance salary is $960 a year. There are 74 vacancies in the Health Department.

United States.

The commission announces for April 29 an examination for assistant fuel engineer, for men only. Vacancies in the Bureau of Mines, Department of the Interior, for duty in Washington, or in the field, at salaries ranging from $1,620 to $2,160 a year, will be filled from this examination. The entrance salary will depend upon the qualifications of the appointee, certification to fill the higher-salaried positions being made from those who attain the highest average percentages in the examination. Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on physical ability, 10; essay on testing of fuels, with sketches, to be filed with the application, 25; education, training, and experience, 65. Applicants must have graduated in mechanical engineering from a college or university of recognized standing, and have had at least two years' experience in work dealing largely with fuel engineering and the management of boilers and furnaces. They will be admitted to this examination regardless of their age, but at the request of the department certification will be made of eligibles who have not reached their thirty-sixth birthday. Further information may be obtained from the commission, Washington, D. C.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, March 28.—The disturbance central over the Middle Atlantic States Thursday night moved northeastward and Friday night its centre was in the vicinity of Boston, where the barometer read 29.14 inches. During the last 24 hours this storm has been attended by gales on the Atlantic Coast at and north of Cape Hatteras and rains and snows in the Middle Atlantic States and New England.

The highest wind velocities reported in miles per hour were: New York, 76 northwest; Norfolk, 56 northwest; Nantucket, 52 southwest; Eastport, Me., 52 east; Washington and Cape Hatteras, 46 northwest.

Much colder weather has overspread the Middle Atlantic States and New England, while a change to warmer weather is in progress over the great Central Valleys and the Plains States. Mild temperature and fair weather prevailed generally in all western and southern districts.

In New England snow Saturday will be followed by fair weather Sunday, with lower temperature Saturday in Maine and on the Massachusetts coast. Elsewhere east of the Mississippi River the weather will be generally fair Saturday and Sunday.

Temperature will rise Saturday in the region of the Great Lakes, the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, and the East Gulf States, and Sunday in the Atlantic States.

Storm warnings remain displayed on the Atlantic Coast at and north of Cape Hatteras, and there is a storm of marked intensity central near Cape Cod moving northeastward.

Winds along the North Atlantic Coast Saturday and Sunday will be west and northwest gales, with rain and snow; Middle Atlantic Coast, northwest gales, diminishing by Saturday night, fair weather; South Atlantic Coast, fresh west winds and fair weather.

FORECAST: TODAY AND SUNDAY.

Eastern New York—Fair Saturday and Sunday; warmer Sunday.

Southern New England—Snow, followed by clearing Saturday, not much colder on the coast; Sunday fair, with rising temperature.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Fair and not quite so cold Saturday; Sunday fair and warmer.

Western New York—Fair Saturday and Sunday, with rising temperature.

Northern New England—Snow Saturday, much colder in Maine; Sunday fair, with rising temperature in Vermont and New Hampshire.

	1918.	1919.		1918.	1919.
3 A. M.	30	30	4 P. M.	46	26

HYLAN LEARNS OF MAN WHO GIBED

Mocking Megaphone Remarks, Justice Callaghan Writes, Reflect Much Brooklyn Sentiment

LIEUT. SIMPSON OWNS UP

Justifies His Derision When Mayor Was Late in Welcoming Ship Bringing Troops.

After a fortnight of anxiety Mayor Hylan yesterday learned who it was that ruffled his dignity when the artillery brigade of the Twenty-Seventh Division came home on March 13 by remarks shouted at him through a megaphone from the deck of the Natalie Mae. When the artillerymen of the Twenty-seventh on board the transport America steamed in to the Lower Bay on the morning of March 13, they could not behold the Mayor or anything like his official committee of welcome afloat to greet them at the gateway to the port. All that the soldiers saw was a tiny craft with flags flying and a cheering group on her deck. It was the Natalie Mae, which had put out at dawn upon the Bush terminal with relatives and friends of the home-coming soldiers.

Under the escort of the Natalie Mae the America came up the harbor. While the transport was somewhere in the general vicinity of her pier the boat, aboard of which were the Mayor and his Welcoming Committee, appeared. A band played, cheers were given, and then the brief silence which followed was suddenly broken by these remarks, shouted with clearness through a megaphone from the deck of the Natalie Mae:

> Back to Palm Beach! You are four hours late.
> Has the Mayor his silk bathing suit this morning?

Within a few hours after this occurrence the Mayor, through his secretary, Grover Whalen, started an inquiry to learn the identity of the person who had assailed his official dignity. Mr. Whalen found a clew which led straight to Brooklyn, to Supreme Court Justice Stephen Callaghan, in fact. So Mr. Whalen wrote to Justice Stephen Callaghan as "Mr. S. J. Callaghan, 584 Fourth Street, Brooklyn." Here is the letter:

City of New York.
Mr. S. J. Callaghan, 584 Fourth Street,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

Dear Sir: I have been advised that on the day the New Amsterdam arrived you were one of a party from the congregation of All Saints' Church on board the Natalie Mae. You may recollect that on that occasion there was a man with a megaphone on board the Natalie Mae who made a very insulting remark about the Chief Magistrate of the city. I thought possibly you might give me the name of the individual who expressed himself in such an unchristianlike spirit.

It is to be regretted that there are those who would attempt to mar a sacred and glorious occasion with words of a malicious character. Very truly yours,

GROVER WHALEN,
Secretary to the Mayor.

Justice Callaghan's Reply.

Mr. Whalen's, or Mayor Hylan's, request was answered quickly. "Mr. S. J. Callaghan," or Supreme Court Justice Stephen Callaghan, as he is known in Brooklyn, wrote yesterday to the Mayor owning up that he knew the culprit and the guilty one himself, Lieutenant William T. Simpson, formerly of the United States Aviation Corps, came forward with a full confession.

Mr. Grover A. Whalen,
City Hall, New York.

Dear Sir: I have your letter which bears date March 20. You are correctly informed. I was one of a party on board the Natalie Mae, which went down the bay almost to Sandy Hook and met the America, with about 7,000 returning soldiers of the 27th Division. The party on board this little boat was the only delegation that met the returning soldiers on that occasion. The Mayor and his committee did not get under headway in time to see the incoming troops until the America was about to dock.

You state in your letter that some one on board the Natalie Mae "expressed himself" about the Mayor in an "unchristianlike spirit." You request the name of the "individual" who made these remarks. He is Lieutenant William T. Simpson, formerly of the United States Aviation Corps. The remarks were undoubtedly addressed to the Mayor. As I recall them, they were as follows: Oh, how I hate to get up in the morning." "Has the Mayor his silk bathing suit this morning?" "Back to Palm Beach, you are four hours late."

You say that "it is to be regretted that there are those who would attempt to mar a sacred and glorious occasion." Let me say to you that the marring of this occasion was by the Mayor himself. He kept three city-owned craft, heavily ladened with friends of the returning soldiers, waiting to suit his pleasure and convenience for over two hours. The people on board these boats were deprived of meeting their relatives and friends, and the troops on this occasion were not welcomed except by the little party, of which I had the honor to be one.

You will recall that when these remarks were made they seemed to meet with the approbation of the people on board the city-owned vessels and on board the other vessels in the harbor. No doubt these remarks correctly reflect the sentiment of most of the people in Brooklyn, and show in a measure the utter contempt and disregard which they have for the Chief Magistrate of the city, and their disapproval of his signal failure to properly provide a welcome for the returning soldiers of this borough.

Yours truly,
STEPHEN CALLAGHAN.

Simpson's Letter to the Mayor.

Lieutenant William T. Simpson last evening made the following clean breast of it all, writing in answer to a similar letter of inquiry from the Mayor:

Brooklyn, March 28, 1919.
Hon. John F. Hylan,
Mayor, City of New York,
City Hall, New York City.

Dear Sir: I am in receipt of your letter of the 20th inst., stating that I was one of a party on board the Natalie Mae on the day the New Amsterdam arrived, and requesting the name of the person who expressed himself in an "un-Christianlike spirit" on that occasion. You also state that "it is to be regretted that there are those who would attempt to mar a sacred and glorious occasion with words of a malicious character."

I made the remarks on the occasion mentioned, although it was on the arrival of the America and not the New Amsterdam, as stated in your letter. I said on that occasion, "Oh, how I hate to get up in the morning," "Back to Palm Beach, you're four hours late," "Have you your silk bathing suit with you this morning?" These remarks certainly were not un-Christianlike, but most pertinent and fitting.

A party, of which I was a member, went down to meet the America on March 13, and from the time the boat came into view in Ambrose Channel, near Sandy Hook, until she had arrived opposite her dock at Hoboken, no boat representing the City of New York welcomed the returning soldiers aboard. The only boat to meet the America was the Natalie Mae. As the America was steaming past the Battery, although she had been at Quarantine for three-quarters of an hour, the City of New York boats, assigned to the Committee to Receive the Returning Soldiers, were seen to leave their docks.

I had been informed that the auxiliary of the 105th Field Artillery was to be on board one of the boats, and was to go down the bay and meet the husbands, sons and sweethearts arriving from France that morning. The arrival of the vessel at Sandy Hook was known. It had been in touch with Quarantine continuously, and arrived at Sandy Hook exactly at the hour expected. Therefore, the marring of a "sacred and glorious occasion" referred to in your letter, was solely because of your inability to arrive at the dock on time to meet the returning soldiers.

You know you were several hours late on that occasion. When I said "Back to Palm Beach; you're four hours late," the truth is that you were several hours late and were keeping several hundred men, women, and children from receiving their friends. Apparently the very truth of the remarks made is what prompts you to be so solicitous about marring a "sacred and glorious" occasion and to endeavor to evade your own responsibility.

People generally give you the palm for marring a "sacred and glorious" occasion. Your appointment of William Randolph Hearst as a member of the Mayor's Committee of Welcome has absolutely marred the sacred occasions of the soldiers' homecoming. As a Lieutenant in the Air Service, I can with truth say that the sentiment of officers and men alike was unanimous in condemnation of your action in appointing Mr. Hearst. A Lieutenant in France recently wrote me, stating: "As much as I want to get home, I hate to think of our being met by Hearst." No, Mr. Mayor, if any one has been responsible for marring sacred occasions, that person is yourself.

Palm Beach has figured before in your public career. As I recall, when your libel suits against The New York World were about to be brought to trial before Judge Cropsey you gave as your excuse for not being prepared to go to trial that you had been too busy in looking out for the people's interests. The counsel for The New York World, however, showed that you had spent several weeks at Palm Beach, where you were far away from the affairs of New York City and its people. You might have used this time to good advantage in preparing for the libel suits which were never brought to trial. A great majority of the people of this city would like to know why you could afford to allow a great New York daily to publish so-called defamatory articles with no answer from you. I believe you paid something like $2,000 as costs of court on the dismissal of your suits for the privilege of bluffing the people that these certain articles were untrue. Why not stop bluffing the people?

Yours very truly,

TYLER STICKS TO ALIBI.

Lewis Has Man in the West Checking Up Prisoner's Story.

Roy Tyler, who was brought from St. Louis in connection with the robbery at the East Brooklyn Savings Bank, and the murder of two of its officials, submitted yesterday to a continuation of his examination by District Attorney Harry E. Lewis. At the conclusion of the questioning, the District Attorney said that the prisoner holds to the story he told on Wednesday night and Thursday of being in the western part of the country on the day of the crime at the bank.

"There is not a wealth of identification in this case," said Mr. Lewis yesterday, "so we have to go very slowly. Within a few days everybody who saw the bank robbers will have a chance to see Tyler. We have a man out West at the present time checking up his alibi, and that is no easy job. It would have been easy for Tyler to manufacture an alibi, supposing he had been one of the actors in this tragedy. It would not have been difficult for him to make a round of some of the hotels and copy the names of those registered there—transients—on certain dates."

MORGAN & CO. AIDS EMPLOYMENT WORK

ANNOUNCED AT RALLY HERE

Kirchwey Reviews Task of Federal Agencies in Finding Jobs for Returning Soldiers.

Continuation of the work of the United States Employment service in this State, doomed to curtailment through failure of Congress to appropriate funds, has been assured by J. P. Morgan & Co., who agree to advance $100,000 for this purpose. Announcement was made last night by Dr. George W. Kirchwey, Acting Director of the service, at an employment rally held in Carnegie Hall under the auspices of the United War Work organizations, co-operating with the Federal agency.

Martin Conboy, Chairman of the Selective Draft Boards in this city, presided and employment problems were discussed by Mayor John F. Hylan, John B. Densmore, Director General of the United States Employment Service; George Gordon Battle, Chairman of the Community Councils of New York City; Abraham I. Elkus, Chairman of the Reconstruction Commission of the State of New York; I. Edwin Goldwasser, Executive Director, Federation of Jewish Philanthropic Societies of New York; Frank Morrison, Secretary of the American Federation of Labor; Eugene Kinckle Jones, Executive Secretary of the National Urban League, and Dr. Kirchwey.

Before reading the letter he had received from the banking firm, Dr. Kirchwey briefly reviewed the work of the service in the city and told of the value the local bureaus had been to the employers and the returning soldiers and sailors. He then read the following letter:

New York, March 21, 1919.
Dr. George W. Kirchwey, Acting Federal Director of State of New York, United States Employment Service, 469 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

Dear Sir: Referring to the various conversations with you, we are impressed with the importance of the United States Employment Service, and quite agree with you that it would be most unfortunate that that service should now be cut down owing to the failure of the Deficiency bill in the last Congress.

You have informed us that it must be cut down unless you can obtain up to $100,000 between now and the 1st of July of this year. In order to avoid this we will pay you, at such times as you call upon us between now and July 1, such amounts as you may need to continue the service, up to $100,000.

It is understood with you that, if, as, and when Congress may pass the Deficiency bill including the appropriation of money for this service, you will use your best efforts to have these advances repaid to us, although we understand that you yourself cannot undertake any obligation in this connection, nor can you pledge the Secretary of Labor. Yours very truly,

(Signed.) J. P. MORGAN & CO.

Mayor Hylan said that there was a moral obligation on the part of the citizens that the sacrifice made by the soldiers, sailors, and marines should not go unrewarded. Parades, celebrations, and the bestowing of medals with the accompanying cheers of the crowds all had their proper place, he said, but it should be remembered that these tributes did not aid the soldier in buying food and clothing.

"Let the Government take the four or five billion dollars, the actual amount needed had the war lasted several months longer, and start Federal improvements with it," Mayor Hylan said. "In addition to this, every State, city, and village in the United States should push forward their public improvements so as to give work to thousands of those seeking employment."

Mr. Densmore analyzed the labor situation in the United States, and said that when one considered the fact that there were still more than a million men in the army and half a million in the navy, coupled with the fact that this was the richest nation on the globe, there was no general reason for unemployment.

"I think by the middle of Summer the industrial readjustment will have taken place," Mr. Densmore said. "I confidently expect that we will see a shortage of labor in the near future. There is a command in the army of 'as you were' which means you resume your former position. I suggest that every employer familiarize himself with that command and he will help to clarify the unemployment situation."

Abram Elkus said that the returning soldier was not looking for philanthropy, but for a job to which he was by right entitled. He said that although the State Legislature had found time to pass a resolution appropriating money to not cure Bolshevism but to investigate it, that body had failed to provide funds for the Reconstruction Comission which he said was trying to aid in solving the problems of industrial readjustment.

The U. S. S. Recruit Band played at the rally and Miss Margaret Romaine of the Metropolitan Opera House sang "The Star-Spangled Banner."

SIGNET

Planned Advertising—Le Page's Glue

GLUE is a somewhat ordinary product, of which no one home uses a great deal. It would seem like an almost hopeless task to brand, trademark and make of it a piece of "selected merchandise." The owners of Le Page's Glue asked us, four years ago, to build a plan and to give our opinion as to the advisability of magazine advertising.

At the same time, they told us of a new product called Signet Ink, to which they wished us to also give our attention.

We spent months investigating the market for glue and ink. Then we submitted our plan. The glue advertising was started immediately. Today, beyond any question, Le Page's Glue is the leader. There are only two kinds of glue known to the American public—Le Page's, and all the others; new uses for Le Page's Glue are being discovered every day.

We waited two years before starting the ink advertising. Many things had to be made ready. In January 1918 the salesmen were called into Gloucester to be told of the Signet Ink campaign. They were furnished with impressive exhibits of the advertising. They started calling on the trade, and results came immediately. Large orders were taken from the start.

It is not easy for a manufacturer to break into an old established industry and to secure "consumer consciousness" in competition with established brands. But the owners of Signet Ink have already established a real business and the volume is growing every day. In The Saturday Evening Post for March 29th is a page advertisement which is an example of the advertising that has helped to secure this business.

There are great opportunities open, right now, to manufacturers who wish to build up a trademark goodwill on branded merchandise. We should be pleased to confer with interested executives.

"The National Spread"
Finest Grapes and Sugar
THE WELCH GRAPE JUICE CO.

Write for new Grapelade recipes, specially prepared by cooking experts.

PICK your own jury—make it twelve hungry small boys—set forth the best mince, apple, peach or berry pie you bake and a pie made with Welch's Grapelade.

The unanimous verdict will be that "Grapelade pie is the greatest hit in piedom."

There's daintiness and delicacy to Grapelade. Also there's the charm of variety, for a toothsome grape conserve is uncommon.

In Grapelade Welch has produced an uncommonly good uncommonness. It isn't grape jam, or grape jelly, or grape butter. It is really honey-of-grapes—all the grape but the skins, seeds and tartaric acid crystals—cooked with pure sugar to the consistency of marmalade. Smooth? Delicious? The right word hasn't been invented.

Order a jar from your grocer to-day and try Grapelade on bread, or biscuit, or toast. Then you will make a Grapelade pie. 15-oz. Glass Jar, 35c.; 25-oz. Enamel-lined Tin, 50c.
